HIS DREAM OF HEAVEN

Flyer's Antics on Ground Put Cop Up in Air

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

As County Highway Policeman Jack Davies says himself, he is a conscientious policeman. So, when cruising along Lake avenue on his special air race duty yesterday morning, and observing a Curtiss fledgling plane skim over the tops of cars parked south of Curtiss air field, he took notice.

Halting his motorcycle, he looked with astonishment as the plane scraped a telephone pole. He watched the strange pilot apparently lose complete control of the plane. Then, as motorists began leaving their cars before they completed parking them, to run from the field, Policeman Davies roused himself to action.

Cop Gets His Orders.

"First thing I did," he said later, "was to speed to headquarters in the hangar. Cliff Henderson had several phone calls by that time from persons who saw the ship. 'The Curtiss people have some student flyer who can't manage his plane,' they'd phoned, 'and he's about to crash and kill a lot of people.' So when I got there Henderson said: 'Go out and arrest him, quick!' I hurried off.

"When I get there, by golly, the fool student was hung up in a telegraph wire. It looked like that to me. But he got loose. I set out for him on my motorcycle.

"But when I got right on him, he turns and begins heading my way. I knew he couldn't run the darn thing. No telling what the fool would do. So I stepped on it. He was right behind me. Twice he landed, bumping up and down, a few feet from my rear wheel.

He Draws His Gun.

"I keeps turning around and yelling and waving at him, but whenever he comes down, he goes up again. People were standing all around the field yelling. Finally I figured there was no use losing my life because the fool couldn't stop the plane. So I pulls my gun.

"Then the plane stops and he crawls out. Smiling, by golly; he has the crust to smile.

"Before I could get my breath a motorist rushes up to him on foot. He's a big shot, see—a big insurance man, I think he was. 'Who the hell do you think you are-' he says to the pilot, and other language not fit for me to repeat.

"It makes him sore, naturally, to see the young green student standing there grinning. Then the young feller asks, just like nothing was wrong, 'And who are you, sir?' The big insurance man tells him then just who he is.

The Mystery Is Solved.

"Then the young feller—he was dressed in some old clothes, didn't look like nobody at all, see—he says, 'And I'm with the British air corps. My name's Atcherley. I'm awfully glad to meet you.'

"Then he turns to me and says, 'I was just having a little fun, old fellow. Was just getting ready to go up and take a dive at you.' And he laughs. Well, it wasn't funny to me. Then he says, 'I had permission to practice here for a stunt I'm going to do. Sorry, old fellow, if I put you to any trouble.' Trouble! What does he think it is to go 50 miles an hour over a cornfield on a motorcycle?

"So," concluded the policeman, "when some of the race officials found out about it and thought it was so funny they'd put me in on the program this afternoon I said, 'Nothing doing! You get somebody else.'"

When Lieut. R. L. R. Atcherley performed his stunt of "crazy flying" in a low powered student plane in the afternoon the order was reversed and a policeman chased him. Bill Beyer of a Chicago motorcycle squad played the part Davies declined to play. Beyer's motorcycle crashed in the stunt, but he was not hurt.

WARN ATLANTA FIRMS NOT TO HIRE NEGROES

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Constitution, quoting an unnamed official at the federal building, says the activities of members of an organization recently formed here under the name of the "American Fascist association and Order of Black Shirts" will be investigated by the federal grand jury which convenes Sept. 8.

The official is quoted as saying evidence has been found that a number of Atlanta business firms employing Negro labor have been called on by committees from the organization, who demanded the Negroes be discharged, and said if the demand were not complied with trouble might be expected.

Rum Runners Kill Deputy, Wound Another Official

Wife Bomber Blows Up Self in Texas Jail

Amarillo, Tex., Aug. 29.—(AP)—A. D. Payne, Amarillo attorney, held here awaiting trial on a charge of having dynamited his family car, killing his wife, last June 12, tonight killed himself in his cell at the Potter county jail here with a blast of dynamite.

Sheriff W. N. Thompson and the jailer rushed to the cell after hearing the blast and found Payne's mutilated body. His bed had been set afire. How he procured the dynamite they did not learn immediately. Noise of the explosion was heard several blocks.

Indicted for Murder.

The grand jury had returned an indictment against him at noon today charging murder in connection with his wife's death. His son, A. D. Payne Jr., 11, was crippled by the explosion, which demolished the automobile and killed his mother as they were driving from their home toward town on June 12.

The explosion occurred at 12:15 a. m. Two hours earlier about nine other prisoners had been grouped in the cell, but Payne told them he wished to be alone and all of them went away to bed excepting one man, an elderly prisoner. Payne asked him to remain and to carry his books and records to another cell upstairs.

That man had just returned to the cell and found Payne lying face downward in an upper bunk when the explosion occurred. The man was knocked to the floor, but was uninjured.

Other prisoners in near-by cells were thrown from their bunks by the force of the explosion.

Sheriff Is Puzzled.

Dr. J. R. Wrather, who was called immediately, said death had been instantaneous for Payne.

Sheriff Thompson said he was at a loss to understand how Payne procured the dynamite, as he had been watching him for weeks to prevent him from obtaining any weapon with which he might end his life.

S. PEABODY GOES UNDER KNIFE FOR THYROID DISEASE

Stuyvesant Peabody, president of the Peabody Coal company and the Consumers company, and a noted sportsman, underwent an operation yesterday in the Washington Boulevard hospital to correct an enlargement of the thyroid gland.

At the Peabody residence, 1525 North State parkway, it was said that Mr. Peabody was convalescing satisfactorily and expected to leave the hospital within a week. The operation was performed by Dr. Arthur Metz.

Few friends were aware of Mr. Peabody's ailment or that he had entered the hospital Thursday night. Fears that the patient's heart action might complicate the operation were allayed when he rallied. Mr. Peabody is 42 years old.

POLICE TRACING KIDNAP SLAYER BY MIDGET CAR

$2,600 in Rewards Spur Hunt.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Police tonight were working on a definite clew in their hunt for the slayer who kidnaped 8 year old Marvine Appel on Wednesday afternoon and left her mutilated body in an alley close to her home last night.

The suspect was described as a stocky, swarthy man under 30, smooth shaven, and wearing a gray suit and a straw hat. He was believed to be known to the police as a man of perverted tendencies, but they refused to make known his name.

The make of car driven by the slayer, a foreign "midget" model only recently introduced into this country narrowed the search.

Car Dealer Furnishes Lead.

The authorities learned that the South Bend dealer for this car has distributed only 13 in this community, 12 of which were to business concerns, and to individuals wholly unsuspected of any implication in the murder. This left the remaining man as the murder suspect.

Three men were taken into custody late tonight and one was said to tally closely with the description of a stranger seen loitering in the neighborhood of the Appel home for several days prior to the kidnaping. Another man was held at Elkhart. He gave his name as Frank B. Shuey of Greensburg, Pa. Authorities here said they doubted his connection with the crime.

$2,600 in Rewards Offered.

Horace Hamilton, captain of detectives in charge of the murder inquiry, has assigned most of his men to the investigation and rewards totaling $2,600 have been posted for the arrest of the killer. The city council took action today by appropriating $2,000 of the reward. The county board of commissioners posted a $500 fund and a South Bend newspaper inaugurated "a subscription reward" campaign with a $100 donation.

Spurred by the rewards, self-organized posses of armed neighbors tonight were combing the railroad yards near where the child's body was found. Police feared violence if one of these groups should come across any one who resembled the slaying suspect and tried to dissuade the volunteers.

Woman Attacked in Home.

The excitement caused by the Appel murder was increased today by an attempted assault on a middle aged woman by two men in her home.

Mrs. Josephine Wisniewski, aged 44, was ironing in her kitchen this afternoon when two men burst in and attacked her. She struggled and screamed, her cries attracting neighbors who called police. The men fled, but later were captured and taken to police headquarters to be viewed as suspects in the death of the girl. Police said the two men were drunk. They discounted the theory that they were implicated in the abduction and killing of Marvine.

The first definite clew uncovered today was a trace of blood stains in the attic of a private garage two doors down the alley from where the body was found. Coroner Crumpacker identified the stains as of human blood. Foot prints of a child's bare foot also were evident in the garage.

An old picture frame also was found in the garage and police said the picture wire used by the killer in garroting his victim could have been torn from that frame.

Mrs. Eula Appel, mother of the victime, was under a physician's care today.

Plan to Save $7,000,000 Stadium Told

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago Stadium, the world's largest sports palace, faces a financial crisis.

It was disclosed yesterday by Sidney N. Strotz, president and general manager of the Stadium corporation, that a recapitalization has been proposed to avert bankruptcy.

The Stadium, a $7,000,000 building located at 1800 West Madison street, was erected by the late P. T. Harmon. It was opened in March, 1929, with a world's championship boxing match between Tommy Loughran, holder of the light heavyweight title, and Mickey Walker.

Backed by Business Men.

The building of the Stadium fulfilled Harmon's dream. For two years he had endeavored to secure the capital. Finally after many tribulations he obtained the backing of a score of Chicago business leaders.

The Stadium was built during the period of the stock market boom, and in recent months deflation of the market added to the difficulties of maintaining the corporation. Harmon was the first president and general manager. Later, when the building failed to produce anticipated dividends Harmon was shelved and Sheldon Clark was elected president.

After a brief period Mr. Clark resigned and Sidney N. Strotz, became president and general manager.

Defaults on Sinking Fund.

The Stadium has held more than a score of boxing matches. It has presented six day bicycle races, hockey and basketball games, and housed conventions, including that of International Rotary.

An announcement issued by the stockholders' committee and mailed to the stockholders states:

"The company was compelled to default on the sinking fund provisions of the first mortgage due June 15 and the interest on the first mortgage due July 1.

"To carry on, it is necessary that the corporation raise at least an additional $300,000.

"The situation is of grave concern to the stockholders of this corporation, as, if additional funds are not raised, there will be a foreclosure by the mortgage holders and the wiping out of the stockholders and their interest in the corporation. This will mean a complete loss to the stockholders of their investment."

Outline Refunding Plan.

The stockholders' committee of John W. Snyder, David Beaton Jr., and Mr. Strotz proposed a plan of recapitalization. They said in part:

"The plan now being worked on necessitates the deposit by the stockholders, both preferred and common, of their stock with the reorganization committee. The officers of the company will then attempt to raise the additional capital from outside sources, using part of the surrendered stock as a bonus for that purpose. If this plan is consummated the result will be:

"1. Each purchaser of a second mortgage bond will receive no par common stock of the company in the ratio of 500 shares of stock for $1,000 of bonds.

"2. Each present holder of preferred stock will receive five shares of common in lieu of his present preferred.

"3. Each present holder of five shares of common will receive one share of common.

"4. The present preferred stock will be canceled or held in the treasury."

Mr. Strotz said yesterday that the stockholders had responded to the proposal and that he believed the reorganization would be completed within two weeks.

The Stadium has Sept. 11 and Sept. 26 assigned for shows next month. The card now arranged for Sept. 11 is a benefit for Patricia Harmon.

Yesterday Mr. Strotz leased the Stadium on Sept. 17 and Sept. 29 to Mique Malloy. Malloy is said to have paid $5,000 for each night.

This Is the Last Day of August Sales

The government started it. A U. S. survey conducted in Chicago showed that prices were down on all of the principal items in the family budget. The case was made stronger when Chicago stores announced slashing August sales. Still people weren't buying.

That's where the Tribune stepped in. This newspaper believed that it would be a service to our readers and to the stores to give widespread publicity to the lower prices. That we have done through this most prominent spot in the newspaper. Each day we've told of the rare buying opportunities afforded by the August sales in furs, furniture, dresses, shoes, men's wearing apparel and even food. It's a satisfaction to the Tribune that the stores are reporting increased sales, for it means at the same time that Tribune readers have saved many dollars. The last day to take advantage of the August sales has arrived. It's a great time to buy.

FALLS AT RACES AS DESIGNER IS TRYING FLIGHT

George Fernic Third Victim at Meet.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

George G. Fernic of New York was killed yesterday in a plane of radical design which he had built to correct the flying fault that sent it diving a hundred feet into a group of parked airplanes. The tragedy occurred as Fernic was trying to demonstrate the safety qualities of his plane before a crowd of 40,000 air race spectators at Curtiss field. It was the third fatality of the air meet.

The plane fell within a few feet of a score of pilots and mechanics working over their planes, parked in the base for commercial ships, smashing a wing off one of them and barely missing a mechanic who had just stepped from the cabin of the parked plane.

Stability in the air and equipment for safer landing were the claims made by Fernic for his "tail first" plane. He was limbering up to show these features to the race crowd five minutes before he was scheduled to fly over to the race field to take his place in the program.

Blame Structural Faults.

Airmen who saw the accident believe that structural failure caused the crash. Fernic had just taken off, had climbed to 150 feet and was sailing over the cluster of airplanes within view of the crowds when the craft suddenly nosed down and dived to earth. Rescuers had to saw a wing away to recover his body. The plane did not burn.

The wing of the monocoupe owned by Mrs. Martle Bowman of Hempstead, L. I., second to finish in the women's Dixie Derby from Washington to Chicago, was torn away by the Fernic plane. Standing 50 feet away was W. S. Allison, Cleveland mechanic, who had just been tinkering with the motor of the monocoupe.

Fernic was 29 years old. He was at one time a lieutenant in the Rumanian army, and gossip among flyers said that he was once wealthy. He was regarded as only a mediocre flyer, but his engineering genius, although never fruitful, was respected by other engineers, among them Giuseppe M. Bellanca, one of the country's greatest airplane designers.

Had Unique Features.

Bellanca said yesterday that Fernic's "tailfirst" plane was basically sound. Most of the Fernic plane was forward of the pilot's cockpit. A single wheel in front and over it a small wing or stabilizer were designed to give the plane stability in the air and prevent its turning on to its nose when landing. The plane was powered with a Rover four in line motor.

Fernic cracked up in the first model of this plane taking off from Roosevelt field, Long Island, a year ago. Undaunted, he built another and recently flew it to the races for its first public performance. Fernic once planned a trans-Atlantic flight, but in another plane.

Most of the race fans left without learning of Fernic's fate, for the accident occurred half a mile from the main stands and beyond the view of most of them.

Lindy Flies Over Field.

Yesterday's program was a full one for the crowds, who came, presumably, to get a glimpse of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh and to watch them fly. While the Lindberghs watched the races from the seclusion of the field control tower the customers were satisfied when they took off in their Wasp-Lockheed Sirius, circled once over their heads, and flew off toward Detroit, where they plan a visit with the colonel's mother.

Once during the afternoon Lindbergh called for Capt. Frank Hawks, who is here with the ship in which he bettered the Lindbergh transcontinental record recently. They exchanged congratulations, Hawks to Lindbergh on his new son and Lindbergh to Hawkes on his new record. They agreed that these transcontinental speed records demonstrated the feasibility of overnight air service between Los Angeles and Chicago.

Today the stands are expected to be filled with spectators waiting to greet the arrival of Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau and his three companions, the adventurous German youths who have just completed their flight from Germany to America over the Arctic route.

Hope to Start Early.

Although a strut of their plane was damaged in alighting on the river at Niagara Falls, N. Y., last night, the German flyers hoped repairs would be completed to permit them to take off for Chicago at 8 o'clock this morning.

According to word received at air race headquarters the flyers will arrive over Curtiss airport between 1 and 2 p. m., circle the field several times, and fly on to the Great Lakes Naval Training station, where their ship will be based during their stay. They will perform each day for the race crowd.

The German airmen will be escorted here by Jimmy Doolittle, former army ace; John Stuart of the Fokker Aircraft corporation, and Louis C. Hucke, vice president of the Dornier Aircraft corporation, builders of the German plane. Doolittle in his own plane and the aircraft officials in another left yesterday to join the Germans at Niagara Falls.

Reception Committee Named.

Ernest J. Krueigen, prominent German-American, will head the reception committee in honor of the flyers, with Consul Hugo F. Simon representing the German government, William Saltiel representing the mayor, and Paul H. Mueller, publisher of the Abandpost.

In a message received yesterday addressed to the German paper, Staats-Herold, Capt. von Gronau said:

"I thank you in my name and in the name of my comrades for the friendly expressions, and I will thank all of you and the city of Chicago personally when I reach your fine city."

The flyers and the reception committee will be flown to the race field in the amphibian plane of Col. Robert R. McCormick, chairman of the board of directors for the races.

After the close of the race program, the flyers will be taken to the Bismarck where they will be given a dinner and later in the evening will be taken to the Germania club where they will be greeted by a massmeeting of German-Americans. They will fly over the race field Sunday and Monday, the closing day of the races.

The planes of the designer Bellanca won complete victory in two significant races for transport planes. Rounding the pylons with heavy loads of sand bags stacked in their fuselage the Bellanca planes won first, second and third in the Detroit News air transport and efficiency contest and first in the Aviation Town and Country club efficiency race. By virtue of these victories Bellanca obtains permanent possession of both trophies.

Adjustable Propellor Demonstrated.

Art Goebel's adjustable propeller performed a few strange feats before the crowds. By pulling back on a control the pilot was able to reverse the propeller pitch and "back up." The new propeller gear, Goebel claims, assures a faster takeoff, faster climb, and greater cruising speed.

Frank Hawks was up again today, tearing around the pylons, practicing for the Thompson trophy sweepstakes race to be held on the final day. Feathers were in his ears and blood smeared on his forehead when he landed. Frank was grinning.

"A bird," he said laconically.

Racing around the plyons at 240 miles an hour, a bird had struck him in the head, stunning him for a moment. He wiped the feathers from his eyes and landed.

Marel Doret, the Frenchman, again trying to steal the show yesterday, cut lose with his swashbuckling act while planes entered in the airplane efficiency contest were rounding the pylons. The racers managed to finish, but not without several frightful moments when they feared that the Frenchman's plane, diving and circling across the race course, would crash into them.

LINDBERGHS END AIR RACE VISIT; HOP FOR DETROIT

Colonel's Wife Eclipses Aviatrices Again.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Despite all her efforts to be unobtrusive, Anne Morrow Lindbergh yesterday, for the second time, stole the thunder of the dashing, daring aviatrices at the National Air Races at the Curtiss-Reynolds airport before she and her husband took off in their plane for Detroit.

So long as the tip of her white aviator's helmet could be glimpsed over the edge of the coop atop the grandstand, most of the neck stretching among the spectators was back in her direction rather than toward the field, even though there were half a dozen of the country's flashiest women pilots skimming at breakneck speed around the pylons with little space to spare.

Arriving at the field about midmorning, when the stands were only sparsely filled, Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh made their escape, with a minimum of attention, to their high perch of the day before. From this point of vantage they viewed the events for several hours, having brought a picnic lunch along with them to avoid the necessity of struggling through the crowds to go to lunch. Drinks were sent up from the stands below, the flying colonel choosing milk and Mrs. Lindbergh orange juice.

Costume of Flyer's Wife.

As on Thursday, Mrs. Lindbergh was garbed in a sport dress of French blue and instead of the short white sweater jacket in which she arrived she wore a striped gray topcoat with her light cloth helmet.

She was again accompanied by Mrs. Earle Reynolds, wife of the president of the air races, who was in a sport ensemble of bois de rose with a felt hat of the same shade, and a brown silk scarf looped about her throat. The Lindberghs were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds at Lake Bluff during their stay, and were entertained on Thursday night at a dinner at the Drake hotel.

Mrs. Stanley Morrill of Lake Forest, chairman for the Junior league hostesses yesterday in the women pilots' headquarters, greeted Mrs. Lindbergh shortly before noon. With Mrs. Reynolds the latter slipped into the club for a few moments, finding the quarters almost empty except for the day's committee, comprising Mrs. Carleton Scribner, Mrs. Randolph Owsley, Mrs. James F. Oates Jr., Mrs. Robert Dunham Jr., Mrs. Harold Powell, and Miss Betty Histed.

Take Off for Detroit.

A guard of police reported at the foot of the narrow stairway leading to the judges' stand at 3:30 o'clock, having been summoned to escort the Lindberghs to their low winged Lockheed plane, which had already been wheeled out on to the field. Maj. Reed Landis and Cliff Henderson, race officials, accompanied them to the automobile waiting for them at the field gate, and the couple were whirled across the airport to their ship. They took the air quickly and winged away in the general direction of the loop, on their way to visit the colonel's mother, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, at Detroit.

Mrs. O'Donnell Wins Again.

Thereafter the crowd settled down to consideration of the feats offered by Gladys O'Donnell. Mrs. O'Donnell, winner of the $3,000 Pacific coast Derby prize, yesterday piled up her winnings by placing first in the 800 cubic inch piston displacement race for open cockpit ships for $750 award and third in the women's cabin ship, for which she will receive $200.

Marjorie Doig, whose accident while she was well up in the Pacific coast Derby eliminated her from that competition with slight injuries, entered her Pitcairn in the open cockpit plane event and came in just behind Mrs. O'Donnell.

Mrs. Omlie Is Victor.

Mrs. Phoebe Fairgrave Omlie, winner of the women's Dixie air Derby, outdistanced Mrs. O'Donnell and Mrs. Martie Bowman for the $500 prize in the women's cabin ship race in the same speedy Monocoupe that won the Dixie Derby. Mrs. Bowman, who was second in the Dixie Derby, won $300 for second place in the cabin race.

Mrs. Mildred Morgan of Beverly Hills, Cal., who was third in the open cockpit plane contest, and who came in second in the Pacific coast Derby, took first place in the women's dead stick landings yesterday when she stopped only 116 feet from the mark. Second prize went to Nancy Hopkins of Garden City, L. I., and third prize to Mrs. Betty Lund of Troy, O.

Several of the women pilots were guests yesterday morning at a breakfast at the Illinois Women's Athletic club, attended by about 100 club members. Dr. Irene Behnke presided.

ACCIDENTAL POISON DEATH.

Miss Jane Vacin, 51 years old, 228 North Oak Park avenue, died yesterday in the West Side hospital of an overdose of sleeping potion, taken Wednesday night. A coroner's jury found her death accidental.

Highlights of the Air Races

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

A new phase has been invented among the flying fraternity. It was suggested that whenever a woman—or man, for that matter—appears on the field in elaborate flying costume, she be known as a "Lunder." Mrs. Betty Lund yesterday wore her seventh trick flying outfit—green suede breeches, red suede coat, black shiny boots, and, of course, helmet and goggles.

Erret Williams, contestant in the races, is here with Mrs. Williams from Greenville, S. C. Last Sept. 16 Williams was flying an Eagle Rock Bullet, in which he'd won 48 races in two months, when it went into a flat spin at Douglas, Ariz. William jumped, and as he descended with his parachute, the plane spiraled around him, so that he had to hold up his feet to keep from being caught by it. The next day he raced in Kansas City, using the same type plane. He was with the 50th pursuit squadron in France.

D. A. McIntyre, former army flying instructor, flew in from Tulsa in his Lycoming Stinson in five and one-half hours. He is president of the McIntyre airport of Tulsa.

B. F. Mahoney, former president of the Ryan Aircraft company, which built the Spirit of St. Louis, flew in from New York yesterday.

Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh and Mr. and Mrs. Earle Reynolds had lunch yesterday in Maj. R. W. Schroeder's bungalow atop the hangar. They brought their own lunch, in paper parcels. The colonel drinks milk. Mrs. Lindbergh drank orange juice.

Monday will be Wisconsin day. Gov. Walter J. Kohler, Wisconsin's flying governor, will head a large delegation of Wisconsin aviation enthusiasts who will come by plane and motor car from Milwaukee.

Yesterday was Italian day, in honor of Marshall Pietro Colombo, the flyer who was picked by the Fascist government to represent Italy at the races. Dr. Antonio Ferme, acting Italian consul general, and Mrs. Ferme led a delegation of representatives from the Justinian Society of Lawyers, the Dental Arts society, the Italian Chamber of Commerce, the Riciglianese society, the Legion Garibaldi, and the Italo-American National union.

Danny Fowlie, Morris, Ill., who came in third in the civilians' race yesterday, flew a plane whose total weight is 350 pounds. Its wing is a one piece affair. It is all metal with a Pobjoy motor imported from England. Elwood Fetzer and H. G. Landis, mechanics of Marshall, Mo., built the plane. Mrs. Fowlie also is here.

Lieut. R. L. R. Atcherley yesterday was reduced to his last pair of shoes. Every night he has put a pair outside the door of his room in the Hotel Sherman, according to an old English custom. Each morning they have been missing. At last he has worked out a method. He sends them down in the morning to be shined.

Don Mockler is helping look after Capt. Fritz Loose while he is in this country. Mockler speaks no German, but Fritz is learning English. Yesterday morning he called Mockler in the Hotel Sherman and said: "I in laundry." "And what are you doing in the laundry?" Mockler asked. "I wait," the captain replied. Later Mockler found him waiting in the lobby.

Candis Hall, New York debutante flyer, was seen on the field yesterday with her friend Nancy Hopkins, Washington and New York debutante. Nancy still wore the grimy overalls she appeared in on landing in the women's Dixie Derby.

Stan Stanton, contestant in the races, flew in from New Orleans in his specially built single seater with a Sirius engine. Mrs. Stanton came from New Orleans by train. They took their honeymoon on the Ford Reliability tour last year. She also flies.

A new Northrup all metal plane belonging to Clarence Young, assistant secretary of commerce in charge of aviation, was landed yesterday by Pilot Edward Allen.

Results of Air Race Contests

Following are the results of yesterday's contests at the National air races:

Glider contests: 1. Primary duration contest—First, W. B. Brunken of Maywood, Ill., in a Waco. Time, 1 minute and 58 1-5 seconds. 2. Secondary duration contest—First, J. K. O'Megra of Akron, O., in a Baker-McMillan. Time, 2:24 3-5. 3. Spot landing contest—First, J. K. O'Mera of Akron, O., in a Baker-McMillan. Distance from flag, 21 feet and 6½ inches.

Civilian race: 25 miles. First, E. B. Heath of Chicago, Ill., in a Cannonball, Heath powered; second, Bart Stevenson of Moline, Ill., in a Monocoupe, Lambert powered; third, Danny Fowlie of Marshall, Mo., in a Phantom, Pobjoy powered. Winner's time, 12:42.4. Winner's average speed, 118.05 miles per hour.

Women's dead stick landing contest: First, Mildred Morgan of Beverly Hills, Cal., in a Travelair; second, Nancy Hopkins of Washington, D. C., in a Kittyhawk; third, Betty Lund of Troy, O., in an Aeroncaud. Winning distance, 116 feet from the flag.

Men's dead stick landing contest—First, Art Chester of Moline, Ill., in a Travelair, 2 feet and 9½ inches from the flag; second, E. B. Heath, Chicago, in a Heath Parasol, 3 feet from the flag; third, J. H. Livingston of Aurora, Ill., in a Monocoupe, 3 feet and 8 inches from the flag.

Civilian's balloon bursting contest—First, Doug Davis of Atlanta, Ga., in a Travelair; second, Art Davis of East Lansing, Mich., in a Cessna; third, M. Hershberger of Chicago in an Argo. Winner's time, 40 seconds.

Race for women's cabin ships, 25 miles—First, Phoebe Omlie, Memphis, Tenn., in a Monocoupe, Warner Scarab powered; second, Martie Bowman of Hempstead, L. I., N. Y., in a Monosport, Kinner B5 powered; third, Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach, Cal., in a Monocoupe, Warner Scarab powered. Winner's time, :11:05.7. Winner's average speed, 135.20.

Race for women's open ships, 25 miles—First, Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach, Cal., in a Waco 10T, Wright J-6-7 powered; second, Margery Doig, Danbury, Conn., in a Pitcairn, Wright J-6 powered; third, Mildred Morgan, Beverly Hills, Cal., in a Travelair, Wright J-5 powered. Winner's time, :10:45.4. Winner's average speed: 130.88 miles per hour.

Race for civilian planes, 25 miles—First, E. B. Heath, Chicago, in a Cannonball, Heath powered; second, Bart Stevenson, Moline Ill., in a Monocoupe, Lambert powered, and third, Danny Fowlie, Marshall, Mo., in a Phantom, Pobjoy radial powered. Winner's time, 12:42.4. Winner's average speed, 118.05 miles per hour.

Race for cabin ships—First, Verne Roberts, Moline, Ill., in a Monocoupe; second, Stub Quimby, Moline, Ill., in a Monocoupe, and third, B. Stevenson, Moline, Ill., in a Monocoupe. Winner's time, 21:01. Winner's average speed, 142.74 miles per hour.

Efficiency contest for cabin ships—First, S. Chatwick, New Castle, Del., in a Bellanca, 1,142 pound payload; second, B. Stevenson, Moline, Ill., in a Monocoupe, 262 pound payload, and third, C. B. Burmood, Moline, Ill., in a Monocoupe.

Men's open ship race—First, William Ong, Kansas City, Mo., in an Inland sport, Warner radial powered; second, W. G. Moore, Kansas City, Mo., in an Inland sport, Warner radial powered, and third, J. B. Story, Kansas City, Mo., in a Ken Royce, Continental A-70 powered. Winner's time, 11:33.3. Winner's average speed, 129.81 miles per hour.

Air transport and efficiency contest [for cabin type, single motored planes]: 1. For speed—First, James Haislip, St. Louis, in a Lockheed Vega, P-w Wasp powered; second, Harold Young, Wilmington, Del., in a Pacemaker, W16 powered; third, George Haldeman, Wilmington, Del., in an Airbus, Curtiss Conqueror powered. Winner's time for 50 miles, :18:38. Winner's average speed, 160.90 miles per hour. 2. For efficiency—First, Harold Young, Wilmington, Del., in a Pacemaker, Wright J-6 powered, 1,570 pound payload; second, George Haldeman, Wilmington, Del., in an Airbus, Curtiss Conqueror powered, 2,750 pound payload; third, Stewart Chadwick, Wilmington, Del., in a Bellanca, Wright J-5 powered, 1,142 pound payload.

Men's parachute jumping contest: First place was won by Joe Crane of Mineola, N. Y., who landed 15 feet and 5 inches from the flag.

PLAN TO EXPAND CITY'S AIRPORT DELAYED AGAIN

Enlarging and improving of the municipal airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue by the leasing of 600 acres of Clearing school fund property from the board of education was indefinitely postponed yesterday. The lease, drawn by the board and approved by the Chicago plan commission, the Chicago Association of Commerce, city officials and aviation representatives, was returned to the board of education for reconsideration by Corporation Counsel Ettelson.

The lease was approved by the city council, but was not signed by the mayor. Mr Ettelson made several minor objections to the form of the lease and suggested it be altered by the board before being considered by the mayor.

AERO-MEDICAL GROUP OPENS ITS ANNUAL SESSION

Seventy delegates were registered yesterday at the Stevens hotel to attend the annual meeting of the Aero-Medical Association of the United States, held in conjunction with the national air races. Flight surgeons of the army and navy and medical examiners appointed in various cities of the country by the aeronautical division of the United States department of commerce make up the membership of the association.

Yesterday's activities at the meeting were confined to a tour of the city and a business session at night. Dr. William B. Smith of Hartford, Conn., is secretary-treasurer of the organization. Dr. L. H. Bauer of Washington, D. C., who holds the rank of lieutenant colonel in the army, and who is a recognized authority on aviation medicine, is president. Good eyesight and a freedom from nervousness were given by him as two prime assets essential in the making of a good pilot.

HONOR MEMORY OF GERMAN WHO FLEW ATLANTIC

Famous flyers from many lands gathered yesterday to pay tribute to Baron von Huenefeld, who with two companions flew the airplane Bremen across the Atlantic two years ago. They were the guests of Walter E. Olson at breakfast on the roof of the Olson Rug company plant at 2800 North Crawford avenue.

After breakfast they gathered beneath the Bremen beacon on the roof while Anthonie Strassmann, German aviatrix, raised a wreath to the top of the light. Hugo F. Simon, German consul general in Chicago, hailed aviation as a medium of international good will.

"There is hope for a new understanding between nations because of the manner in which flyers stick together," he said. "Respect among men is not stopped by national boundaries."

NEW SUN FLASH BEACON SHINES AS COLORED FAN

Turned On Full Force for First Time.

Shining in a fan of red and white light, the Sun Flash beacon on the La Salle-Wacker building was turned on full force last night. With the Lindbergh beacon on the Palmolive building dedicated Wednesday night, Chicago has added two powerful beams to its downtown illumination in three days.

A combination of the light of sixteen red neon tubes bisected by the glare from eight 8,000,000 candle power lamps, the effect of the Sun Flash beacon was bizarre. The eight fingers of white light seemed to shoot out from a crimson base, the whole appearing as a gigantic colored flower growing from the modernistic top of the building.

Reflects Sun in Daytime.

Andrew N. Rebori, architect, is the designer of the circular beacon and perfected the system of mirrors and the rounded dome capping them, which, in the daytime reflects the sun and is calculated to be as useful to airmen by day as by night. Within a few days, the white lights will be connected so as to flash in pairs, giving the effect of a rotating beam. This will be done in compliance with the department of commerce rule for government approved beacons.

Some figures on the comparative first costs and maintenance costs of the two arc lights were obtained yesterday. The Lindbergh light, the invention of the late Elmer A. Sperry, was his gift to the city, and, according to engineers, was constructed at a cost of more than $100,000. The Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company, on whose property the beacon tower was placed, was understood to have expended about $20,000 for the aluminum covered steel structure on which the rotating beam and stationary light pointed at the Municipal airport are mounted.

Cost Set at $20,000 Yearly.

The maintenance of the beacon will, from early estimates, cost about $20,000 per year. This includes the immense amount of current necessary to operate the 2,000,000,000 candle beam light and the secondary and stationary 1,100,000,000 candle power beacon. It will be necessary to change the carbons for the lights often and the lights must have an attendant to watch them when they are in use.

The Sun Flash beacon was purchased and erected for $8,500, Mr. Rebori said, and can be operated at a low cost of only a few dollars per night. It requires no attention other than the work of turning it on and off.

Light Seen Across Lake.

Further evidences of the power of the Lindbergh beacon was contained in a telephone message to THE TRIBUNE last night from Eugene Mathis, 9151 South Hoyne avenue, who commutes daily by motorboat to his summer home at Lakeside, Mich., forty-five miles across the lake.

Mr. Mathis reported that the beacon was plainly visible from the water's edge in front of his cottage. From across the lake the beam was not visible as a long track of light, but as a thick flash spotting the sky. The weather, he said, was far from ideal, clouds and a mist hanging over the water.

Chicago has a third powerful beacon perched on another skyscraper in the heart of the loop. The 8,000,000 candle power searchlights are mounted on a hexagonal steel tower forty-five feet above the roof of the Roanoke building, 11 South La Salle street. These lights were turned on on the night of July 15, 1928.

COLORED COUPLE DROP PETITION TO ADOPT BABY

William Linder, colored contractor, and his wife, Mary, of 5522 South La Salle street, yesterday withdrew their petition, filed on Aug. 19, to adopt a white baby boy placed in their care at the time of his illegitimate birth seven months ago. They had hoped to rear the child after his mother, Mrs. Rose Julian, 5120 South La Salle street, had placed him out for adoption. When the existence of the baby became known publicly through the filing of the petition Mrs. Julian agreed to take the child, and has had him at her home since Aug. 22. The settlement was made yesterday in the office of Carlyle S. Guibor, attorney.

VON GRONAU AT BUFFALO; DUE IN CHICAGO TODAY

Germans Will Pause at Toledo En Route.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Skillfully maneuvering his big Dornier-Wal to avoid a score of ships in Buffalo harbor, Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau landed his trans-Atlantic flying boat inside the breakwater here at 12:40 (eastern standard time) this afternoon. The Dornier-Wal was towed by coast guard craft to safe mooring for the night. Von Gronau will take off tomorrow morning for the national air races at Chicago, pausing briefly at Toledo.

A terrific din of whistles and sirens greeted the flying boat when it appeared over Buffalo from Niagara Falls, flying at great speed. After circling briefly over the downtown section of the city the Dornier-Wal made a perfect landing.

A welcoming party headed by Alphonse Karl, German consul in Buffalo, and including city officials and representatives of aviation organizations, welcomed the flyers.

After a luncheon given by the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce Aero club alo Chamber of Commerce Aero club and other organizations the party motored to Niagara falls. A dinner was given in the aviators' honor at the Clifton house, Niagara Falls, tonight.

Six persons made the air trip from New York to Buffalo in the flying boat today. They were Capt. von Gronau, the members of his crew, Franz Hack, mechanic; Edward Zimmer, co-pilot, and Franz Albracht, radio operator, and two passengers, Hertha Seeleman-Mirow, acting as Capt. von Gronau's secretary, and Dr. George Gyssling of the German consulate in New York.

BANDITS HOLD UP DRUG STORE.

Three robbers, one carrying a pistol and the second a blackjack, held up a Walgreen drug store at 5600 Belmont avenue, yesterday, forced the manager, David Gonberg, and two customers into a rear room, compelled Gonberg to open the safe, and escaped with $180.

GOTHAM JUDGES' BANK ACCOUNTS TO BE SCANNED

Names of Those Involved Are Withheld.

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Using the income tax law as a basis United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle's office began an inquiry into any buying today along broader lines than any investigation that has been started thus far.

Alvin McK. Sylvester, one of Mr. Tuttle's assistants, obtained subpoenas for the bank accounts of a magistrate, a justice of the Municipal court, a justice of General Sessions and two Supreme court justices. He also obtained subpoenas for five Tammany district leaders and two men who are said to have acted as intermediaries in the fostering of nominations and appointments.

The issuance of the twelve subpoenas, following the receipt of accusatory letters, was regarded as highly significant. It was pointed out that the Appellate division's investigation of magistrates and magistrates' courts is restricted to the inferior courts and two boroughs.

Attorney General Hamilton Wait has been instructed by Gov. Roosevelt who appointed him to supersede District Attorney Crain, to confine himself to the charge that George Ewald paid for his appointment to the magistracy.

May Widen Investigation.

Mr. Tuttle, however, is not so limited, and so long as he can maintain that possible income tax evasions are involved he is as free to investigate politicians and judges of higher courts as he is to delve into the affairs of magistrates. In political circles it was believed that the inquiry his office is now undertaking might prove the ground for a new appeal to Governor Roosevelt for a general investigation of municipal affairs.

The greatest secrecy surrounded the drawing of the subpoenas, which were turned over to United States marshals for service. They are returnable Tuesday, it was understood. Mr. Sylvester would not reveal the identity of the men whose bank records he has called for, nor would he give any clew to the charges involved.

Socialist Asks Questions.

As this new phase of the United States attorney's activities became public, Louis Waldman, Socialist candidate for governor, called on Governor Roosevelt to make public all the facts concerning his appointment of A. A. Bertini to fill the place on the General Sessions bench left vacant by Francesco X. Mancuso, who resigned just before he was indicted in the City Trust bank scandal.

In a formal statement Mr. Waldman said:

"If present scandals and revelations are not to result merely in politics as usual, but are to have some lasting value in real reform, it is the duty of the governor to make public the reasons showing upon whose recommendation he appointed Judge Bertini. What survey or investigation did the governor make before picking Mayor Walker's successor? What standards and criteria were set up by which Mr. Bertini was judged; to what sources of information did the governor go? Did Mr. Bertini's district leader and Country Leader Curry submit Mr. Bertini's name? Who were Mr. Bertini's sponsors?"

Gov. Roosevelt said on his arrival tonight at Alexandria Bay, N. Y., that he had no comment to make on Mr. Waldman's request.

Refuses to Comment.

"I will have to wait until I get Mr. Waldman's letter before I will be prepared to comment," he said.

Judge Bertini was appointed October, 1929, to serve until Jan. 1, 1931. He was elected in the fall campaign soon after his nomination he was defeated by United States customs collector to pay $2,286.37 as an assessment on goods which he was said to have undervalued when he brought them into the country on Oct. 7, 1929.

Meanwhile, it became apparent that the period of grace which Sheriff Farley granted Thomas T. Tommaney, chief clerk, in order that he might satisfactorily explain his actions as intermediary who arranged the $5,000 "loan" from Mrs. Bertha Ewald to Martin J. Healy, Tammany district leader, on the eve of Ewald's appointment to the bench, has about expired. Unless he has resigned by Tuesday, the sheriff indicated, Tommaney's resignation will be requested.

Flames Destroy Building at Plant of Oil Compan

Fire, believed to have been started by sparks from an electric drill, destroyed the oil distributing plant of the Burnham Refining company, 13[illegible] Avenue O, in Burnham yesterday. In addition to the plant building the flames consumed four tanks holding 10,000 gallons of gasoline, 125 barrels of oil and grease, two tank trucks and one sedan. Two Chicago fire companies and one from Calumet City aided the Burnham fire department to prevent spreading of the blaze.

DEATH TOLL BY HEAT REACHES 50 IN BRITISH ISLES

Five Polar Bears Go Mad, Maul Trainer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 29.—A blanket of heat continued to smother England today, causing a fresh toll of lives. The deaths in London and its suburbs were believed to have reached fifty. For the second consecutive day the thermometer reached 94 degrees Fahrenheit in the shade in London this afternoon, and remained there several hours. There is no sign of relief yet.

At Hastings five polar bears in a circus were driven insane by the heat and attacked their trainer, Rudolph Cosmeyer. He was badly mauled before the snarling beasts could be driven off with spikes.

Storm Stops Premier's Plane.

Relief reached the north in the form of a furious hail and thunder storm early this morning. Premier MacDonald, flying to Lossiemouth from London, was forced down in Yorkshire and continued by train. The storm did much damage, interrupting telegraph and telephone communication.

London police, hospital, and fire department ambulances spent the day and night aiding numerous victims of prostration. Passengers in a crowded subway saw a man suddenly slump in his seat and fall dead to the floor. Another man driving a coal wagon crumpled beneath a heavy bag while making a delivery and was dead when reached.

A grocer, harried by poor business and driven insane by the heat, hanged himself after killing his wife. The danger of alcohol during the torrid weather was stressed in a public warning by a coroner today at the inquest on a woman who collapsed in a saloon.

Hunt Relief in Parks.

The heat has driven the poor in the crowded east end districts into the parks. Many have fled to the Thames. Thousands spent the night in the open in bathing suits.

A man, believed to be insane, has been flooding the fire department with false alarms. He spent a busy night, evidently in an automobile last night, turning in calls from widely separated districts.

The heat caused Dr. G. B. Brewster to abandon his attempt to swim the channel after seven hours, although the water was perfect. He covered nine miles.

Italy Still Suffers.

ROME, Aug. 29.—(AP)—This was another sultry day for Italy, the temperature reaching 91. Premier Mussolini drove to Ostia by motor car and then took a cooling spin on the sea in a launch.

Held to Grand Jury for Blackmailing Mrs. Joyce

Lydell S. Taylor, colored, 4547 South State street, the confessed author of a note demanding $2,000 from the widow of State Senator John T. Joyce of the 29th district, was held to the grand jury under $50,000 bond on an extortion charge yesterday by Judge Sbarbaro. Clad in mourning, the widow, Mrs. Mary Joyce of 207 East Chestnut street, appeared in Felony court and told of receiving the special delivery letter. The Negro's wife is being held without charge.

Ride to Wedding

Two years ago Miss Alice Jenson of Cedar Lake, Ia., saddled her favorite horse, Cherie, and met on her morning canter through Lincoln park Edwin P. Rankin of Chicago on his "W," a little polo pony. Yesterday the bridle path romance culminated in an equestrian wedding performed near a bridle path in the park.

The wedding party rode ten sleek mounts to the scene of the ceremony on the north shore of Belmont harbor. The horses were grandly bedecked in wreaths of flowers, while their riders wore gardenias. The bridal couple dismounted and the marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Pierce Newell, pastor of the Broadway Methodist Episcopal church. Then, amid a shower of horseshoes for luck, the couple galloped away. They plan to resume their equestrian habit on a honeymoon in Canada.

Others in the wedding party included Miss Virnedo Eldred of Cedar Lake, who was bridesmaid; Irving F. Ellis, Chicago, best man, and Joseph and Gilbert Jenson, Cedar Lake, brothers of the bride.

STUDENT PILOT, PASSENGER DIE IN AIR CRASH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Janesville, Wis., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—An unlicensed pilot and his passenger were killed at dusk tonight when their borrowed plane crashed in a cornfield three miles north of here and burst into flames. The dead:

William Hinkle, 33 years old, the pilot and an employé here of the Wisconsin Power and Light company. A widower, he leaves a daughter 10 years old.

Thieron Miller, 23 years old, a salesman for the Wisconsin Electric Sales company and Hinkle's neighbor and close friend. His widow and two small children survive him.

Together the two friends had motored from their homes to Janesville airport, arriving at 6:30 p. m. Hinkle had keys to the hangar housing the Velie monocoupe of Harold Van Slyke, a licensed pilot, and airport officials assumed he had the owner's permission to use the plane.

Van Slyke, an employé of the Fisher Body works here, was visiting friends at Delavan lake and had not been reached late tonight.

OLD MOONSHINER KILLS 2 OFFICERS IN GUN BATTLE

Eugene, Ore., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Posses, armed with machine guns, followed blood hounds through dense woods, near Marcola, Ore., today searching for Ray Sutherland, 67, alleged moonshiner, wanted for the killing of Joe Saunders, 37, deputy game warden, and Oscar Duley, 35, deputy sheriff, in a gun battle.

Lee Bown, son of Sheriff Harry L. Bown, and Rodney Roach, deputy, who hastened to aid Saunders and Duley, were wounded as they followed the fugitive.

Duley and Saunders were shot fatally when they attempted to halt a motor car they believed to be delivering liquor to the Sutherland home.

2 BRITISH POLICE OFFICIALS SHOT BY REBEL IN INDIA

Rush Surgeon by Air to Operate.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, India, Aug. 29.—A Bengali youth belonging to a group of revolutionaries, impatient with the results of the non-violence campaign, fired on F. J. Lowman, acting inspector general of the Bengal police, and Eric Hodson, superintendent of the Dacca police, as they left the Mitford hospital at Dacca today, seriously wounding both.

The condition of the officials is critical, and a special airplane left Calcutta with a surgeon and nurse to tend them. It is hoped operations will save the men's lives. Mr. Lowman was shot in the loin, the bullet entering the spine, while Mr. Hodson was shot in the right hip.

Assassin Escapes.

An orderly of the hospital tried to seize the Bengali youth who fired the shots, but failed to hold him. The Bengali left his slippers and his revolver behind in his flight. Two suspects were arrested later.

Today's shooting marked the fourth outrage in Bengal this week, a bomb attempt against Sir Charles Tegart, commissioner of the Calcutta police, failing on Monday. Bombs were thrown Tuesday and Wednesday, injuring six and killing one.

The spirit of defiance which has swept the country following the government's wholesale arrest and imprisonment of the entire congress working committee on Wednesday is scheduled to come to a head here Sunday when the revolutionaries boast that 100,000 patriots will gather in the town square at Maidan in violation of a police order forbidding them to do so.

Moderates Warn Britain.

Both British moderates and Indian newspapers tonight appealed to both sides to compromise in order to avert bloodshed. F. W. Wilson, an Englishman, editor of the moderate Indian Daily Mail, appeals to the Bombay governor, Sir Frederick Sykes, to come from the summer capital at Poona and settle the disturbance himself, predicting that "the hospitals will again be filled with cracked skulls and broken limbs as a result of Lathi charges."

"Great Britain," he says, reflecting moderate British opinion, "cannot go on alienating a whole people merely to satisfy its pride."

HUNT BANK CHIEF ON CHARGES OF $226,000 FRAUD

Reported Named by Aid in Hammond Crash.

Paul B. Lipinski, president of the Northern Trust and Savings bank and the First Polish Building and Loan association of Hammond, was being sought by police last evening with a warrant charging him with conspiracy in the embezzlement of $226,000 from those institutions.

Boleslaw Salik, secretary-treasurer of the two concerns, which were closed on Monday by bank examiners, has confessed to the embezzlement, and in his confession to the authorities he was reported to have implicated another official.

Lipinski, who was not at his home across the street from the Hammond police station when Chief Thomas Martinson called to serve the warrant last evening, was reported in a state of collapse earlier in the week after Salik had made his confession. Members of his family told police that he had left home about 1 o'clock yesterday to go downtown and they had not seen him since.

Bank examiners revealed last night that Lipinski last Saturday had cashed a check for $2,000 at one of the institutions headed by him.

Charges Against Bank Chief.

The warrant for Lipinski was issued by Walter Green, clerk of the city court, on affidavits made by Martin Kowalski, a director of the building and loan association. One affidavit charges the embezzlement of $85,000 from the building and loan association and the other alleges that Lipinski conspired with Salik to abstract funds. The building and loan association is affiliated with the bank.

Deputy Prosecutor Harold Hammond announced that he would recommend a $100,000 bond for Lipinski. Salik, who pleaded not guilty despite his confession, was held to the Lake County Criminal court in bonds of $50,000.

Shortage Is Revealed.

Lipinski had told the authorities that Salik came to him last Monday and said he was short in his accounts. The directors were called in, and Salik made his confession, at first admitting a $35,000 shortage and gradually increasing the amount. He was reported finally to have confessed an embezzlement of $211,000, and investigators announced the next day that the peculations totaled $226,000.

Salik said he used the money for real estate and stock market speculations, resorting to the latter expedient in the hope of making some money "in case anything went wrong." His method, according to his confession, was to abstract mortgage payments, continuing the mortgages in the books as "live" and paying the interest himself.

Confession Names Lipinski.

It is reported that Salik, under subsequent questioning, said Lipinski first became involved with him in real estate transactions. Salik tried to aid Lipinski through the manipulation of bond sales, according to reports of his confession.

Later, according to the confession, Lipinski came to Salik and said he was in trouble, that he needed $25,000 in connection with tax collections, and that he believed suicide was the best way out. Salik, it is reported, said he dissuaded Lipinski from committing suicide and promised to help him out of his difficulties.

WIFE KILLS HUSBAND AND HELPER TO STOP LIQUOR MANUFACTURE

Port Orchard, Wash., Aug. 29.—(AP)—A double slaying attributed to a rum feud was explained, Deputy Sheriff A. D. Corliss announced today, by a wife's confession that she killed her husband and his hired man to put an end to their manufacture of liquor.

The wife, Mrs. Julia Lee Christianson, 36, the officer said, admitted ambushing her husband, G. L. Christianson, and John Higebar as they were at work in a woodshed where officers later found 102 gallons of whisky. They were shot to death Tuesday.

Mrs. Christianson, 27 years younger than her husband, was quoted as saying she killed Higebar to prevent his telling of the murder of her husband.

REV. J. H. CROWE, ST. ITA'S PASTOR, KILLED BY AUTO

Driver Caught While Trying to Flee.

The Rev. Father John H. Crowe, pastor of St. Ita's Roman Catholic church, Broadway and Catalpa avenue, died early yesterday in the Edgewater hospital five hours after being struck by a motorist, who tried to escape. Father Crowe had just left the church and was crossing the street when he was run down by a machine driven by George Welch, 7007 Sheridan road, a salesman.

Welch drove away without stopping, but was pursued and captured four blocks away by three youths who witnessed the accident. They are Joseph Sabo, 2011 Lunt avenue; Peter Brenner, 7055 St. Lawrence avenue, and Frank Murphy, 6711 Sheridan road. Welch is being held.

At Church 30 Years.

Father Crowe was widely known on the north side. He had been in charge of St. Ita's parish since its inception in June, 1900. He was 66 years old. The present church building was dedicated in October, 1927, with ceremonies presided over by Cardinal Mundelein and attended by church dignitaries.

Father Crowe's death and three others raised Cook county's motor toll for the year to 659. The other victims:

Matthew Romenski, 9 years old, 2629 West 21st street. Playing in the street in front of his home, he was run down by a machine driven by Adolph Duchoslez, 5119 South Marshfield street.

George Hula, 19 years old, 2506 South California avenue. Died at the county hospital from injuries received Aug. 25 when he was struck by a taxicab at California and Warren avenues.

Casimir Homilk, 20 years old, 811 Rose street. Died at the Norwegian American hospital following a collision between two machines at Leavitt and Augusta streets. Four others were slightly injured.

William Henschel, 79 years old, 338 Marengo avenue, Forest Park, died yesterday in the Westlake hospital, Melrose Park, of an apoplectic stroke, believed to have been induced by injuries suffered Aug. 3 in an automobile collision at Aurora.

The Rev. J. J. Steffens, pastor of St. Matthew's Episcopal church of Evanston, was released on $1,000 bond at St. Joseph, Mich., yesterday following an accident in which Mrs. Anna Booth, 73 years old, of Bridgman, Mich., was seriously injured. Mrs. Booth is said to have stepped in front of the pastor's machine while crossing the street in front of her home. The Rev. Mr. Steffens is charged with reckless driving.

G. V. H. MOSELEY IS PROMOTED TO MAJOR GENERAL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Brig. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley of Evanston, Ill., a veteran of the Philippine insurrection and the world war, was promoted to the rank of major general in army orders issued today. At the present time he is serving as executive in the office of Assistant Secretary of War Frederick H. Payne. He has had thirty-one years of commissioned experience.

Maj. Gen. Moseley carries two American and several foreign decorations. He was given the distinguished service cross for his services as assistant chief of staff of the supply department in the A. E. F. during the world war and an oak leaf cluster for his "initiative, prompt and forceful action" in restoring peace and quiet along the Mexican border during the 1929 Mexican revolution.

On that occasion Maj. Gen. Moseley negotiated between rival Mexican commanders and arranged for the withdrawal of one of the belligerent groups after a strong force of revolutionists had attempted to attack an inferior federal force at El Paso, Tex., and Juarez, Mexico.

SCHOOL BOARD ON CASH BASIS; FIRST TIME IN 3 YEARS

For the first time in three years the board of education has been placed on a cash basis. This was announced yesterday by President Lewis E. Myers, who reported the sale of all remaining 1930 tax anticipation warrants to the amount of $21,735,000. The warrants were sold at par.

The warrants were sold to bear 5½ per cent interest. Last year $40,000,000 worth of warrants were sold to bear 6 per cent. An additional saving was effected by providing that the warrants shall be delivered as the board needs money, as the interest starts with actual delivery of the warrant. Heretofore delivery has been on sale of the paper.

Revenue from the sale of these warrants will take care of all financial obligations of the board until Jan. 1, 1931, exclusive of a budget deficit of $12,500,000. This amount will be obtained by the sale of revolving fund bonds authorized by the special session of the legislature.

WAR SECRETARY AID WILL MAKE GUARD INQUIRY

Demotion of Chicago Man to Be Surveyed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley today directed Assistant Secretary of War Frederick Huff Payne to make a preliminary study of the circumstances surrounding the alleged demotion of Arthur R. Johnson, civil service army investigator, employed by the Sixth army corps in investigating Illinois National Guard scandals.

Upon the outcome of this preliminary survey will depend whether the war department orders a formal investigation by the inspector general's office into the Johnson matter.

The action of Secretary Hurley was taken after newspaper dispatches had been printed in Chicago disclosing that Johnson had been given a minor clerical position in the basement of the quartermaster depot at Chicago on the conclusion of the investigation of the Illinois National Guard scandal which resulted in the indictment of Col. Charles J. Kraft for embezzlement of federal and state funds said to amount to $200,000.

Corbin Makes Report.

Mr. Hurley arranged to have Assistant Secretary Payne look into the Johnson matter when he found that his absence from Washington on an inspection trip down the Mississippi river would make it impossible for him to handle the situation personally. A report sent to Washington by Lieut. Col. C. L. Corbin, commanding officer of the quartermaster depot at Chicago and Johnson's superior, arrived too late at the office of Quartermaster General John L. De Witt for detailed examination by the war secretary.

The war department's interest in the Kraft National Guard scandal was aroused by the publication of reports intimating that pressure brought on army officers by higher-up friends of the indicted officer may have been responsible for the shelving of Johnson, whose activity was largely responsible for Col. Kraft's indictment. Interest also was shown in the criticism of Johnson's demotion voiced by James C. Leaton, assistant district attorney, who handled the Kraft inquiry.

Terms It "Outrageous."

Leaton was quoted in a newspaper dispatch reaching war department officials as follows:

"I consider it outrageous to shelve this man after his splendid work."

Johnson has been employed by the quartermaster's depot at Chicago since immediately after the world war. Since 1927 he has devoted virtually all his time to conducting investigations for the 6th corps area, now commanded by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker. Johnson's civil service status was that of a superintendent of labor. His salary was $2,300 a year. Johnson drew his salary from the quartermaster corps.

Last spring Johnson was loaned to the 6th corps area to look into the Kraft scandal—the most serious defalcation, it is said, in the history of the Illinois Natignal Guard. About three weeks before the conclusion of the inquiry the district attorney at Chicago was informed that Johnson's services were needed at the quartermaster depot. The district attorney subsequently put Johnson under a subpoena, and the investigator aided until the conclusion of the investigation, when he returned to the quartermaster corps. Being assigned to a minor clerical position, he immediately asked for leave while he sought another position.

Conference Is Expected.

Lieut. Col. Corbin's explanation of the Johnson matter reached Maj. Gen. De Witt late yesterday, one week after it had been requested. This communication will be studied by Assistant Secretary Payne. It is also possible that Maj. Gen. Parker will be asked to inform the war department regarding what he knows of the Kraft matter. Mr. Payne is expected to confer with Maj. Gen. De Witt early next week.

Although Lieut. Col. Corbin's letter was not made public it was made known that he stated that Johnson would no longer be employed by the quartermaster corps as an investigator. The quartermaster depot had no further work of that nature for him, Lieut. Col. Corbin stated, and had therefore offered him a clerical job without reduction in pay. Lieut. Col. Corbin informed the war department that Johnson would remain as long as he desired if he accepted the kind of employment offered.

DRY AGENT PAID FOR PROTECTION, WITNESS AVERS

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Prosecution attorneys in the ex-dry officers rum conspiracy trial in federal court here turned their attack today on R. L. Fryant, a former dry agent and one of the defendants, when Arthur Boyd, former bootlegger, testified he personally had paid Fryant protection money.

Boyd told of numerous trips Fryant made with his bootlegging ring and said he aided in bringing liquor into Seattle.

The witness said Fryant, with Al Hubbard, former dry agent and rum runner, helped load trucks and gave the bootleggers safe conduct to their caches in the city.

The witness told of his first payments to Hubbard, saying an agreement was made to buy protection at the rate of $2 a case. Later, Boyd testified, after a meeting of bootleggers which Fryant and Hubbard attended, it was agreed protection should be paid for at a flat rate of $6,000 a month.

MASSACHUSETTS SENATE BATTLE WORRIES G. O. P.

Wet and Dry Expected to Fight It Out.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Reports on the senatorial situation in Massachusetts are proving disturbing to the Republicans and giving considerable satisfaction to the Democrats. A wet and dry contest seems likely in the election, with the wets apparently with the better chance of success. Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.], chairman of the Republican national committee, hopes to prevail upon former President Calvin Coolidge to make at least one speech in his home state during the election campaign, in an effort to prevent the threatened loss of a Republican senate seat.

The Massachusetts primaries are scheduled on Sept. 16. Senator F. H. Gillett [Rep., Mass.], who has served one term in the senate, after being in the house for 32 years, is now nearly 79 years old and is not a candidate for renomination. A dry, Senator Gillett, might have been able to win the Republican nomination, but probably would have been defeated by a wet Democrat in the election, according to the opinion of most political observers.

Butler Expected to Win.

Former Senator William M. Butler, who was the Coolidge campaign manager as chairman of the Republican national committee in 1924, is regarded as the probable Republican nominee. Some months ago there were reports that Mr. Butler would run as a wet, but he finally announced that he would stand by the prohibition cause. He is opposed in the primary by Eben S. Draper, a wet.

The Democrats appear to be badly split up in the primary contest, but may be able to forget their factional differences after a senatorial nomination is made. There are five candidates for the Democratic nomination: Marcus A. Coolidge, former Gov. Eugene N. Foss, Peter J. Joyce, Thomas C. O'Brien, and former Representative Joseph F. O'Connell. Coolidge and O'Connell are regarded as the leading candidates, with the chances probably favoring the former.

Foss Is Lone Dry.

All of the candidates reside in Boston except Coolidge, who is a Fitchburg manufacturer and not related to the former President. Foss is the only dry in the field. O'Connell and O'Brien are wringing wet, while Coolidge has declared for alcoholic beverages containing not more than 14 per cent.

The Democrats and the wets are banking on a victory in November on the basis of sentiment shown in the presidential election of 1928 when Alfred E. Smith carried the state by more than 17,000 votes over Hoover and Senator David I. Walsh, wet Democrat, won by more than 125,000 over his Republican opponent, B. Loring Young.

It is considered possible that as a result of the dissension in Democratic ranks the Republicans may reelect Gov. F. G. Allen. Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Boston, a storm center of the Democratic row, is likely to be the Democratic nominee for governor.

the perfect Fruit Punch!

So simple, so easy to make! To a pint of Welch's add 2 pints water, juice of 2 lemons and 1 orange, and a cup of sugar. Enough for 20 punch cups.

Another treat all the family will welcome — Welch's for their breakfast fruit juice. It's pure. It's pasteurized. And it's FULL STRENGTH. Diluting with ⅓ to ½ water, as most people prefer it, makes the cost less than 5c a glass. —Actually a less expensive breakfast fruit than oranges —and it's ready INSTANTLY!

Gain in Weight

It was an eager, bright eyed avalanche of youngsters that scrambled off special coaches of a Chicago and North Western train yesterday shouting greetings to relatives they had not seen for two months. It was hard for mothers and social workers to recognize them as the 200 undernourished boys and girls they sent to Camp Algonquin last July. Every child had gained in weight and every child was browned from the sun and outdoor exercise.

BELIEVES ANDREE MAY HAVE LIVED ON ICE 2 YEARS

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Dr. Adolf Hoel, head of the Norwegian government research office in Spitzbergen, expressed the opinion today that Salomon Auguste Andree, Swedish balloonist explorer, and his two companions may have lived for as much as two years on White island before their balloon met disaster.

Dr. Hoel arrived here today preliminary to going north with an expedition to meet the sealer Bratvaag, which has aboard the bodies of Andree and his two companions who perished after an unsuccessful attempt to reach the north pole in a balloon in 1897.

"At the time when Andree started in his balloon," Dr. Hoel said, "there was very little drifting ice around the island. This should exclude the theory that the balloon came down further north and that Andree and his comrades tramped across the ice to White island.

"I hold it possible that Andree and his colleagues might have been alive for from one to two years. They were well equipped with provisions, guns, and munitions. So it was possible for them to kill walrus, which were abundant about White island. There also are many birds there."

REPORT ASSAILS UNIONS IN WAR ON DYEING PLANT

Recommends Writ for Abarbanell Company.

In a report of findings made public yesterday, Master in Chancery William A. Doyle recommends the issuance of an injunction to restrain three unions from interfering with the operations of Abarbanell Brothers, cleaners and dyers in eight western suburbs. Master in Chancery Doyle's report will be submitted next week to Circuit Judge Hugo Friend, before whom the hearing on the injunction petition was started.

The petition charged the unions with attempting to force the owners into employing union help through threats and intimidation.

The report holds that the picketing of the Abarbanell plants by the unions is unlawful interference and wholly unwarranted. The defendant unions are the Cleaners and Dyers' union, local No. 17742; the Retail Cleaners and Dyers' union, local No. 17792, and the Laundry and Dye House Drivers and Chauffeurs' union, local No. 712.

Petition Charges Terrorism.

The petition charged the unions with employing terrorism to gain their end. Drivers testified at the hearing that agents of the union sought to induce them to join unionized companies in Chicago and then call upon Abarbanell customers seeking to take their trade from the Abarbanell company.

Another witness told how his truck had been forced off the road. A Hinsdale tailor testified he had been threatened with death if he continued patronizing a nonunion shop.

Irving Abarbanell, one of the owners of the company, charged that inadequate police protection had left the business men of La Grange at the mercy of labor terrorists. He criticized the chief of police, Harry McInnis, who he said assigned policemen to guard his plant, but that instead of protecting the employés and customers they sat in automobiles with the union men.

Finds Acts Unjustified.

Master Doyle's report states that "the action of the defendants clearly was not an attempt to peacefully picket the plant or to endeavor to induce the complainant to join the respective unions, but was a willful and malicious attempt to destroy his business and partly succeeded in doing so. I can find no justification whatsoever under all the evidence in this case for the unlawful interference with the business of the complainant."

The report concludes by stating that the material allegations of the complaint have been proven and are true.

Abarbanell Brothers have been in business twenty years. They began operations in La Grange and now have branches in Berwyn, Downers Grove, Elmhurst, Glen Ellyn, Hinsdale, Maywood and Wheaton, with an annual business of $200,000. The petition said the concern never employed union help.

Over 5 Million Yanks Visit Wet Ontario in 6 Months

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 29.—Well over five million American tourists sojourned for varying periods in wet Ontario during the first six months of this year, judging by the Ontario government's official figure of visitations from one and one-half million American automobiles in that time. Windsor was the port of biggest entry, nearly half a million American cars entering Canada from there.

DU PAGE SCHOOL OUSTER FIGHT IS TAKEN TO COURT

Supt. Letts Replies to His Critics.

A petition for a writ of mandamus ordering the York Township High school trustees in Du Page county to hear evidence on the demanded ouster of Supt. George L. Letts was filed in Circuit court at Wheaton yesterday by Attorney Z. Willner, representing a group of Elmhurst and Villa Park taxpayers.

The members of the school board served in the court proceeding are William J. Wright Jr., president; Edward C. Breuhaus, Paul J. Keuter, Alexander C. Mabee, and Ira A. Stone.

Demands Specific Charges.

Last June President Wright refused to hear the charges against Mr. Letts, asserting they were general and demanding specific instances. Willner refused to present evidence of actual instances except at a formal hearing.

In the petition filed yesterday the charges against Mr. Letts are: Exacting sums of money to permit students to pass who had previously failed in examinations; incompetence in the hiring of assistants; collection of money penalties for minor infractions of the rules; brutality; holding up of grades until fines are paid.

Letts Defends Acts.

Mr. Letts yesterday explained some charges and issued a blanket denial of others. He said a student is fined if he forgets his locker key and the janitor is forced to unlock it. If the key is lost a fee of fifty cents is charged for a new one. Students who fail in regular examinations are charged a fee if they desire special examinations.

Last night the members of the board expressed confidence in Letts and his administration, pointing to the high rating of the high school. President Wright charged that only ten petition signers had children in school and called the action a "grudge fight."

Weight of Gas on U.S. Plane Postpones Hop from Japan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 30 [Saturday].—Lieut. Harold Bromley and Harold Gatty, his co-pilot, who planned a nonstop flight of 4,800 miles from Kasumigama to Tacoma, Wash., failed in an attempt to take off this morning at 5:20 a. m. The plane did not rise at the end of the runway owing to the weight of 1,100 gallons of gas and the flyers were forced to pull a lever which released 800 gallons and so enabled the plane to rise. After flying around the airport Lieut. Bromley landed and declared the flight postponed until favorable winds are again indicated.

INVENTOR TELLS HOW HIS DEVICE PICKS OUT LIARS

War on Crime Discussed by Scientists.

Some of the famous liars of history would have had their fame dimmed if the lie detecting machine perfected by Leonard Keeler had been in existence. For Mr. Keeler's machine never misses—it hasn't in any of the 9,000 cases in which it has been used.

This was explained yesterday to the police officials and prosecutors attending the four day symposium on crime detection sponsored by the scientific crime detection laboratory of Northwestern university. The conference, held in Lincoln hall on the McKinlock campus, closed yesterday after two afternoon lectures dealing with the function of the medical expert in crime detection and the scientific advances in the use of ultraviolet light as a police aid.

Explains Lie Detector.

Mr. Keeler is a member of the laboratory staff, which is headed by Lieut. Col. Calvin Goddard, ballistics expert. He explained the uses of his lie detector to the visitors and predicted that by its use the third degree and the "goldfish room" will pass into history.

The machine has a rubber tube, which is attached to the person being questioned. This carries the impulses of his blood pressure to a needle, which records on a paper roll the intensity of the pressure. If the suspect tells the truth the needle will remain almost stationary, but if a lie is told the needle makes a jagged line on the roll. The machine is infallible, so far as Mr. Keeler has been able to determine, he said.

Describes Violet Ray Work.

Another advance in the scientific fight against crime was reported by Dr. August J. Pachine, an expert on light ray phenomena. With an instrument which gives an ultra violet light he demonstrated the contents of a number of minerals, which changed from their lifeless gray and slate colors when placed under the light to red, yellow, blue, and green. By this method particles of dirt on the shoes of a crime suspect will establish if he has been at the scene of a crime.

Prof. J. P. Simonds of the Northwestern medical school told of the functions of the medical expert in crime detection.

ANTI-SALOONISTS WANT DRIER DRY IN SENATE RACE

Safford Says League Will Back Independent.

George B. Safford, superintendent of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league, issued a statement yesterday expressing dissatisfaction over the attitude of the Republican party in the state on the prohibition issue. He said that the officers of the league would urge the support of any worthy candidate for the United States senate who would uphold the dry cause.

Mr. Safford had opposed the action of the Republicans in their state convention a week ago when they sponsored the state referendum on prohibition. In his statement yesterday he quoted Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican nominee for the senate, who said she would be bound by the results of the referendum in November.

Charges Sop to Wets.

"The drys consider that announcement was made for the purpose of winning wet votes, and that Mrs. McCormick is ready to abandon her convictions under the pressure of political expediency," said Mr. Safford. "This is entirely unsatisfactory to us.

"The officers of the Anti-Saloon league feel that their only hope in securing adequate representation in support of the prohibition amendment will be by supporting an independent candidate for the United States senate.

"The entire influence of the Anti-Saloon league will be exerted in support of any worthy candidate who is brought out by the united action of the dry leaders of the state."

Mr. Safford said no decision had been made by the Anti-Saloon league as to its policy in the referendum campaign.

Mrs. O'Neil Noncommittal.

Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neil of Downers Grove has been talked of as an independent who would be acceptable to the drys. The woman legislator returned home yesterday after a vacation in Wisconsin, and said she found many letters urging her to enter the race as a dry independent.

Mrs. O'Neil said she had not looked over the ground sufficiently to state whether she would consider making the race, but she said she believed the party had made a "huge blunder" in view of the large number of Republican men and women who believe in standing by the eighteenth amendment.

SHAW GIVES UP SPEECH; SHOWS SKILL IN WATER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 29.—George Bernard Shaw, dramatist, has again broken out in a new place. He created a diversion at the Independent Labor party summer school at Malvern Link today when he donned a bathing costume and entertained the company with an exhibition of diving and swimming and pretending to rescue girls in the water instead of delivering a political speech as expected.

This aquatic display by an old gentleman of 74 was the result of a mistake. It had been announced that Mr. Shaw would address the closing session of the summer school, but when interviewed at his hotel and told of the expected speech he was astounded. After hurried communication an official invitation was extended Mr. Shaw by telephone. When he arrived he said he was not going to make a speech but would not mind going bathing.

Mr. Shaw afterwards referred to the merits of swimming and sun bathing. "It is surprising how healthy minded one becomes when few clothes are worn and how one loses one's sense of shame," he said. "They say it takes years to eradicate that deeply rooted instinct in human nature, but as a matter of fact it really only takes ten minutes. You feel as though you could even walk into church with hardly any clothes on at all."

AL SMITH NOT ON TAMMANY STATE CONVENTION LIST

New York, Aug. 29.— [Special.] — While it is understood that he will deliver the address placing Gov. Roosevelt in nomination for a second term at the Democratic convention, the name of ex-Gov. Alfred E. Smith has been left off the list of delegates in the tenth assembly district, where he resides. The discovery yesterday caused surprise in Democratic circles because it had been reported some weeks ago that Mr. Smith was to be sent as a delegate.

While it is known that the former governor is not in high favor with the present leadership of Tammany Hall, suggestions that the slight had been deliberate were discouraged in Tammany circles.

McHENRY COUNTY BACKS DADY IN JUDICIAL RACE

Nomination of Attorney Ralph J. Dady of Waukegan as Republican candidate for Circuit judge of the seventeenth district, comprising Lake, McHenry, Boone and Winnebago counties, was virtually assured yesterday when the McHenry county delegation was instructed to cast its twenty-one votes for him. Lake county recently declared for Dady by vote of 61 to 8.

A vacancy in the Seventeenth district arose last spring when Judge Claire C. Edwards of Waukegan resigned because, he said, the $7,500 salary did not provide him a living wage. Dady, a former state's attorney of Lake county, is Judge Edwards' law partner. The district convention will be held Sept. 12 in Waukegan and the election in November.

HAGUE, JERSEY BOSS, REPORTED IN TAX TROUBLE

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, Democratic "boss" in New Jersey and a close friend of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, when asked to verify a report from Washington, published today in the Newark News, that he had paid the United States government $60,000 in settlement of arrears and penalties on his income tax, replied:

"I have nothing to say. That is a government matter, which is up to the office in Washington to discuss, not me. I do not know anything about it."

Mayor Hague and his income tax is not a new story. Last March it was reported, again from Washington, D. C., that federal investigators were going over the mayor's income.

It was said at that time the reason for the investigation grew out of the alleged fact that Mr. Hague was living a life far above what his salary as mayor would permit.

The legal settlement as to which baby belongs to which parents, after an alleged mixup in Englewood hospital where they were born June 30, was made yesterday by Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court. The legal action confirmed the action of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bamberger and Mr. and Mrs. William Watkins, in trading the babies which they took from the hospital.

Several Injured in Textile Strike Riot in Spain

CORDOBA, Spain, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Several textile workers and a police sergeant were injured in disorders here today after the strikers tried to petition the authorities to force the employés to accept their demands. Shots were exchanged as the police tried to disperse the crowd. Several arrests were made.

Further Strikes Feared.

BARCELONA, Spain, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Textile workers went on strike at La Bordeta and Sans today. All textile workers here will probably walk out Monday in sympathy with striking building workers and it is feared transport workers may join.

SIX VACANCIES ON BENCH; BAR TO WATCH ELECTION

Deaths of Judges Cause Unusual Action.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Although the selection of six members of the Superior and Circuit courts this fall—to fill vacancies caused by deaths—is classified as a special election, the Chicago Bar Association probably will be as active as in a regular election. Gov. Emmerson has issued calls for the filling of this unprecedented number of court vacancies simultaneously with the general election on Nov. 4.

The Chicago Bar association's committee on candidates, which consists of the former presidents of the organization, went into conference yesterday and it is believed that representatives of both the Republican and Democratic organizations will be invited to meet with the committee some time next week. That has been the practice in former years.

List of Vacancies.

The six judges whose deaths caused the vacancies, the years in which their terms expire, and their party affiliations follow:

Frank D. Comerford, 1934, Democrat.
William N. Gemmill, 1935, Republican.
Jesse Holdom, 1934, Republican.
Jacob H. Hopkins, 1935, Democrat.
Hugo Pam, 1935, Republican.
Ira Ryner, 1933, Democrat.

All except Circuit Judge Ryner were on the Superior bench.

So far as can be learned the inner council of the Republicans has not yet tackled the slate making which will be submitted to its county convention for ratification on Sept. 9. But it is reported that the Democrats already have talked over their timber and there are predictions that three or more Democratic Municipal judges will be presented to the voters for promotion to the state bench.

Padden and Burke Mentioned.

The names most frequently mentioned are those of Judges Frank M. Padden and Joseph Burke. Others discussed are Judges Donald S. McKinley, Matthew D. Hartigan and John J. Rooney. The leaders among the possibilities not on the city bench are said to be Attorney Edmond L. Mulcahy and former Judge Charles A. McDonald.

It is reported that among Republican leaders there is less tendency to draw its state court candidates from the city bench and that an effort to coöperate with the bar association in the selection of candidates probably will be made.

THE SANITARY DISTRICT BOND PROPOSAL.

The sanitary district board has under consideration a proposal to place $160,000,000 in bond issues before the voters in November. The expenditure of approximately that sum over a period of eight years, it has been calculated, will be required to meet the terms of the Supreme court's decree in the diversion case. If the board submits the whole program to the voters in November it will be for the purpose of assuring the completion of the work without further referenda, an object with which any one in an administrative office will find it easy to sympathize. The board's attorney, Mr. Walter Beebe, has sought to safeguard the proceeds of the bond issues by providing that no more than $20,000,000 may be spent in a single year and by specifying the objects of each year's expenditures. Borrowing in advance of requirements and thereby piling up unnecessary expenditures for interest is also prohibited.

Despite these safeguards we are inclined to think that it would be well to adhere to the usual practice of authorizing borrowings for only a year or two in advance. The experience of many generations has built up the practice of appropriating public money for the immediate future only, and that experience is not to be taken lightly. So far as the sewage disposal works are concerned, there is at least a possibility that engineering practice will be considerably modified within eight years and that an engineering and financial program authorized in 1930 should not be followed in 1937. The presence of that program might result in the construction of needlessly costly works. Another point to be considered is the shifting of price levels, which has been rapid in recent years. No one can predict what costs will be six or eight years hence. It may be found that $160,000,000 is much more or much less than will be required.

The proposal cannot be considered apart from the background of Chicago politics. The sanitary district board today is a marked improvement on its recent predecessor and seems worthy of public trust, but it is impossible to overlook the possibility of a relapse. The existence of the right to spend $20,000,000 a year would itself encourage corruptionists to seek office on the board; while the requirement that the board seek authorization for its borrowings every few years would tend to restrain waste and mismanagement in the hope of earning public confidence.

JUDGES ON THE PHONE.

Police Commissioner Alcock has been advised by the corporation counsel's office that he need not take advice or instruction from judges over the telephone. We are glad to know the commissioner will act on this opinion, which we trust is good law. We are all for the speeding up of the machinery of judicial administration, but magistrates when they resort to the phone are seldom moved by a passion for that reform, nor is the oral message the best way for a judge to convey to the executive department such orders as he is authorized by law to deliver. The zeal for expedition in most cases is an effect of politics and when it is shown on behalf of the most undesirable elements and the shadiest individuals it is the most sinister expression of the alliance of corrupt politics and organized criminality. Commissioner Alcock has done a service by rebelling against this really surreptitious method of influencing police action, and we hope he will insist upon proper forms duly recorded.

COLONIZING THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

The approaching imperial conference in London is to be given a plan by the Labor government to find a place for 2,000,000 unemployed British workers in the dominions. It is proposed that the attempt shall have supervision and direction to keep the emigrants from going wrong from their own inexperience and lack of resources. The relief of Great Britain by building up the dominions has been tried before without success either in inducing a sufficient number to go or in finding stable places for such as went out. It has not been looked upon with favor by the people in the dominions or by the people at home.

It is estimated that there are only about 25,000,000 white Britishers in the empire outside of Great Britain. For the health of the empire there are too many at home and not enough abroad. They have been disinclined to leave home and they have not been regarded as desirable in the dominions. The adventuring spirit is out of the men, who are helpless in Great Britain. Evidently they prefer known to unknown hardships. The old spirit was for any hazard of fortune in preference to the endurance of undesirable conditions at home. It is true that some settlement was a part of the penal system and there was also impressment of unfortunates to furnish colonists. Prisoners in the civil wars were sent into the least tolerable West Indian possessions. If an Englishman had things to suit him at home he did not feel greatly interested in fortunes abroad, but there were enough things wrong to send out sufficient numbers of families determined to win new homes. Religious intolerance, government perversities, and economic pressure furnished a sufficient number of emigrants to put the English language all over the world. The economic pressure remains, but it is insufficient.

Theoretically, emigration ought to work to the benefit of both Great Britain and the dominions. The latter ought to be able to furnish the opportunities and the former ought to be able to provide the workers, thus giving greater strength to all parts of the empire. If the surplus at home has lost the will to remedy desperate conditions by desperate enterprise, and if the dominions are unwilling to receive new elements from the home stock merely because they have slipped down, then an obvious weakness is revealed. The future of an empire is not found in such conditions. They cause disintegration, not growth.

POLITICS AND THE CHURCHES.

The stream of Virginia Republicanism which was suddenly swollen by a cloudburst of religious prejudice in the late presidential election has now dwindled to its former proportions and there will be no regret among intelligent Republicans. The reenforcement of party numbers and party power by sectarian or religious bigotry and political clericalism comes too high. It would compromise and confuse party principle and might force the party to become, at least in some states, as in Virginia, the accomplice of reaction. Victories thus won would be infinitely worse than defeat.

Meanwhile the churches ought to reflect upon the recent political experience of Virginia, as of Indiana and some other states which in greater or less degree have revealed the operations of the preacher politician. We think they repeat an old lesson which ought to have for us a fresh warning. It has shown that when the church enters politics, politics is not raised, but the church lowered. The political preacher does not regenerate political action, but adopts its unregenerate methods. Seeking what he considers all important, practical results, he adopts practical means, embracing the ancient fallacy that the end justifies the means. The effect upon the public attitude toward the churches, toward the pulpit, even toward religion, is gravely harmful, not only to the body politic but to the church as a spiritual guide.

Political force is no substitute for moral suasion and spiritual guidance. Politics offers no short cut to righteousness, and the clergy, above all men, should realize this. The political preacher of the best type is the victim of this delusion, and of the worst an egotist seeking power in a worldly arena. Both lack faith in the high office whose proper influence they weaken even while they seek to use its authority for their ends. The churches should realize this error and repudiate it.

The resort to politics is a confession not of faith but of the lack of it. It is retreat, not advance. It is abdication, not increase of influence. The function of the church is not that of the state. Its weapons are not Caesar's. The function of the church is not to compel men's action but to enlighten and purify men's conscience. Virtue or wisdom in goverment is not the responsibility of the church, and the preachers who would make the church an engine of political action pervert its great power and discredit its authority.

NEW COMFORTS OF TRAVEL.

An enterprising transportation official has said that if Americans will pay 20 per cent above the normal transport charge to give a California cantaloupe a cool ride across the continent, he sees no reason why they will not pay as much for a cool ride for themselves. Without reference to percentages or the delicate questions of increased cost of travel, we think he is essentially right. The American traveling public will respond to new improvements in travel.

What the cooled air passenger coach will cost is only now being estimated, but at first this service cannot but be something of a luxury. But as methods are perfected the cost will come down and the service can be brought within the reach of all passengers. The sooner the better, for the railroads as well as for the traveling public, but meanwhile we think those who now are able to travel in the extra fare trains will be glad to pay what is necessary to cover a service which will make travel in hot weather a pleasure rather than an ordeal, if the increase is not prohibitive, as we think it need not be.

The early experimentation has disclosed the fact that a cool temperature is not the only comfort achieved. With this improvement cars can be kept closed to exclude the dust and noise, which are as unpleasant features of travel as heat. A passenger coach provided with cool washed air, with dust shut out as well as the roar and clatter of its own wheels and of passing trains, will set the highest standard of land transport in our age and will regain, we think, not a little of the traffic lost to the automobile.

Railroad management has an opportunity here to show an initiative and enterprise which a period of much ill judged regulation in great measure discouraged. With a more favorable attitude and policy apparent among the public and its representatives, initiative and enterprise should, and we believe will, bring forth some notable improvements. Railways do not now command the whole field of transport as they did after the decline of the canals and river thoroughfares and before the coming of the automobile and airplane, but they are still the backbone of our transport and will remain so until some radical and now unforeseen resource has been discovered. A public policy favorable to the prosperity and progress of this most important of our great utilities will be encouraged by initiative and energetic improvement in service on the part of railroad management. It is equally true that the former is essential to the latter.

Editorial of the Day

GANGLAND BELIEVES IN CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

[The Detroit News.]

Day after day the gangsters continue to write in blood their opinion that the people of Michigan were wrong in deciding against capital punishment. Gangland believes in capital punishment and makes use of it with precision.

Gangland takes its capital punishment without frills. The gangster deemed by his peers as worthy of death, dies. There are no extraditions or habeas corpus or appeals, no sobbing pleas of lawyers or sniveling of court onlookers and no judicial nuggets of wisdom to the effect that the law is too severe and justice ought to be tempered with mercy.

All these trifilngs by which society coddles its enemies are dispensed with in gangland. "Guilty?" "Yes." "The spot." Bang! And gangland has gone on record once more to the effect that the best method of dealing with gangsters is capital punishment.

INFECTED INSECT BITES.

THE report is that Dr. W. C. Rucker, surgeon of the U. S. public health service, died as an indirect result of a spider bite. The story is that the poison of the spider did little direct harm, but that a concomitant streptococcus infection caused death from a streptococcus septicemia lasting three days.

It is generally agreed that no North American spider except the black widow carries enough poison to endanger life, but every bite by spider, mosquito, tick, or whatnot may be the means of an infection. Neither spiders nor bees are surgically clean. With this we pass to the subject of bee stings.

There are a moderate number of deaths from bee stings. In all probability, the vital statistics registration office could prove the bee to be deadlier than the rattlesnake and certainly more so than spiders, scorpions, or tarantulas. But that conclusion would not take into consideration the large number of bees, nor the closeness of their association with man. Some deaths from bee sting are the result of infection similar to that which killed Dr. Rucker.

However, other causes of trouble outrank infection in the harm done by bee stings. The burning and local swelling is due to formic acid. But the amount of this is small and the harm done, other than the discomfort caused, is not great. The constitutional effects are of more importance. First, there is shock and this does not differ greatly from shock due to a blow.

There also comes into play anaphylaxis sensitization and immunity. The anaphylactic phenomenon is somewhat of a cross between ordinary shock and hives. It may be severe enough to cause death, even from the sting of one bee. The sting of several produces fatal effects with greater frequency.

If a person is bitten once or a few times he may become sensitized. If sensitized, a bite followed by anaphylactic shock becomes much more serious. After a succession of bites a person may become immune. When in that condition a bee sting causes some local irritation and swelling but no shock and no anaphylaxis. The fact that immunity is possible suggests the possibility of desensitizing a sensitized person. This is done with some success.

The treatment of bee sting consists in applying dressings wet with a saturated solution of magnesium sulphate, or with soda water or soapsuds. The shock is treated by laying the subject in a prone pressure position, using heat and aromatic spirits of ammonia, and, possibly, also by using epinephrine or ephedrine.

MAY BE ARTHRITIS.

G. M. writes: Every morning when I awake the fingers on both hands seem swelled, especially the knuckles, and it is painful to clench my hands in fist fashion. Is this anything serious? I am quite a distance from a doctor just now.

REPLY.

It is possible you have some form of arthritis, of which there are several. There is even a better chance that your trouble is a form of hives. Neither is an urgent matter.

APPENDICITIS SYMPTOMS.

Mrs. R. M. writes:

1. What are the symptoms of appendicitis?
2. Just where is the pain located?

REPLY.

1. An acute attack is apt to start with a griping, colicky pain. This may be followed by nausea. Then comes fever. A steady, sharp pain, not colicky in character, comes later. Vomiting and tenderness are symptoms. The tongue is red and pointed. Physicians depend for diagnosis on an examination of the blood.
2. The tenderness is generally located in the right side of the abdomen, low down. The location of a pain is not easy, especially if the pain is colicky.

NO MONEY FOR RENT.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A lease is signed for one year for a store, by a tenant, the tenant not making enough money to pay the monthly rent to the landlord: 1. What must the landlord do to get his rent money? 2. Can the landlord sell the tenant's fixtures? 3. Or is it better to serve the five day notice to move out?

F. G.

1. Confess judgment and follow it up with levy on assets in excess of exemptions.
2. Yes, by appropriate court proceedings if the value exceeds the exemptions. A married man is entitled to $400 worth clear of execution.
3. Choice between these courses depends upon the facts as to your chances of getting a new tenant and upon other facts that are not before us.

UNSIGHTLY BUT SAFE.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—[Friend of the People.]—On South Laramie avenue there are some old shacks, one partly burned, that are fire hazards and hangouts for tramps and other undesirable characters. These old shacks should be torn down as they are unsightly as well as dangerous.

CHARITY CASE.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. When application for divorce is turned into the legal aid will a divorce be granted or will they just give the parties a legal separation? 2. Also if divorce proceeding is turned over to the legal aid will they provide a lawyer or will one have to hire a lawyer. 3. Are there any charges for this service if party is not in position to pay for attorney's fee? E. J. B.

1. Where it appears, after investigation, that a client is unable to pay an attorney and that a divorce is necessary for the proper protection of the family, the legal aid bureau of the United Charities sometimes take such action but there is no other agency through which one can avoid paying an attorney's fee. The mere fact that you have legal grounds and that payment will involve some sacrifice for you will not suffice.
2. Depends upon whether the facts justify handling it as a Legal Aid matter.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

GOOD-BY, WORLD!

Good-by, World,
Keep right on the way
You're going;
Scandals, rackets, sudden deaths,
Poisoned hootch, bootleggers,
Jazz, peewee golf.
Wall street numb—so numb
It's dumb
And getting dumber.
Go ahead, politicians,
Whoop 'er up
For the November elections.
You ought to have big crowds;
So many people haven't anything
Else to do
Right now
But listen to you
And watch you
Point with pride and View with alarm,
And warn the yokels that
The very foundations of this Great republic
Will fall into a chasm
Ten billion miles deep
Unless their side's
Elected.
Go to it, Mussolini,
Rattle your sword,
And do yur stuff.
Go ahead, Peru,
Give your president the air
Every day,
For all we care.
Whoop 'er up, Russia,
You and your Soviets,
And keep a lot of timid souls
Over here in the U. S. A.
Sitting at the window
All night long,
Expecting to see your armies
Under the blood red flag
Marching down the alley.

Go ahead, World,
Turn back somersaults,
Do flip flops,
Stand on your head.
Do anything you want to,
We should worry,
We're going on Vacation,
And the only mundane things
That matter
As we speed away
In our family hack
Are the price of gasoline,
"Detour here," and Motor cops who say,
"Hey, what's the big idee?"
Or,
"Where th' hell
Do you think you're Goin'?"

AND THEN, TOO, on a vacation one ought to be able to find an isolated mountain peak where the hostess doesn't say, "You'll have to wait for the cocktails. I'm so sorry, but my bootlegger got bumped off last night, the poor fish, and I had to hunt up a new guy."

AND WE'LL SAY TO THE CLERK, "OH, IS IT REALLY?"

"You'll be sorry," moans the Lady Tripper, "that you didn't go to England again for your vacation this summer. Wait until you pay a few hotel bills. Just wait! And American hotel clerks are terribly insulted when you tell 'em your pooch is to have a bed in your room. 'This is a hotel,' they'll say, very haughtily, 'not a dog kennel.' Oh, well, try it out, enjoy it as much as you can, for you'll never do it again." Tut, tut, Lady Tripper, Tommy Atkins, our highly trained Sealyham, has been thrown out of some of the snootiest hotels in America, but he never growls. And there are hotels in this great country that are very kindly disposed towards neat, presentable, well-mannered hounds. It costs more to travel in this land of the free, yes, but after all, there'll be no steamer tickets to buy. And steamship companies are not in business entirely for their health. We rather fancy we'll enjoy the trip very much. And if we don't—oh, how we're going to roast Ohio, and Pennsylvania, and Maryland, and Virginia when we get back to Rush street! Tck, tck, tck!

AND WE DO HOPE we'll be high in the Appalachian, the Blue Ridge, or the Great Smoky mountains, where they never heard of newspapers, when Clara Bow goes east in a few weeks to do a picture in New York. If we had to read another story about Clara meeting Harry Richman we simply would go out to somebody's padded cell and give ourself up.

I MUST BE GAY.

I must make me a dress of scarlet
And a yellow one and a brown,
Like defiant leaves on tired trees
Ere the wind comes sweeping down.
I must rustle my skirts and swish them
As leaves do in the fall,
I must pretend I've another friend
And it doesn't matter at all.
I must go to town on the morrow
To be merry, to dance, to sing.
You will never know how I fear the snow
That the lonely winds will bring.

P. S. McDONALD.

LAGNIAPPE.

AND, GENTLE READER, as they used to call you when the good Queen Victoria was on her throne, we hope you have either had a vacation or are just going to take one, and as we start on ours we wish you happiness. And so, good-by!

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 30, 1914.

PARIS.—It is officially announced that the military governor has ordered all residents of the zone within action of Paris' defending forts to evacuate and destroy their houses within four days.

LONDON.—It was admitted by the war office in Paris that the German army had advanced to a point within approximately 65 miles of Paris. The statement said the right wing of the French army was holding the enemy back at Guise, but added: "Our left was less fortunate. The Germans are advancing in the direction of La Fere." A dispatch to the Central News company said that Boulogne, a fortified seaport on the English channel, had been evacuated by the allies. A message from German sources says the British defeat at St. Quentin was complete. St. Quentin is 50 miles inside the French border.

BERLIN, via Amsterdam. — The German war office announces that the German army in East Prussia has defeated the invading Russian forces south of Allenstein, about 60 miles south of Koenigsberg.

LONDON.—One hundred and sixty railway trains loaded with German troops have passed through Belgium toward the northeast.

LONDON.—The crews of destroyers which have arrived in port say that at least eleven German vessels of various sizes were sunk in the engagement off Helgoland. The battle lasted about eight hours, during which the fighting was sharp and terrible.

CHICAGO. — The Chicago-Philadelphia grand opera season of 1914-'15 is not to be. One reason is that the male section of the chorus has been ruthlessly mobilized into the Italian army. Another is that Muratore, the French romantic tenor, has been as ruthlessly called to the defense of France. Another is that Lina Cavalieri, the wife of Muratore, has followed her husband to the firing line.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 30, 1900.

WASHINGTON.—Russia and the United States will frustrate the plans of the powers determined to make war upon China, and the negotiation now pending will in all probability preserve the integrity of the Chinese empire. Russia has sent a joint note to all the nations interested in China, urging them to withdraw their troops from Peking, and to accept Li Hung Chang as the representative of China to conduct peace negotiations. The United States has accepted the proposition with the conditions that the imperial government restore order in Peking and guarantee the protection of treaty and international rights.

CHICAGO.—Ex-Mayor John P. Hopkins, 2813 Calumet avenue, was operated upon for appendicitis at Mercy hospital. It was an emergency case. Dr. J. B. Murphy was the operating surgeon.

LONDON.—John Alexander Dowie of Chicago, accompanied by his suite, consisting of two valets, three secretaries, a personal bodyguard, three deacons of the Zion church, and members of his own family, arrived in London. The party occupies the two royal suites of rooms facing the Thames embankment in the Hotel Cecil. Dr. Dowie said: "I have come to London to preach the gospel. One of my missions also is to arrange for the departure of a considerable number of Nottingham lace workers to establish the Zion lace industries."

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 30, 1865.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Gen. Swayne, assistant commissioner of freedmen's affairs for the state of Alabama, telegraphs from Montgomery to Gen. Howard, calling for additional military force to put a stop to cruelties practiced upon the freedmen of Alabama by the late slaveholders and others.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The President granted pardons to ex-Gov. Aiken of South Carolina, ex-Senator A. O. P. Nicholson of Tennessee, and Gen. Gideon Pillow of Tennessee.

MADISON, Wis.—The United States military road between Shawanee and Green Bay will be open for the public after Sept. 1. The company intends to open the road to Lake Superior this fall and run a daily line of stages from Green Bay to Lake Superior.

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

FROM THE DRUMMER BOY OF SHILOH.

Douglas, Mich., Aug. 25.—After I had accepted your invitation to come to the "Feast of Song Thrills" in Soldiers' field I was called to go to Cincinnati with the G. A. R. So I was compelled to choose between the festival and the reunion. I decided to go to Chicago, and I don't regret my choice.

Chicagoland's Music festival was certainly the greatest event of my lifetime—and I am ninety-one years old. It was a glorious success from start to finish, and THE TRIBUNE and the coöperating newspapers are to be congratulated on it. In memory the program repeats itself to me as I think over the wonderful night.

I hope to live to see the festival repeated many times, although my span of life is well advanced.

W. T. KIMSEY.

A SECRETARY AND HER BOSS.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Ever since I have been old enough to differentiate between good and bad I have taken justifiable pride in being what the world terms a good woman. This without any regrets until recently. Having spent the best years of my life with a growing prosperous organization, where my efforts were rewarded by promotion to a position of responsibility and trust, I believed I had a right to expect an endless association. The "head" died and his successor brought with him many new ideas, chief among them being a highly distorted one concerning the relationship which should "and must exist, my dear girl," between an employer and his secretary. Needless to say, this developed into a mental hazard which threatened even my efficiency. I have been in the great army of unemployed since June 1, and every day with its awful disappointments makes me ask, "Does goodness pay?"

I am competent—the women in the employment agencies as well as the people I have worked with assure me that my abilities are unusual. I am not unattractive, have my share of good looks, personality and whatever else goes to make up "a charming woman of 30." Imagine then, if you can, what my reactions are to this: "Sorry, you are a bit too tall." "Sorry, I have a lovely position, but the man specified that he wants a girl about 5 feet 3 inches, 100 pounds and very blonde." "Sorry, but your religion isn't right."

Where are the good employers of days gone by who were interested only in a girl's efficiency, neatness and ability to take on her shoulders the brunt of his responsibilities? Is it because the field of unemployed girls is filled to overflowing that they dare now to make some of the propositions that they do?

H. E. S.

POSTAL DELIVERIES.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—THE TRIBUNE is to be commended for endeavoring to have the eastern railways improve their Chicago facilities.

Chicago is also about to receive shabby treatment from the postoffice department—viz: Fifteen years ago the loop district received seven deliveries a day and residential districts four deliveries. Effective Aug. 11, loop district receives four deliveries and residential two deliveries, notwithstanding a tremendous increase in receipts here. We should at least receive equal consideration with eastern and southern cities.

JOHN J. WARREN.

REDUCING POSTAL COSTS.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—There is being put into effect a reorganization of the post office department. The new system will decrease the service rendered the public about one-third. It will also put thousands of men out of work with no other employment available for them at this time. This will also necessitate a heavier load and longer territory for the remainder of the carriers, most of whom are already overburdened. It is this method that Postmaster General Brown chooses to lower the postal deficit. The deficit is caused by nonprofitable matter, such as publications, periodicals, rural mail, air mail, and franked mail. If Mr. Brown desires to make an economy record for himself I do not think it is fair to do so at the expense of the employés and the public.

E. P. M.

THE STATE OF THE CORN CROP.

Orange City, Ia., Aug. 23.—When I looked at a picture in a recent issue of THE TRIBUNE showing a girl holding some very large sized ears of corn gathered in the drought district of Illinois, I sure got a good laugh and would be laughing yet if we had had such corn here this year. We had no rain for over seven weeks, and we call that a real drought and quite detrimental to corn production. It would seem that a drought in Illinois is the best thing that could happen to get a big corn crop. I recently went into some corn fields here and on examining the ears found kernels scattered about like baseball players on Wrigley field. I think that photo must have been furnished by a Chicago Board of Trade bear on corn. I know what I am writing about, having several farms.

2 GUNMEN CALL QUARRY TO HIS DOOR; KILL HIM

Police Hunt in Vain for Gang Motive.

Hired killers called at the home of John Kruspe, a 38 year old truck driver, at 338 West 25th street, yesterday morning and shot him five times in the head. Kruspe fell dead and the murderers fled without their crime having been seen by those who heard the shots.

Because of the manner of the killing and the apparent fact that the killers did not know their victim Det. William Stapleton of the Pekin police said he believed Kruspe's death was ordered by a gang leader. Yet all information available about Kruspe failed to link him with any racket or bootlegging activities and he had no criminal or police record.

Romance Is Investigated.

Kruspe's love affair with the divorced wife of Edward Malmquist of Moline, who was known in Chicago as Mrs. Ida Gardner, was under investigation as offering a possible motive for the murder. But a day's police work gave no support to that theory, and the trend of the inquiry then was toward the belief that in some way Kruspe had given offense to those who obey no laws but the primitive.

Mrs. Gardner was preparing breakfast for Kruspe when the front door bell rang. Kruspe was stuffing his shirt into his trousers as he went to the door.

"Is Jack in?" one of two callers asked.

"I'm Jack," Mrs. Gardner heard Kruspe reply.

Then came five shots. Mrs. Gardner saw in the door. Two men were running in 25th street and she lost sight of them as they were under a viaduct. Sergt. Chris Callahan and a squad at police came a few minutes later.

Mrs. Gardner said she was Kruspe's housekeeper. Her 5 year old son, Billy, was in the kitchen with her at the time of the slaying. Their home is two doors away, at 334 West 25th street.

Husband in Moline.

Capt. Stapleton wired the Moline police for information about Malmquist. The reply from Chief Ben De Jaeger was that Malmquist was at home in Moline at the time of the shooting. He said he had not seen his former wife in a year.

Mrs. Gardner said she was certain Malmquist was not jealous of Kruspe—that he knew nothing about him, and she said she knew of no reason why Kruspe was marked for death. He had not told her of any trouble or any expectation that any one would shoot him, she stated.

Kruspe was employed by the State Auto Parts company, 2035 South State streets. Philip Levin, president of the firm, said Kruspe was a good worker and a trustworthy employé. He knew nothing of Kruspe's personal acquaintances or associations.

HOME TOWN RAISES SHAFT TO MEMORY OF 'WILD BILL HICKOK'

Troy Grove, Ill., Aug. 29.—(Special.)—Thousands gathered at this little village this afternoon for the dedication of an $11,000 monument in memory of "Wild Bill Hickok," native of Troy Grove and a picturesque two-gun marshal, one of the historic figures in the taming of the northwest.

Deserted Village Celebrates.

Spring Garden, Ill., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Approximately 3,000 persons are expected to attend a home coming celebration of this now almost abandoned village.

Spring Garden was a prosperous town prior to the building of a railroad which missed the town by three miles, causing most of the people to move to the railroad.

Friction of Hog's Hoof Sets Farmer's Clothing Afire

Jerseyville, Ill., Aug. 29.—(AP)—John Okerstrom, a farmer residing near here, is suffering from burns he said resulted when a hog he was feeding set fire to his clothing. Okerstrom said the friction of the hog's hoof on one of his oiled shoes created a spark which ignited his trouser leg.

McGOORTY TAKES CRIMINAL COURT PLACE MONDAY

Will Succeed Normoyle as Chief Justice.

Judge D. J. Normoyle, who has been chief justice of the Criminal court for the past year, ended his duties yesterday and started on his vacation. Judge John P. McGoorty, who has been chosen to succeed Judge Normoyle, prepared for the reopening of the courts next week for the new court year.

Although Monday is a court holiday, Judge McGoorty will take over the court at 11 o'clock that morning because the law requires court to be convened on the first day of each term.

Foster Case on Docket.

Among the cases docketed for trial in the September term of court is that of Frank Foster, under indictment for the murder of Alfred Lingle. Ownership of the pistol used in the slaying was traced to Foster, and a policeman identified him as a man who fled from the scene of the killing. Foster is being held in jail without bond for trial which will open on Sept. 9 unless delay is granted on the request of the prosecution or the defense.

Assistant State's Attorneys Charles F. Rathbun and James E. McShane who are investigating the gangland murders of Julius Rosenheim, paid informant of the Chicago Daily News, of Lingle, and of Jack Zuta, could make no forecast last night on the possibility of gang evidence being presented to the September grand jury.

Sabath and Friend on List.

The Criminal court during the coming term is to be manned by a group of veteran judges, some of whom have not been in the criminal divis on for years. Among them is Judge Joseph Sabath, who is leaving the divorce court after many years of service. Another is Judge Hugo Friend, who presided over the old "Black Sox" baseball scandal case during his last appearance in the Criminal court.

Judges Charles A. Williams, Harry Fisher and Joseph David are other veterans of the Criminal bench, who are returning to the court for this term. Judges Eli Frankhauser, Peter Schwaba and Phillip Finnegan, who were elected to the bench last year and promptly assigned to Criminal work, will continue as Criminal court judges. Judge G. Fred Rush is expected to come to the court in October. Meanwhile, Judge Daniel P. Trude will continue hearing criminal cases.

Judge Harry B. Miller, a veteran of five years in the Criminal court, will leave for civil work, at his own request. He has presided over many important criminal trials.

Pending Cases Reduced.

Judge Normoyle is leaving the Criminal court dockets in better shape than he found them, according to the records of Clerk John H. Passmore. When Judge Normoyle took charge of the court last September he found 1,101 indictments pending and he will leave with an estimated 1,017 pending cases. The judges under his régime disposed of an estimated 4,417 cases.

The records show that during the 1929-1930 court year 861 criminals were sentenced to the penitentiary; 409 to Pontiac reformatory; 347 to the Bridewell, and 226 to the county jail. The judges during the same period had 522 not guilty verdicts returned and liberated 548 other defendants on probation.

$55,725 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,725 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune, $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

Pays for Killing Prize Dog of Albert Payson Terhune

Pompton Lakes, N. J., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Calib Morris of Detroit paid $100 damages to Albert Payson Terhune today for killing a prize collie at Sunnybank, the author's estate. Terhune said the check would be turned over to charity.

WEEK-END WILL BRING ROAD JAM; DETOURS LISTED

Holiday Crowds to Tax Highway Capacity.

BY HAL FOUST.

With the holiday Monday the highways of the metropolitan area this week-end will be loaded with a half million cars, pleasure drivers out for two and a half day tours, families returning from summer resorts in time for children to begin school on Tuesday, automobiles en route to Labor day picnics, and that army of Chicago motorists who take every opportunity for five or six hours away from the city to enjoy the countryside.

The inadequacy of the state highway system to care for metropolitan traffic will be aggravated by two temporary factors.

Jam on Airport Roads.

Crowds attending the National Air races at the Curtiss airport will jam pavements immediately northwest of the city, including Milwaukee avenue, Dempster street and Mannheim road. Other motorists are advised to avoid this neighborhood to escape the congestion.

The other factor that will contribute to traffic difficulties this week-end is the detours around construction work. Barricades will be encountered at nineteen places on main routes in the metropolitan area.

Rand road has been opened to traffic between Golf road and Euclid avenue but it is still closed for widening at the Chicago and North Western railroad. The detour is over River road and Golf road. Route 59, between Volo and Ingleside, was also opened this week.

Detours Are Listed.

Other closed sections that remain are as follows:

St. Charles road—Mannheim road to York road.
Touhy avenue—At Crawford avenue.
Lake street—25th avenue to 5th avenue, Maywood, and Mannheim road to Roselle road.
Dempster street—West of Milwaukee avenue.
Northwest highway—Seeger road to Baldwin road.
Roosevelt road—17th avenue to Winfield.
Oakton street—Rand road to River road.
Torrence avenue—106th street to 130th street.
Railroad avenue—McCormick boulevard to Isabella street.
Joliet road—47th street to Willow Springs road.
22d street—Des Plaines avenue to 1st avenue.
95th street—Torrence avenue to Ewing avenue.
United States 20 and 12—Forsythe avenue, Whiting, to Guthrie avenue, Gary.
123d street—Kean avenue to Harlem avenue.
Ogden avenue—Lawndale avenue to Aurora.
Halsted street—Joe Orr road to 138th street.
York road—22d street to 31st street.

ACTION DELAYED ON STATE STREET WIDENING PLAN

Objections of a few property owners to the proposed widening of North State street to 115 feet between the river and Chicago avenue, voiced at the public hearing held in the city hall yesterday, resulted in postponement of action on the improvement for two weeks. The delay will permit the dissenting property owners to consult the Chicago Plan commission, which has approved the project.

The street widening has been declared by city officials to be an important factor in the construction of the proposed subway in State street A bore adequate to hold four tracks cannot be tunneled beneath the street as it is now, according to Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, and members of the subway engineering commission.

"State street south of the river to Madison street is 120 feet wide, and the widening of the street north of the river will permit that section to develop to its highest use," said Eugene Taylor, manager of the plan commission. "No new or modern buildings will be affected by the taking of land from both sides of the street."

One of the principal objections was raised by James B. Waller, a real estate dealer. He said a width of 115 feet would be detrimental to business in the locality affected and would create a bottle neck at the Chicago avenue terminus of the widening.

MRS. DAY, FREED FROM JAIL, FACES 2 DAMAGE SUITS

Mrs. Bernice Day, divorced wife of the late Darby Day Jr., was released yesterday from jail where she spent two days for driving while intoxicated, to find that she has been sued for $5,500 as the result of the same ride. In addition to destroying a traffic control box at Clark street and North avenue, Mrs. Day's machine collided with another driven by Hjelmar Kenander. Kenander and his companion, Miss Greta Johnson, were injured, according to suits they filed in Circuit court against Mrs. Day.

"You have caused your parents much trouble and in my opinion the two days you spent in jail have done you good," Judge Lyle told Mrs. Day in suspending her 10 day sentence. Judge Lyle ordered her to refrain from driving automobiles during her six months' probation period.

3 Guilty in Polls Fraud Cases Are Granted Bail

CRIMINAL COURT.

Leighton P. Fitch, confidence game, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge D. J. Normoyle.

Three men convicted recently in the Criminal courts for election frauds were granted bail yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Frederic R. De Young. They were liberated under $7,000 bond each pending a review of their cases at the next term of court. The defendants are Fred Herdlicka, Edward Kotek, and Edward Kerstein. They were convicted of having committed frauds at the Nov., 1929 election. They were precinct officials in the 27th precinct of the 34th ward.

thorized citizens to take up arms in defense of the constituted power. Viva martial law! Viva Yrigoyen!"

While rumors of impending revolution continued, President Yrigoyen spent the day in conferences with cabinet ministers and high army and navy officers. Outside his offices and around his home troops and secret service men were on guard. Soldiers were stationed at the customs house and the post office. Other troops were held in their barracks.

Three destroyers entered the harbor of Buenos Aires "to await further orders." Four gunboats are also in the harbor.

Col. Granaros, chief of police, denied reports that he is to be superseded by a military officer. Two army officers, one of whom was attached to the military communications service, were reported under secret arrest. Some reports said a large section of Argentine's standing army of 32,000 was involved in the threatened coup d'état.

Government officials were encouraged by the collapse of the strike of telephone workers. The strike was looked upon by many as the underlying cause for the precautions being taken by President Yrigoyen.

Business went on as usual throughout the city. Quotations on national securities were only slightly lower on the Buenos Aires stock exchange until the middle of the afternoon.

Brazil Scouts Revolt Report.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Foreign rumors of revolutionary unrest in the south Brazilian state of Rio Grande do Sul were under investigation tonight by the Brazilian government.

They were generally discredited in official circles, where it was pointed out that acts of banditry in the big cattle raising state might have given rise to them.

The rumors emanated from Montevideo, capital of Uruguay, whose northern frontier touches Rio Grande do Sul, and originated in the border town of Rivera.

Brazilian soldiers were said to have been confined to barracks throughout the state, and a political leader named Juan Francisco de Souza was reported to be leading a band of revolutionists.

Rio Grande do Sul, southern frontier state of Brazil, covering 91,333 square miles and having a population of considerably more than 2,000,000, is an extensive cattle raising country, with the City of Porto Alegri as its capital.

Cuba Arrests 20; Probes Plot.

SANTA CLARA, Cuba, Aug. 29.—(AP) — Santa Clara province today started probing an alleged seditious plot which last night resulted in the arrest of 20 Nationalists at Cruces. The men are charged with organizing a movement to storm the army post at Cruces, seize the weapons of the soldiers quartered there and open an armed revolt.

Political circles throughout Cuba today were stirred by news of the alleged plot, although the Nationalist union publicly declared it had given no authorization for such a move.

TRADE SLUMP BLAMED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Economic conditions, in addition to political and other troubles, are responsible for the grave unrest in Latin America, according to press and official cables, and the American government is no little concerned. Reports of revolutionary activities are widespread, coming not only from Peru, but from the Argentine, Brazil and Cuba.

That the disturbances should manifest themselves in so large a part of Latin America is considered remarkable in Washington. With the situation in the Argentine much of a mystery, the state department is endeavoring to keep in close touch with the situation.

From Rio Grande do Sul come reports of a revolutionary movement, but officials here familiar with conditions in this southern frontier state feel this local disturbance will not cause the Brazilian government serious trouble.

Tarkington Eyes No Worse, Hospital Officials Assert

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 29.—(AP)—There is no need for an operation to save the sight of Booth Tarkington, Johns Hopkins hospital officials said today. They said the author had made his third entry into the hospital for rest and observation, and his eyes were no worse than for several months.

FINLAND FIGHTS SHY OF ALLIANCE AGAINST RUSSIA

Bases Hopes for Peace on Friendliness with All.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Aug. 29.—Hjalmar Procope, the youngest and most handsome of European foreign ministers, likely candidate for the next president of the league of nations assembly, is not a believer in the possibility of a Baltic bloc about which the states bordering Russia south of the gulf of Finland are so enthusiastic. Receiving me at the foreign office, after a day of conferences on the German-Finnish trade treaty, he discussed with the utmost freedom Finland's foreign policy problems.

"In my opinion," said Mr. Procope, "the foreign policy of a nation is restricted by permanent factors which cannot be changed one day to another. This is the case with our own foreign policy. It is striving and will continue to strive to maintain peaceful relations not only with our neighbors but also with other states, and so contribute in measure to safeguarding peace, especially in the part of the world in which we live.

Red Problem Is Internal.

"As regards the Lapua anti-communist movement, which has attracted so much attention at home and abroad, that is merely a matter of domestic policy and has no domain in our foreign policy.

"Only recently Pastor Kares, who holds a very important position in the movement, gave public assurances that the Lapua movement does not have the remotest desire to disturb the peace of other nations and on the same occasion he branded any attempt to indentify the Lapua movement with foreign affairs as "fishing in muddy waters.'

Wants No Interference.

"The soviet union," continued Mr. Procope, "cannot and must not mix in the affairs of other states or interfere in the suppression of criminal activity in other states. The suppression of revolutionary activities is Finland's domestic affair. It is known, of course, that the soviet union has always disclaimed any responsibility for the activity of communists in our and other countries."

From talks with many Finnish politicians and public men one gathers that Finland is opposed to participation in a definite Baltic bloc, although it is on the whole sympathetic. Finland is neither a Baltic nor a Scandinavian state, but partly both, and must look both to the south and to the west. At the same time Finland realizes that any attack on the Baltic states would endanger her safety, and in such a case she would have to reconsider her position.

Baltic Bloc Too Weak.

The idea of a wall between Russia and the west does not attract Finland unless there is something more behind the wall than the Baltic states and Poland. She feels that the wall is liable to be simply a fire screen which could be easily turned over.

7 SLAV NATIONS MEET TO PROTECT FARM PRODUCTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 29.—The Polish government invited Finland, Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Rumania, Bulgaria and Jugo-Slavia, will open tomorrow at Warsaw. Of the countries invited to participate, only Lithuania refused to be represented at the conference. Finland will send an official observer instead of a delegate.

The program of the conference, includes the discussion of a plan to establish a central institute which will furnish the participating states with agrarian information.

Further, according to the Baltic press, the most important question that will come before the conference is Russia's export policy. Leaders say the dumping of goods by the soviet government, especially agricultural products, is more threatening to the internal stability of the conferring states than the agitators and funds sent to undermine them by the propaganda chiefs of the communist internationals at Moscow.

LOST BILL FOUND; EX-WIFE CAN NOW MARRY ANOTHER

Employés of the Superior court will return to their usual duties today following a two day search for a missing divorce bill. The disappearance of the document had delayed the decree in the divorce action brought by Marshall Goldstein of 5148 Eastview park, against Mrs. Elizabeth Lowenstein Goldstein, 826 Park avenue, New York. Superior Judge Williams heard the case on Wednesday and was about to sign the decree when it was discovered that the bill was missing. The delay was embarrassing because Mrs. Goldstein was about to be married again and start on a European tour.

Late yesterday a bailiff found the truant bill on the floor in Circuit Judge Philip Sullivan's chambers and Judge Williams signed the decree. How the bill wandered from the files to the deserted courtroom could not be explained.

MRS. M'CORMICK TO BE HONORED AT FAIR TODAY

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican candidate for United States senator, will be the chief guest of honor today at the Central States fair at Aurora, which opened yesterday. A special platform with a canopy has been built for Mrs. McCormick's public reception, which will begin at 2 p. m. James Hamilton Lewis, nominee of the Democrats, and Mrs. McCormick's opponent in the senatorial race, will be at the fair next Thursday. Tomorrow a crowd of at least 60,000 is expected to throng the fair grounds, as it will be "Chicago day."

BOOKS

Gangs Figure in Three Novels About Chicago

Even in Story of Rise of Business Girl.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Chicago is the locale of three novels of the moment. With rackets in Chicago as front page news it is not strange that all three books should have echoes of those rackets in them. One of them is entirely about the beer and whisky game, one of them has something to say about the dry cleaning fracas, and the third—and the only one which has literary rather than sensational or entertainment proclivities—couldn't have happened if a policeman had not been shot by a gangster.

LOREN CARROLL.

MYSTERY AUTHOR.

The shooting of Al Pavrick precipitated the meeting of his wife, Irma, and an oldish man whose name was Troutwine, who lived dully but calmly with his unmarried children in a house in Rogers Park and worked in the subbasement of a department store. "El Goes South" (Coward McCann) is the story of what happened to that family when their father's interest in the widow grew from casual pity to a desire for possession, and what happened to Mr. Troutwine himself and Irma.

Except for the spectacular introduction and a hectic end, the story is a simple, calmish picture of rather commonplace people done as was "Diversey," MacKinlay Kantor's first novel, in an impressionistic manner, relying more on the method of telling than on the gaudiness of the tale itself. In "El Goes South" nothing much happens—between the melodramatic beginning and the melodramatic end. Lives are lived without any special zest by anybody—everyday people plod through humdrum days.

The flash of melodrama at the end is the least effective part of the book, although the author probably felt that the artistic demands of his panorama demanded fireworks to end as well as begin the picture. "Diversey" was, to me, a much more interesting piece of work than "El Goes South." It sounded as if it were dug out of the author's heart, while "El Goes South" seems as if it were a task which the author had set himself. However, "El Goes South" shows more confidence in his medium on the author's part, more assurance that the style which he has chosen—in moments of tenseness a staccato, often imagistic prose—fits his subject.

"Wild Onion," by Loren Carroll [Dodd-Mead] is a straightaway racketeer story, with the emphasis entirely on the material and none at all upon the style. It is written in good journalism, which means that the reader is offered facts in a clear and unaffected manner. The hero of "Wild Onion" is a lad who starts as a driver between Detroit and Chicago and has soon muscled into the second biggest booze ring in the city.

It is colorful, exciting, and has the inestimable quality of complete hardness. There is no sentimentalizing about the hero or the hero's mother or the hero's girl or any of the associates of the hero. They are hard-boiled, tough birds and they act like concrete hearted animals. There is a hanging in it, which might easily have been made maudlin. The whole story of the boy who just happened to snuggle into a noose could have been sentimentalized, but young Mr. Carroll keeps his fingers off the tremolo. "Wild Onion" is a tough tale—and therein lies its interest.

"Big Business Girl" is another sort of story entirely. It is about a girl fresh from college who comes to Chicago to earn her living, whose dream is to be a big business girl—how she succeeds and what that brings her. It is the story of thousands of girls who are earning their living, believing passionately that success in business is success in the art of living.

The dry cleaning business is in a state of complete racketeering when Claire MacIntyre enters it. She lives through a murder or two, but rackets are the least part of "Big Business Girl." It is an amusing, light, attractive, alluring story of a really zestful young thing starting out to conquer life and it has the quality of gayety and authenticity about it. Its author hides under the bushel of "One of them." She is herself a big business girl [not in dry cleaning, we understand] whom a lot of people know and whose name is sure to pop out one of these days. "Big Business Girl" is one of the Farrar & Rinehart $1 novels.

Under Either Name She Tells Her Stories Well

Whether you call her E. Barrington or L. Adams Beck the author of "The Glorious Apollo" and "The Openers of the Gate" [Cosmopolitan] is the same person, E. Barrington in a romantic historical mood and L. Adams Beck is an oriental mystic one. "The Openers of the Gate" is her latest volume, a collection of ten short stories, some of them full of horror which only the mystic east can distill [somehow], one at least in a gay vein, one idyllic and tender, and all of them told with a real story teller's gift.

* *

For the Star Readers.

"Astrology," by Evangeline Adams [Dodd Mead], is a book for advanced amateurs in the matter of discovering one's place among the stars. It gives aid in predicting the influence of the stars on the future as well as in recording the astronomical influences of the past.

New Books

BY THE LITERARY EDITOR.

FICTION.

The Aloe, by Katherine Mansfield [Knopf], is a limited edition of 975 copies of the first draft of material which later became "The Prelude," and of other material which was not used and offers a striking example of the technique of one of the greatest of the short story writers of our generation.

Pied Piper, by Daphne Muir [Holt], is a touching tale of the Children's Crusade.

A Tale of Reading Town, by T. Bennett Nolan [A. and C. Boni], is a novel founded on the Conway cabal which planned to unseat Washington as commander in chief of the revolutionary forces.

Green Isle, by Alice Duer Miller [Dodd Mead], is about that strange power that some people call love.

The Blackthorn Winter, by Philippa Fowys [Smith], is a tale of gypsy love by the sister of the three writing Powyses.

Jenny Fowler, by Margaret Weymouth Jackson [Bobbs Merrill], is the panorama of one courageous and honest life in a town where every one knows every one's business.

Cynics, by Anatol Marienhoff [A. and C. Boni], is about its title—in post-war Russia. Translated.

Wind Without Rain, by Shan Sedgwick [Scribners], is a satire on one of those smart parks where women are decorative and men hurry home from Wall street and everybody bores everybody else.

Ride the Nightmare, by Ward Greene [Cape Smith], is about a young man who had to be "different" at any cost—by the author of the much discussed "Cora Potts."

Wild Beauty, by Mateel Howe Farnham [Dodd Mead], is the story of the struggle of a girl who marries the heir of the reigning house of a little Pennsylvania town, and gets a mother-in-law with the bargain.

Dog Lane, by Lev Goomilevsky [Vanguard], is the translation of a novel of the Russia of the communists where the hero boasts, "We do not recognize any love."

Waters of Strife, by Francis Lynde [Scribners], is a western thriller.

The Rector's Daughter, by F. M. Mayor [Coward McCann—$1.50], is about a middle aged spinster, but if you think it's dull . . .

Relentless, by Myrtle Johnston [Appleton], is a strange tale, living up to its title, of a man who couldn't adjust himself to civilized life.

The Gentleman from America, by Polan Banks [Cape Smith], is a novel about young Temple Franklin, the natural son of Benjamin Franklin's own natural son.

SHORT STORIES.

Ironies, by Richard Connell [Minton Balch], is a collection of fifteen, among them the winner of the $3,000 Life short story contest.

Bolio, by Archibald Rutledge [Stokes], a series of rarely good dog stories.

The World's Best Short Stories of 1930 [Minton Balch], sixteen stories selected by the editors of some of the leading American magazines.

MYSTERY.

New Crime club mysteries at $1 bear the names of seasoned authors: "Jimmie Dale and the Blue Envelope Murder," by Frank L. Packard; "Alibi," by Frederic F. Van de Water; "The Blue Door," by Vincent Starrett, ten long stories of murder mystery and detection.

St. Peter and the Profile, by John North [Duffield], is more of a character study than it is gore and thunder. There is romance, too, and some gayety.

I Like a Good Murder, by Marcus Magill [Lippincott], for those who do.

The Saranoff Murder, by Mark Lee Luther and Lillian C. Ford [Bobbs Merrill], is a Hollywood mystery.

NONFICTION.

William Howard Taft, by Herbert S. Duffy [Minton Balch], may well be the definitive biography of the late Chief Justice Taft.

Characters and Observations [Stokes] is a literary discovery, a mss. which may have been the work of Alexander Pope.

Our Criminal Courts, by Raymond Moley [Minton Balch], is the story of them from every angle.

Twice Born in Russia, by Natalia Petrova [Morrow], is the autobiography of a Russian woman before, during, and after the revolution.

The First Year of Life, by Charlotte Bubler [Day], is a translation of the findings of one of the leading child psychologists of the world.

Between the Acts, by Eddie Cantor [Simon & Schuster], is "a collection of his latest troubles."

Ethel Mannin, in Caustic Book, Stirs Authors of London

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—Miss Ethel Mannin has been writing her reminiscences, and her comments are quite too caustic for the taste of some of her subjects. Literary London is in a ferment. But it will recover, for after all the descriptions given by Miss Mannin are not at all libelous, and in a few weeks the excitement will have died down. Meanwhile her book is being read by all, and those who are not described in it probably wish they were.

ETHEL MANNIN.

We now have a "tramp" newspaper in England. It is called Hobo News, and is issued under the editorship of one Jeremiah Boule. In its pages, tramps or hobos will find details of good or bad districts for their activities, fierce dogs, etc., and as the editor gets information both at first hand and from fellow tramps it is guaranteed reliable.

I hear that a first novel which was rejected by any number of London publishers was then read by Bernard Shaw, who was enthusiastic about it. Bertrand Russell and other highbrows joined in the chorus of praise; and the author has since then received several offers from publishers—the same publishers who had formerly spurned him. His book is to appear during the autumn season. I am unaware of its title, but the author is Lionel Britton.

In a recent competition for the best half dozen holiday books, two of the leaders were J. B. Priestley's "The Good Companions" and Mr. A. P. Herbert's "The Water Gypsies." Mr. Priestley's new novel, "Angel Pavement," which is described to me by those who have read it as being better than its predecessor, is to be published soon. Some American friends have just spent a Sunday on Mr. Herbert's barge on one of our great canals, and thereby have increased—if that is possible—their power to enjoy "Water Gipsies," from contact with one of the original scenes in which the action of that book takes place. I foresee great American popularity for "The Water Gipsies."

Coolidge Tells About Morrow in Preface to Another's Book

"Dwight Whitney Morrow," by Hewitt H. Howland [Century] is frankly subtitled "A Sketch in Admiration." In less than a hundred pages Mr. Howland, editor of the late Century magazine, sets down the salient characteristics of his friend, but so skillfully does he do the setting down that facts alone greet the reader, and, despite the subtitle, there is no sense whatever of ful some praise. The introduction by Calvin Coolidge is much more flowery in its encomiums, if any writing from Mr. Coolidge's pen ever could be called flowery.

H. H. HOWLAND.

Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Morrow were classmates in Amherst. Mr. Morrow voted for Calvin Coolidge when the poll was taken of the class as to the member "most likely to succeed," but their classmates chose Dwight Whitney Morrow. Perhaps this small volume is the first biography of a future president of the United States. F.B

Saved from Pirates.

"Piratical Barbarity" [Random House] is a reprinting—with illustrations by Herb Roth—of an old letter written by one Lucretia Parker in 1825 describing, with much piousness, her capture by pirates and her escape therefrom with the help of God—and a soft-hearted gentleman of the dirk.

Bromfield Coy to Varied Lure of Hollywood

"Provincial Little Town," That's His Verdict.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Louis Bromfield is back in town saying all sorts of things about Hollywood: That during his seven months' stay he had a lot of fun, made a lot of delightful friends; that the picture business as a whole seems to have "muddling through" as a motto, which is all very amusing till you get fed up with it.

LOUIS BROMFIELD.

He wouldn't sign a two years' contract if they gave him a thousand dollars a minute, he says, and adds that he returns in January to make a picture for Ronnie Colman. Then he's going to France to write novels.

This, in effect, is the grand good news we get from all our best young novelists and playwrights who have done their turn on the gold coast, which isn't so tremendously gold to them because, as Mr. Bromfield affirms, they can make quite as much money in their chosen fields.

Hollywood may vamp 'em for a while, but we note that the talented young men all come rushing back full of devotion to literature or drama, free once again to work out their ideas without let or hindrance. Free, too, to roam the world and send back their manuscripts from whatever port strikes their fancy, instead of being interminably cooped up in "that provincial little town."

It's impossible quite to quote Mr. Bromfield without recording that nice grin of his which takes the curse off his curses. And you know, as you watch the bright live gleam in his dark blue eyes, that, although he has forfeited thousands of dollars rather than round out the year in Hollywood, he'd be equally impatient with any chore that kept him from his own work.

This tall, easy muscled chap who wears his tan tweeds and blue neckties with casual grace will find himself muttering "life's too short" whenever he gives much time to any task but his own.

He flung those words at a newspaper job when he was 25 and wrote "The Green Bay Tree." He is now but 33. And soon his new novel, his sixth, comes from the press. It's a veritable slice of New York life called "24 Hours."

Mr. Bromfield has no designs on Hollywood as material for a novel. It may be a modern tale laid in the Pyrenees that he will complete when, in February, he settled down to work in his country place in France, "safe working distance from New York and the telephone calls that tempt you into an endless round of parties."

About Earlier America.

"Picturesque United States of America," by Avrahm Yarmolinsky [Rudge], is a handsomely printed memoir on Paul Svinin, who was a Russian diplomatic officer and an artist who traveled in the United States in 1811, 1812, and 1813. He set down his impressions in words and with his pencils and water colors.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement, vicar of a country village in England, at luncheon tells his wife, Griselda, and young nephew Dennis, who lives with them, that any one who murdered Col. Protheroe would be doing the world at large a service. The colonel enjoys making life miserable for his daughter Lettice, and his second wife, and fusses about the running of the parish. He suspects that there are defalcations in the church accounts and is coming over the next evening to go over them with the vicar. Griselda, nearly twenty years younger than her husband, refuses to take anything, including the parish, seriously. The vicar, returning from parish visits, stops in at the studio on the vicarage grounds, occupied by Lawrence Redding, an artist, for whom Griselda is sitting, and is shocked to discover the artist and Mrs. Protheroe in a passionate embrace. He retreats to his study, followed by Mrs. Protheroe, who tells him of her desperate love for the artist. The vicar begs Lawrence to leave the village.

The next day started out badly for the vicar. At 5:30 he is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for Col. Protheroe, who is expected at 6:15, that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding coming out of the house in an excited state and in his study he finds the colonel sprawled across the desk, shot through the head, murdered apparently. Dr. Haydock is sent for and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour and calls the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is headed 6:20. A clock overturned when the colonel fell forward stopped at 6:22, as it was always kept a quarter of an hour fast.

Lawrence Redding confesses the next morning to the murder of Col. Protheroe. The vicar and Dr. Haydock, accompanied by Col. Melchett, the chief constable of the county, call at the police station to see Lawrence Redding.

INSTALLMENT XII.

ANOTHER CONFESSION.

Inspector Slack was at the police station and presently we found ourselves face to face with Lawrence Redding.

He looked pale and strained, but quite composed—marvelously so. I thought, considering the circumstances. Melchett snorted and hummed, obviously nervous.

"Look here, Redding," he said. "I understand you made a statement to Inspector Slack here. You state you went to the vicarage at approximately a quarter to seven, found Protheroe there, quarreled with him, shot him and came away. I'm not reading it over to you, but that's the gist of it."

"Yes."

"I'm going to ask you a few questions. You've already been told that you needn't answer them unless you choose. Your solicitor——"

Lawrence interrupted.

"I've nothing to hide. I killed Protheroe."

"Ah! well," Melchett snorted. "How did you happen to have a pistol with you?"

Lawrence hesitated.

"It was in my pocket."

"You took it with you to the vicarage?"

"Yes."

"Why?"

"I always take it."

He had hesitated again before answering, and I was absolutely sure that he was not speaking the truth.

You see it was I who killed my husband.

"Why did you put the clock back?"

"The clock?"

He seemed puzzled.

"Yes, the hands pointed to 6:22."

A look of fear sprang up in his face.

"Oh! that—yes. I—I altered it."

Haydock spoke suddenly.

"Where did you shoot Col. Protheroe?"

"In the study at the vicarage."

"I mean in what part of the body?"

"Oh!—through the head, I think. Yes, through the head."

"Aren't you sure?"

"Since you know, I can't see why it is necessary to ask me."

It was a feeble kind of bluster. There was some commotion outside. A constable without a helmet brought in a note.

"For the vicar. It says very urgent on it."

I tore it open and read.

"Please—please—come to me. I don't know what to do. It is all too awful. I want to tell some one. Please come immediately, and bring any one you like with you. ANNE PROTHEROE."

I gave Melchett a meaning glance. He took the hint. We all went out together. Glancing over my shoulder I had a glimpse of Lawrence Redding's face. His eyes were riveted on the paper in my hand and I have hardly ever seen such a terrible look of anguish and despair in any human being's face.

I remembered Anne Protheroe sitting on my sofa and saying:

"I'm a desperate woman," and my heart grew heavy within me. I saw now the possible reason for Lawrence Redding's heroic self-accusation.

Melchett was speaking to Slack.

"Have you got any line on Redding's movements earlier in the day? There's some reason to think he shot Protheroe earlier than he says. Get on to it, will you?"

He turned to me and without a word I handed him Anne Protheroe's letter. He read it and pursed up his lips in astonishment. Then he looked at me inquiringly.

"Is this what you were hinting at this morning?"

"Yes. I was not sure then if it was my duty to speak. I am quite sure now." And I told him of what I had seen that night in the studio.

The colonel had a few words with the inspector and then we set off for Old Hall. Dr. Haydock came with us.

A very correct butler opened the door, with just the right amount of gloom in his bearing.

"Good morning," said Melchett. "Will you ask Mrs. Protheroe's maid to tell her we are here and would like to see her, and then return here and answer a few questions."

The butler hurried away and presently returned with the news that he had dispatched the message.

"Now, let's hear something about yesterday," said Col. Melchett. "Your master was in to lunch?"

"Yes, sir."

"And in his usual spirits?"

"As far as I could see, yes, sir."

"What happened after that?"

"After luncheon Mrs. Protheroe went to lie down and the colonel went to his study. Miss Lettice went out to a tennis party in the two seater. Colonel and Mrs. Protheroe had tea at four-thirty, in the drawing room. The car was ordered for five-thirty to take them to the village. Immediately after they had left Mr. Clement rang up"—he bowed to me—"I told him they had started."

"Hm," said Col. Melchett. "When was Mr. Redding last here?"

"On Tuesday afternoon, sir."

"I understand that there was a disagreement between them?"

"I believe so, sir. The colonel gave me orders that Mr. Redding was not to be admitted in future."

"Did you overhear the quarrel at all?" asked Col. Melchett bluntly.

"Col. Protheroe, sir, had a very loud voice, especially when it was raised in anger. I understood, sir, that it had to do with a portrait Mr. Redding had been painting—a portrait of Miss Lettice."

Melchett grunted.

"Did you see Mr. Redding when he left?"

"Yes, sir, I let him out."

"Did he seem angry?"

"No, sir. If I may say so, he seemed rather amused."

"Ah! He didn't come to the house yesterday?"

"No, sir."

"Any one else come?"

"Not yesterday, sir."

"Well, the day before?"

"Mr. Dennis Clement came in the afternoon. And Dr. Stone was here for some time. And there was a lady in the evening."

"A lady?" Melchett was surprised. "Who was she?"

The butler couldn't remember her name. It was a lady he had not seen before. Yes, she had given her name and when he told her that the family were at dinner she had said that she would wait. So he had shown her into the little morning room.

She had asked for Col. Protheroe, not Mrs. Protheroe. He had told the colonel and the colonel had gone to the morning room directly dinner was over.

How long had the lady stayed? He thought about half an hour. The colonel himself had let her out. Ah! yes, he remembered her name now. The lady had been a Mrs. Lestrange.

This was a surprise.

"Curious," said Melchett. "Really very curious."

But we pursued that matter no further, for at that moment a message came that Mrs. Protheroe would see us.

Anne was in bed. Her face was pale and her eyes very bright. There was a look on her face that puzzled me—a kind of grim determination.

She spoke to me.

"Thank you for coming so promptly," she said. "I see you've understood what I meant by bringing any one you liked with you. It's best to get things over quickly, isn't it?" She gave a queer half pathetic little smile. "I suppose you're the person I ought to say it to, Col. Melchett. You see, it was I who killed my husband."

Good morning!

For several reels "Call of the Flesh" is adroit and intriguing comedy, after which it experiences a brainstorm and relapses into the most awful mush.

Novarro fans are correct when they aver that their favorite is a charming and Puckish fellow, who sings, in a manner to make the heart stand still, a certain type of song; but I claim—and shall call in Mr. Edward Moore to substantiate the claim, if necessary—that God never created Ramon to render the lament in "Il Pagliacci."

In this picture Mr. Novarro impersonates a certain lowly Spanish lad named Juan, with a glorious voice. He is "discovered" by a once great opera singer, who makes the boy his protégé. Juan is grateful, after his fashion, but not enough so to give up the wine, cigarets, etc., which are verboten to him or her whose voice spells a career. Juan accepts as his due the adoration of a sweet and lovely maiden who has run away from a convent to be with him, and insists that she shall accompany himself and Esteban to Madrid, where the self-appointed guardian has arranged a hearing for Juan before a famous impresario. The innocence of Maria is respected by Juan, who, having learned that she's taken no vows, doesn't see why she should not keep house for Esteban and himself. Juan's that way, you see. What he wants is always right.

Well, the impresario hears our hero and is not impressed. What Juan needs, sezze, is a broken heart. Never is there the great artist without the broken heart. NO!

Hereupon the scenario writer sees that Juan gets what he needs, and the picture begins to exhibit the blind staggers.

Good cast!

Put on your old gray bonnet, harness Robbin to the buggy and sashay over to the United Artists' theater where you'll see a movie that is modeled after the films of the day when the bonnet was quite a bonnet and Dobbin didn't have to go about making apologies to things that run on rubber tires.

This picture is puzzling audiences almost to the point of stupefaction. They wonder how it got out. "Well I can't stand any more of THIS!" a girl sitting in front of me said to her two companions and the three got up and left—somewhere along in the third reel. But I hold she didn't have any sense of humor. It seemed to me that "Eyes of the World" is, unintentionally of course, pretty good comedy.

It has its fine points, understand. Beautiful scenery! Splendid sound—and some adept acting by Una Merkel, Fern Andra, Nance O'Neil and Brandon Hurst. The photography is all the most critical could ask for. And that's where compliments from this quarter will have to cease. The lines are atrocious; the situations a series of cave-ins.

Don't ask me to tell you the story. I'd never get out of the maze if I started wandering about in it!

One commends this attempt on the part of the producers to get away from jail, gangster and super-sophisticated fare. We've been crying for a change, and, lo, don't they give it to us! But they needn't have gone to extremes. The story, which has been filmed before, is Harold Bell Wright's, you know. It points a moral. See you tomorrow.

Dawes Sees Sailing Orders from King to Christopher Columbus

SEVILLE, Aug. 29.—(AP)—A slip of time stained paper which started Christopher Columbus across unknown seas to discover a new world was examined with fascinated interest here this morning by Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, who has temporarily left his post as ambassador to Great Britain to explore Spanish archaeological treasures.

It was the original order of King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella commissioning Columbus to undertake the momentous voyage. It instructed all Spaniards concerned to assist the explorer, and specified that all merchants sell him supplies "at reasonable prices."

This latter made an especial hit with Gen. Dawes, as he was director of the service of supply of the A. E. F. in France.

The Royal Order is one of the most cherished treasures in the great archives of the Indies at Seville. The ambassador spent the morning seeing a few of the most important of the thousands of documents, maps, and records brought from the new world by the Spanish conquistadores.

Among other things shown him were the will of Columbus and the original papal bull of Pope Alexander VI. dividing the new world.

Under a broiling sun Mr. Dawes had followed the trail of ancient man through the ancient castle of Niebla and its surroundings. He scaled walls that were old even when the Romans came to Spain, and he crawled into caves that had been inhabited for untold years before the Phoenician sailors came to trade with races already ancient.

Today he gazed upon the country to which Hernando Cortez, conqueror of Mexico, came home to die. Niebla is situated on the banks of the blood-red Rio Tinto.

Tonight Gen. Dawes will be a guest of the officials of the British owned and operated Rio Tinto mines.

102 Year Old Citizen at Picnic; Misses Jury Duty

A constable called yesterday at the home of Mrs. J. S. Leath of Aurora seeking her father, W. W. Church, the town's oldest citizen, to hand him a summons for jury service. Mrs. Leath was sorry, but her father, who is 102 years old, had taken a jaunt down to Peoria to attend an old settlers' picnic.

Methodists' Charity Center Moves to Ohio

Quits Chicago Offices for Columbus.

Columbus, O., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—The world wide benevolent activities of the Methodist Episcopal church will be directed from Columbus in the future instead from Chicago, it was announced here today. The headquarters, transferred here from Chicago, were opened today under the direction of Dr. N. E. Davis.

The activities include the board of hospitals, homes and deaconess work including the supervisory board in direct charge of all philanthropic work in Europe and America.

The Columbus organization is one of the six authorized by the general conference of the church to supervise and direct benevolent work. The board has the promotion and standardization of its philanthropic and deaconess activities as well as architectural services in the establishment of new institutions.

It supervises seventy-seven hospitals in the United States, which annually care for approximately 256,000 patients and expend $12,500,000, about $1,900,000 of it for free and guest service. There are forty-six homes for children which annually care for about 4,000 dependant upon the church for care and guidance. Approximately 2,000 are cared for in 44 homes for the aged, while 26 homes for young business men and women provide for approximately 100 persons.

In addition the church also maintains two national sanatoriums for tuberculosis, located in Colorado and Arizona.

There are fifty deaconess centers in which are employed over 1,000 deaconesses which represent an investment of $72,000,000. Since 1920 new building have been equipped with an approximate value of $42,000,000.

In Europe there are 100 deaconess institutions, including hospitals.

The board is composed of twenty-three members, including bishops, ministers and laymen.

LT. COL. U. S. GRANT III TALKS TO VETERANS OF GEN. GRANT'S ARMY

Point Pleasant, O., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Their memories going back more than 65 years to the days when they followed Ulysses S. Grant into battle, three thousand civil war veterans and members of organizations allied to the Grand Army of the Republic journeyed here from Cincinnati today and paid homage at the log cabin where their leader was born.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant III., grandson of the general, was officer of the day and the principal speaker from a platform in Grant Memorial park. Col. Grant expressed his delight at meeting the comrades of his famous grandfather and told them their services had resulted in unity of the nation, as shown by the fact that their sons and grandsons fought side by side with descendants of confederate soldiers in the Spanish-American and world wars.

Gov. Cooper of Ohio, Edwin J. Foster of Worcester, Mass., the retiring commander in chief of the G. A. R., and his successor, James E. Jewel of Fort Morgan, Colo., also spoke, bringing to an end the G. A. R. encampment.

Afterward the veterans were shown through Grant homestead, a tiny log cabin, and viewed relics of the general and his family. They returned to Cincinnati this afternoon and thence were to leave for their homes.

Thousands of Flies Help Dayton Co-ed Get Science Degree

Columbus, O., Aug. 29.—(AP)—The house fly is only a pest in most people's lives, but to Miss Marian McIlhenny of Dayton it was the means to a master science degree at Ohio State university today.

During the last year, however, she studied 3,018 house flies carefully enough to identify them at sight. She pried into the fly's personal habits. She concluded that the well advertised uncleanliness of the fly was much exaggerated. She became so proficient in her study of the "musca domestica," as the fly is nicknamed by science, that she won the master degree.

Miss McIlhenny collected her fly specimens in eight traps on various parts of the campus. She decided that the breeding place of most of the college flies was in botanical gardens, in the fertilizer straw. She admits that the fly is unclean, but says that she has watched many of the "musca domestica" scrubbing themselves diligently with their legs.

Alexander Hamilton's Descendant Seeking Gotham Senate Seat

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Alexander Hamilton, great-great-grandson of the first secretary of the treasury, is going into politics.

In an east side district, which includes the fashionable Sutton place section where he resides, he is a Republican candidate for the state senate.

Young Mr. Hamilton is the first descendant of the great Federalist to embark on a political career. He does not intend to use his ancestry as campaign material.

"This is not a nation of Shintoism," he remarked. Mr. Hamilton is associated with a Wall street banking house. Before going down to Wall street, however, he did newspaper work for a time, and tried his luck as a porducer of motion pictures.

Mr. Hamilton is a medium sized man, probably of a somewhat huskier build than his distinguished great-great-grandfather, who is described as having been small and wiry, with sandy hair. He is the owner of an excellent library, a good part of which he has loaned to the congressional library in Washington. The loan represents documents that belonged to the first Alexander Hamilton and includes letters from Washington and Jefferson.

Young Hamilton has the backing of the Republican organization, and no one has filed against him for the primaries. His Democratic opponent will be John J. McCabe.

One of the things he will advocate is recodification of the state laws, of which, he said today, "There are now so many that the number of law books would make Dr. Eliot's five foot shelf appear in comparison about one inch long."

Chicago Health Plans to Revive Reputation in Europe, Doctor Asserts

Chicago's program of education against tuberculosis yet may offset the derogatory publicity this metropolis has attained abroad, Dr. Benjamin Goldberg, director of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, reported on returning yesterday from Europe. Dr. Goldberg was invited to address the International Congress on Tuberculosis at Oslo, Norway, on this city's outstanding progress in the fight to conquer the white plague.

Wide publicity was given the details of his address to the assembled physicians from all nations, the Chicago physician said, including two front page columns with pictures in one of Sweden's largest dailies. The Chicago plan of educating physicians in diagnosis of the disease, he revealed, is designated by authorities as the most revolutionary type of systematized handling of the tuberculosis problem.

"One entire day of the congress," he stated, "was devoted to discussion of this very thing—education of the physician rather than of the lay public in methods of preventing the disease. Successful coping with tuberculosis is dependent in large measure on the ability of the medical man to make an early and correct diagnosis."

Discussing the vaccine credited to Calmette of the Pasteur Institute at Paris, Dr. Goldberg said he informed the congress that in his opinion, by the method utilized by Calmette, the vaccine did show some good results.

Edith Abbott Urges Science of Kindliness

Tells U. of C. Students That Cash Is Wasted.

Benevolence still is considered a matter of the heart instead of the head, Prof. Edith Abbott of the University of Chicago told 575 graduates yesterday at the Midway's 161st convocation. Because she believes this a truism, Prof. Abbott advocated a new science of public welfare administration to insure the competent expenditure of the millions of public funds.

Speaking as dean of the graduate school of social science administration, Prof. Abbott was the convocation orator. Presiding at the ceremonies in the university chapel was Prof. Gordon Jennings Laing, dean of the graduate school of arts and literature, who conferred the degrees in the absence of President Hutchins.

The universities of the country should take a leading part in the establishment of the suggested science, Prof. Abbott said. "Millions of public funds are being spent incompetently, and those who believe that benevolence is a matter of the heart instead of the head go about wasting taxpayers' money and leaving behind them a trail of good intentions and futile efforts."

"In general," she continued, "the great state charitable institutions all over the country have failed to provide modern scientific care for the unfortunate wards of the state. Many of the children in state institutions could be cared for much better, and at the same time more economically, by leaving them in their own homes or by placing them in carefully selected foster homes.

"But too often public funds for charitable purposes represent a charitable impulse rather than a scientific understanding of the social needs, and we go on mechanically appropriating funds without applying scientific knowledge available for the valuation of the results."

One of the first steps in the proper direction should be taken by the universities, Prof. Abbott said. Men and women should be prepared for various public welfare services which require scientifically trained leaders to carry out their services. Clinical social work should be extended along with field work, she believes.

Of especial interest to the convocation visitors was the graduation of Raymond Dickinson, 24 years old, who is blind. He lives at 1654 East 70th street. A number of Phi Beta Kappa, an honorary scholastic fraternity, Dickinson performed with honors the four years at the university after an accident deprived him of his sight.

Dickinson will enter the service of the state department of public welfare to teach blind adults. Among the other graduates was William W. Redfers, the first man to obtain a degree of doctor of medicine from the medical school now located on the midway campus.

Dustin Farnum Estate Only $10,000, Probate of Actor's Will Shows

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Members of the Lambs club in New York and probably also the Masquers in Hollywood who remembered the late Dustin Farnum were amazed today when probate of his will at Bucksport, Me., disclosed the estate, estimated at $500,000, was valued at $10,000. The sole beneficiary named is his widow, Winifred Kingston, motion picture actress of Hollywood, according to her attorney, Meyer Kurs of New York City.

The story was told here that Cecil de Mille, Jesse L. Lasky, and Farnum bought a farm in Hollywood and began making moving pictures. Farnum backed out when he was asked to put an additional $5,000 in the venture on the ground that he was an actor, not a producer. De Mille has pointed out that Farnum's $5,000, if invested then, would have brought him in several million dollars. Farnum died July 3, 1929, aged 55, after he had been ailing for a year. Besides his widow he is survived by a daughter, Estelle, six years old.

U. S. Movie Interests Halt New Zealand Film Sales

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Representatives of American motion picture corporations in New Zealand have been instructed by their home offices to cease selling films in the dominion today. The action was said here to be an attempt at retaliation against recent increases in taxation on the film industry, and particularly against the 25 per cent tax levied against profits from the exhibition of films made abroad.

Calls Shorter Work Day Way to Sex Equality

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—(AP)—An appeal for a shorter working day and against sex discrimination in awarding jobs was made today by Miss Mary Anderson, director of the labor department's women's bureau, in a Labor day statement.

"Finding immediate remedies for our present slump," she said, "is the urgent business confronting us and calling for straightforward thought and action. In planning a program of industrial betterment, the most obvious feature to be discarded is not this or that class of workers but the long work day."

She added the shorter day was a simple expedient which did not require complicated machinery for its inauguration and said it offered the most powerful lever for relief at the present time.

Miss Anderson contended that "a period of unemployment should not be made more warped through the introduction of a sex issue," adding that both sexes "must continue to earn in order to live."

Miss Anderson said that "during the hard times employers have honestly, and perhaps often at a sacrifice, tried to give work to the married and single men known to be the mainstays in family budgets."

"We should like," she added, "to see this commendable policy more generally extended to women, both married and single, who have obligations to meet similar to the men's. As there is today no sex line in the matter of economic responsibilities there should be no sex discrimination in the award of jobs."

U. S. TOURIST TRADE WITH FRANCE IS FAR SMALLER THAN IN 1929

[Copyright 1930: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Aug. 29.—The French capital has never seen so few Americans since the end of the world war as it has this summer.

The first class travel from New York is about 10,000 below that of 1929. Although thousands of teachers and students have come over in the tourist third cabin class, the amount they have to spend is small. The majority take regular tours, $500 to $650 for all expenses, steamship fares, hotels, and sightseeing trips, including the Passion Play at Oberammergau. Above this amount they rarely have more than $200 to spend on tips, laundry, and souvenirs.

There is a newer kind of traveler, mostly from the west, who appears to have made a little money in business and is spending a part of it in traveling. The wealthy Americans who usually come to France and spend their money lavishly are very rare this year, the hotel managers say.

France continues to be the most prosperous country in the world next to the United States. All places of amusement, including cinemas, theaters and the opera, are doing well, and so are the restaurants, because the French like to eat, but there is very little money around the race tracks. The American Express and the Wagons-Lits say they have been doing good business this season, because there have been more British visitors and tourists from Holland, Australia, and the Scandinavian countries.

With the rate of exchange at 25 francs to the dollar, Americans can still go to Paris and live much cheaper than they can in New York if they patronize the hotels and restaurants frequented by the French people and keep away from the places where their wealthier countrymen go.

Religious Faith Aids Surgeons' Patients, Dr. C. W. Mayo Avers

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Religion is a vital factor in the practice of medicine, Dr. Charles W. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., said today. He spoke before the surgery section of the British Medical association and declared in an interview later that happiness and health were often as much a state of mind as of body.

"When a man is about to go on the table in an operating room, if he receives a visit from a minister in whom he has faith it gives him confidence which no science can furnish," Dr. Mayo said.

Heart attacks are one of the most common causes of death among doctors, the Rochester surgeon said in his address to the surgical section. The reason is that the work of the conscientious surgeon, requiring as it does a high degree of skill and patience, places strain on the heart.

Sir James Barrett of Melbourne, Australia, said, "The whole present hospital system of the world is wrong and shockingly expensive."

Last night he told how skilled nursing service had been made available at a small cost to residents of the sparsely settled Australian bush country.

Subscribers to the nursing service pay an annual assessment of $8, and from this service has grown a hospital system whereby it is possible to give subscribers hospital accommodation, nursing and food at the rate of $10 a week.

"The principle on which this nursing system has grown differs from any other hospital plan I know of," he said. "It takes cognizance of people before they get ill. We might call it a coöperative insurance scheme, providing for the inevitable visit to the hospital that comes to all of us. If hospitals were built upon a plan such as this, it would be an excellent thing and hospital service could be given at rates that seem almost ridiculous."

Dr. Morris Fishbein of Chicago, editor of the American Medical Journal, told the convention that food fanatics and quacks had victimized hundreds of thousands of persons through fake dishes and diets.

Rare German Books Collected While the Owners Are Absent

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Fifty rare volumes of German prose and poetry have been added to the library of the capital's most discriminating thief.

Four Georgetown homes, left closed for the summer by their owners, have been robbed of their rare books within recent weeks. In each case volumes of little value have been left behind, while fine silver and valuable bric-à-brac also has been disdained by the collector.

The latest robbery was discovered yesterday. A search of other closed houses in the neighborhood disclosed numbers of books packed and ready to be taken away by the intellectual burglar.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

GIRL'S DRESS.

This youthful silk crêpe dress suggests the Empire mode. The dress is moulded almost to the knees, and flare is added to the hem through a circular flounce that is joined to the skirt in a scalloped outline. The fitted capelet collar shows a corresponding scalloped treatment. At either side of the bodice there is shirring that creates a fitted effect and indicates the normal waistline. Chiffon voile, flat silk crêpe and crêpe de chine are among the suitable materials.

The pattern, 3359, comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years. Sizes 16 requires 3⅝ yards of 32 or 39 inch material with 6 yards of binding.

Jean M'Leish, John Dern to Wed Sept. 20

BY THALIA

Miss Jean MacLeish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce MacLeish, whose marriage to John Dern, son of Gov. and Mrs. George H. Dern of Utah, is set for Sept. 20, has invited Miss Elizabeth Knode to be her maid of honor and Mrs. Harry Baxter, Mr. Dern's sister, to be matron of honor.

The bridesmaids will be Miss Barbara King, Miss Louise Badgerow, Miss Dorothy Newton of Boston, Miss Charlotte Picher, Miss Jean Stevens, and Miss Betty Warren.

William Dern is to be best man for his brother, and Harry Baxter is to head the ushers, who include Norman MacLeish, Cecil Crouse of New York, Orie Matthews, George Appel, and Howard J. Long of Philadelphia; Conrad Rockefehaus of Indianapolis, M. Ogden West, James F. Oates Jr., and John Milton Trainer Jr.

The marriage ceremony is to take place at 5 o'clock at Christ church in Winnetka, with only a small group attending. The reception following at the MacLeish residence, Birken Crag, in Hubbard Woods, is to be a larger affair. Mr. Dern and his bride are to be at home after Nov. 1 at 27 Bellevue place.

The parties for the prospective bride and groom before the wedding will begin with a dinner-dance on Friday, Sept. 12, to be given by Mrs. Andrew MacLeish and the Norman MacLeishes at the former's residence, Craigie Lea, in Glencoe. Miss Joy Fairman is to have a luncheon for the feminine part of the party on Monday, the 15th, and that evening Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Brown will give a dinner and theater party.

Miss Betty Durham is to give a luncheon the next day, and Mrs. Helen R. Warren and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Warren, are to give a dinner that evening. The Oliver M. Knodes and Miss Betty have invited them all for dinner on the 17th, and the following evening Miss MacLeish and Mr. Dern will have their spinster and bachelor dinners, respectively. Mr. and Mrs. MacLeish will have the bridal dinner on the eve of the wedding, Friday, Sept. 19.

Onwentsia members and their guests at the hard times party to be given at the club this evening may let their imaginations run riot in devising costumes. The invitations suggest that "overalls and ginghams" are the things to wear, but some one may emulate the bright soul who attended a similar affair last winter, attired in an ingenious array of ticker tape. John H. McIlvaine is chairman of the entertainment committee, and as such is managing the arrangements for the affair.

The 56th annual Sheridan regatta, the gala event that customarily marks the end of the summer festivities at Lake Geneva, takes place today. A meeting of the Yacht club is set for this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and this evening the annual dinner for the awarding of trophies won at the various contests that have taken place throughout the season. The Lake Geneva Garden club met at Mrs. Charles L. Hutchinson's on Wednesday to hear a lecture by Dr. Elliott R. Downing of the University of Wisconsin on "Tracking Wild Flowers." Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Finney had as visitors for a few days Col. and Mrs. Charles Stewart of England.

Miss Nell Offutt, daughter of Mrs. Ellwood Offcutt of Oakland, Md., who is to be introduced to Chicago society this winter by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Thomasson Jr., of 1345 Astor street, is making her bow this afternoon at a tea Mrs. Offutt is giving for her at her residence, Hazelhurst in Oakland, where the Thomassons are spending the summer. Miss Offutt, who was graduated from Dobbs Ferry last June will spend part of the winter with the Thomassons. They are to give a November tea for her, and Mrs. Offutt plans a dinner-dance to take place in December. Mrs. Offutt was Miss Nanniene Thomasson.

Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's birthis tomorrow.

Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman of 1367 North State street is expecting his sisters, Miss Blanche, Miss Estelle, and Miss Agnes Foreman, to arrive in Chicago today or tomorrow from their summer trip to Europe. They sailed in late June, and returned on the Empress of Australia which landed this week in Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kearns of Evanston announce the marriage on Aug. 18 of their daughter, Florence, to Dr. John W. Huffman of Tucson, Ariz., son of Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Huffman of Florence, Ariz.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover had a busy day, rising at dawn to go with her son, Allan, to Bolling field. There he left for a vacation trip to California. Then she made the trip by automobile to the Rapidan camp this afternoon. Allan Hoover has given up his work in the factory in New Jersey, and after a visit here with his parents he will visit some classmates in California. Herbert Hoover Jr. went with his parents and their large party today to the camp. They will not return until Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Loesch of Chicago, who came here from their home in Chicago with the visiting lawyers, have spent the week at the Mayflower. They left tonight to return to Cooperstown, N. Y., where they have been all summer with Mrs. Loesch's mother, Mrs. Browning, who celebrated her 92d birthday anniversary here last winter. They will remain with Mrs. Browning until late autumn.

The British ambassador left today for Ophir Hall, the summer home of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid in New York. He will join Lady Lindsay on Long Island for a fortnight's visit.

Ogden L. Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, has gone to Saratoga to spend the week-end and holiday. Mrs. Mills is visiting Mrs. Vincent Astor in Newport.

Mrs. Andrews, widow of Byron Andrews, formerly of Chicago, has returned here for a fortnight before going to California en route to Honolulu. There she will spend the winter.

Miss Janet Cromwell, formerly of Washington, has been visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cromwell, here. She left yesterday to join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William N. Cromwell, in Evanston.

WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Kathryn Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Moore of 5128 Hyde Park boulevard, to Ralph James Silverwood of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Silverwood of Green Bay, Wis., is to take place next Thursday at 11:30 o'clock at the University Church of Disciples.

The ceremony will be followed by a breakfast at the South Shore Country club, after which the bride and groom will depart for a fortnight's motor trip to Maine. Miss Moore and Mr. Silverwood are both graduates of the University of Chicago, where she is a member of the Wyvern club and he of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Mrs. Philip Rhinelander II. and daughter, Miss Le Brun Rhinelander, and Mrs. H. Eugene Parsons, have gone to Hot Springs, Va., today for the fall season.

Mr. and Mrs. Junius Parker started yesterday for their new country place at Chappaqua, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Buchanan Gifford returned from Europe on the Mauretania.

Mr. and Mrs. David S. Cowles left for Woodpecker Ridge farm, near North Stamford, Conn.

Spoiled Child Is Annoyance to Every One

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A Play Booklet will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It is amusing. One writes hundreds of articles suggesting that for a child's own good and for the social obligation that every human being has, he should: Learn the self-control that comes with well directed energy, learn to be intelligently obedient, learn to serve a health routine, acquire agreeable and efficient table and other manners, and learn to play, not demanding fussing and attention from grownups.

As I say, when one writes to that effect for years, it is quite amusing to receive a letter with an opening paragraph like the following. But because it may help the too indulgent mother by the picture it paints of a spoiled child, I want to print it.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: In your advice to mothers on how to train their children, why do you never stress the importance of early training in conduct? So many young mothers of today seem to know nothing whatever of the proper training of children, but say, 'Please, darling, don't do that,' and at the same time let them go ahead and do as they please.

"We entertained a young couple recently with one child of 2 years. I had a basket of toys for him to play with, but do you think he was content with those? Not so. He teased for [and got] almost anything he could see in the house.

"And at the table his manners were surely nauseating, to say the least. No training on how to eat neatly and properly had ever been given him. He demanded his mother's salad and she at once gave it to him, and anything else he asked for.

"We all love children and it is a pleasure to meet and entertain a child whose mother has enough firmness in her makeup to at least teach him the decencies of life, a little consideration for the rights of others.

"With my children I realized that others could not like them if we spoiled them while they were young. So we always insisted on good table conduct from the time they were old enough to appear at table, and so were not embarrassed by naughty children when we visited our friends. Please write a line to the 'blind' mothers who refuse to see how their children are disliked, or why."

U. S. OFFICIAL HONORED FOR SERUM THAT HALTS SPOTTED FEVER

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—(AP)—By developing a vaccine Dr. R. R. Spencer of the United States public health service this year saved 6,000 persons from the deadly Rocky Mountain spotted fever and won the gold medal of the American Medical association.

In one locality public health records show death in 85 per cent of the adults contracting the disease in the last twelve years.

Dr. Spencer values that medal most, he admitted today, because of the glory it reflects on his home town of Richmond, Va., and his alma mater, the University of Richmond. He is going down there soon to receive a Phi Beta Kappa key that he will cherish along with the medal.

"I suppose the reason I got the medal is that it's the only vaccine in the world made of insects—ground up ticks," he said. "Knowing that ticks carried it, I figured that with ticks I could inoculate against it. I tried it on guinea pigs, and it didn't kill them, so I tried it on myself, and it worked."

Spencer explained that his really valuable discovery was the hibernating habits of tick and virus concerned in the spread of spotted fever. When winter winds sweep the sheep herding sections of Montana, Wyoming, and Idaho, Spencer explained, the ticks on sheep and wild animals become quiescent. The virus within the tick also hibernates, he said.

Only through a duplication of this hibernation could an efficacious vaccine be developed, he discovered.

"After allowing the ticks to feed on infected animals we put them into a refrigerator to hibernate," he explained. "When taken out they have no effect. But let a tick take one drop of blood from a host—and enough poison develops in that one tick to kill a thousand guinea pigs."

Tailored Ensembles Trimmed with Ribbon

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris is reviving all sorts of old favorites to trim her latest creations. Embroidery, braiding, lace edging, chenille are all being pressed into service to decorate brand new style capes. Velvet ribbon bands, knots and sashes lend variety to plain and printed chiffon frocks.

The latest idea of all is using ribbon ruchings and inserts to trim wool costumes. It is launched by Callot Soeurs, who are regular fairy godmothers at creating feminine charm through dainty decoration.

Above is sketched a Callot tailored ensemble of pale gray wool trimmed with grosgrain ribbon in darker gray and red. The blouse of the short sleeved frock has six pointed nervures in front that mount to meet the pointed decolletage, which is finished with a flat incrustation of dark gray grosgrain ribbon. A similar incrustation is inserted two inches from the edge all round the short, slightly flaring jacket and it also forms cuffs on the long sleeves.

The skirt of this ensemble is the most original part of it. It is plaited all round and the plaits are invisibly stitched to just above the knees. From that point the dark gray grosgrain ribbon inserted between the plaits gives an interesting shadow effect. The plaits in the front change their mind half way down the skirt and take a zigzag turn before they continue their straight and narrow path toward the hem. These zigzags are graduated in size from right to left. They are accentuated by plaited ruchings of red grosgrain ribbon, attached at the inside edge, that stick out smartly from the frock in chevron designs.

The assymetrical turban is of wide, dark gray grosgrain ribbon knotted high over the left eyebrow and draped down into a large bow at the back.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Books, but No Bookcase.

"A community center has recently been established in our neighborhood. I am trying to organize a reading room and am wondering if you could help me to obtain a bookcase some one no longer needs. We have been successful in getting books and magazines, but have no place to put them now. H. W."

Ample protection will insure longer life for the books in this new library, and will therefore benefit a larger number of readers. Have you the stray bookcase which will give this protection?

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Marriage Intention Lacking.

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend has no intentions of marrying and I love him dearly. Should I continue our friendship? For fourteen months I've been going with him off and on. Do you think he'll change his mind? "M. L. E."

You don't want to spoil your opportunities with others by sticking to one who has no intentions of marriage.

The End of Summer May Call for Change of Powder and Rouge

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You may not be the same color at all that you were at the beginning of the sunning season. You may be many shades darker of complexion. In which event you may find it more becoming to change the shade of your face powder.

A few layers of tan make a great difference in the becomingness of a powder that suited a fair white skin. That does not mean, however, that you have to throw out the expensive powder you brought to the country with you. You can go in for mixing. You can get a brownish shade of powder or a deep tan, as the new coating of the skin prompts, and add a little of it to the lighter powder.

It is easy to blend powder and rather good fun, too. Lay a fair sized sheet of white paper on the table. Take a few spoonfuls of the lighter powder to one of the darker to start with and blend them together with a silver knife. The knife works better than the spoon. Then shake the paper lightly to finish the blending.

If you need a still darker shade, simply add more of the darker powder. If you get it too dark you can add more of the light. You may, out of the experiment, get a powder that you'll like better than anything you ever had.

The light powder on the tanned skin does not look nice. Neither is it consistent with every vacationist's desire to come back with a healthy coat of tan. Occasionally you see on a colored girl the effect of a too pale powder against a dusky skin—and it is not attractive. It does queer things to the eyes for some reason.

Another thing the changed tone of a tanned skin often calls for is a new color lipstick. Against the golden brown complexion the former lipstick shade may look purplish or so pale as to be insignificant. And you must cover the entire lip surface away back inside with the lip rouge. When the skin is tanned and part of the lip surface is exposed in its own pale natural shade, the effect is that of a sickish looking mouth. And you don't want that when blooming health is the thing you are outdoors struggling to attain.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

What was the most embarrassing moment of your life? If you care to have it published, address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Please write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned.

Reflection.

The home that I work in as mother's helper has a small butler's pantry with a cupboard. A large tray with a glass top on this cupboard serves me beautifully as a mirror. One day I was before this tray with a supposed-to-be Clara Bow smile on my face and a pose as of a diver being photographed. Can you imagine my consternation when I saw the handsome son of the house had been watching me for a few minutes? When I was finally aware of his presence he said, with a sarcastic grin on his face, "Was that all for me?" Certainly I don't need to say that I was overwhelmingly embarrassed and will never forget that moment. G. A. K.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

B. L.: BLONDES SHOULD USE rouge sparingly and in delicate colorings. Glaring make-up cheapens their appearance.

C. J.: GROUND PUMICE STONE moistened with peroxide may be used for under-the-nail stains. Scrub with a brush. Cigarette stains may be removed this way. My booklet on hands may be had for a stamped addressed envelope.

Working Mother Offers Advice on Money Management

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Out of the welter of mail following the appearance in this column of a letter from a couple whose combined incomes totaled $120 a week, but who feared this would not be enough to manage to rear a baby in the style to which the parents would have it become accustomed, one woman offers a valuable contribution in money management, valuable right now when every one is trying to adapt living to stricter budget ruling.

"If I had an income of $120 a week," protests the writer, "I'd have a dozen children, instead of three."

The woman has been married ten years, has three children, and has worked off and on during her married life to add to the family income.

"My husband has made $35 a week for the last ten years and we have had quite a few ups and downs. Even that salary is not a steady one. During the winter months it is sometimes reduced by almost half. During the business depression he lost four months' work, but is now working full time. Yet we have a nice apartment, pay $62.50 rent, garage included, in which we house a little car, old but in good running condition, pay $1 a month for the boy's school tuition and give him music lessons besides. We have a good radio and we feel we are not doing without much. We even put away a few pennies for a rainy day, and my income is less than my husband's.

"To revert to the couple who worry about $120 a week not being enough, what must they think of all the families, thousands of them right here in our big city, who are getting along on about a third their income? It certainly is laughable to picture the high hat pair.

"O, if I were only getting an income like that I know I would be willing to share one-quarter of it and help feed some poor family. Then I would be happy."

Food Talk.

Constipation is one of the recognized ills of the present day. Dizzy spells, headaches, fatigue, irritated appendix, dull complexions, and bad breath are many times produced through poor elimination. Often the afflicted think their elimination is adequate, and they go on from day to day attributing their trouble to some other cause. A thorough daily internal renovation will give relief in many such cases.

Elimination in normal individuals is normal when diet and habits are normal. Some of us allow our work to make us lazy about eating and exercising. And diet is just as essential as exercise in obtaining natural intestinal movements.

A diet which prevents or corrects constipation must include bulky foods, contain some with vegetable acids and a few that tend to yield a little gas, and some that lubricate the tract.

Lack of bulky food is one of the main causes of constipation. The tract must have something to eliminate before it can, and the only kind of substance that can be eliminated is something that cannot be digested. Fruits and vegetables contain cellulose, or woody fiber, which is not, as a rule, digested or absorbed and which tends to hold and even take up water.

Foods rich in cellulose are asparagus, cabbage, celery, dried beans and dried peas, lettuce, onions, spinach, figs, prunes, raisins, any fruits eaten with their skins, and cereals from which bran has not been removed, such as rolled oats and whole wheat cereal. Vegetable acids that act as mild stimulants to intestinal movements occur in oranges, lemons, rhubarb, apples, and tomatoes. Those with stomachs sensitive to concentrated acids should indulge in milder fruits, such as figs and prunes. (One fruit containing quite a little acid which is constipating is blackberries.)

Foods that yield gas are honey, molasses, onions, cabbage, dried beans, and cauliflower. The gas formed in fermentation breaks up the hard masses of intestinal material and acts as a stimulant to movement.

Lubricants in food, of course, include fats. Oils that can be digested, like olive oil and butter, are effective. Mineral oil that is not digested helps to soften the residue and lubricate the tract.

Drinking at least eight glasses of water daily stimulates intestinal movements and flushes the system, carrying away waste through the kidneys.

It is true that in some cases constipation cannot be remedied by diet. It may be due to some obstruction that calls for medical attention. Bulky foods sometimes do more harm than good. For this reason it is wise always to consult a physician for the real cause. No advice given by a layman should ever be considered safe.

$65,000 HORSE DROPS DEAD IN LINCOLN FIELDS RACE

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO SON OF MAN O' WAR

Broadway Limited Is Maiden at Death.

BY FRENCH LANE.

They buried a millionaire's $65,000 colt dream just beyond the outer turn on the turn into the home stretch at Lincoln Fields late yesterday afternoon. It was the 3 year old Broadway Limited, which dropped dead from heart attack in the seven furlong [illegible] purse. Maybe his daddy, Man o' War, shed a tear down in his old Kentucky home. Perhaps his mother, Starlight, also was sad in her Virginia quarters.

W. T. Waggoner, the Texas multi-millionaire owner of Broadway Limited also might have been sad if he had a particular liking for this horse. The Broadway Limited was insured for $65,000, and that no doubt will ease Mr. Waggoner's grief.

Let's turn the pages of turf history back three years and go to Saratoga late August, 1928.

Yearlings Bring Large Sums.

Times were good in those days. The boom was at its crest. Everybody had money, particularly those oil and cattle men from Texas, of which Mr. Waggoner is one of the richest.

Yearling thoroughbred horses were bringing unheard of prices. Records were being broken every night. Early near the end of the sale a colt, well put up son of Man o' War was led into the ring. He had been sold by Cary T. Grayson and was offered for sale by that master salesman, Col. Phil Chinn of Kentucky.

The fashionable and the wealthy of the east, the middle west, the north, the south and the far west were in the chairs surrounding the sales ring, as the word had been passed around that the prize yearling of the year was to go under the hammer.

First Bid $20,000.

The first bid for this son of Man o' War—Starflight was $20,000. It came from a wealthy easterner. A representative of Mr. Waggoner said, "I bid $30,000." Up and up went the bid, and when they were finished the auctioneer rapped three times with his hammer, announcing: "Sold to W. T. Waggoner of Texas for $65,000."

It was the highest price paid for a yearling in that year of prosperity. It was the second highest price ever paid for a yearling in America. The colt was named Broadway Limited.

As a 2 year old last season he started five times against Whichone, Sunset Fox and other leading youngsters. He never was in the money. As a 3 year old this season, he was making his fourth start when his heart stopped at the head of the stretch in the seven furlong Prospect purse.

Jockey Escapes Injury.

He dropped dead in his tracks. His jockey, T. May, escaped injury. Thus passed out the $65,000 colt which never had been in the money. It did not awaken the crowd. Hardened racegoers do not respect a thoroughbred, no matter how royally bred, if he fails to run after time to accomplish anything.

Lawyer went on to win the Prospect by six lengths from Diodora with Molly's Pride third in one of the fastest run races of the afternoon. Leading all the way, Lawyer sped over the seven furlong course in 1:25 and was eased up toward the finish when his victory appeared certain to Jockey E. Litzenberger.

The old Kentucky Derby disappointment, Tranery, came to life in yesterday's feature, the Dixie Highway purse, at six furlongs, and won by two lengths in a driving finish. Herbert, another Kentucky colt, was second, Sutton was third. There was a one minute plunge on Galahad, but after getting away far back he never figured in the running.

Caraway Gives 3 Hits in 13 Innings; Sox Beat Indians, 3-0

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Aug. 29.—For a young man just starting out in the world Cecil Pat Caraway is progressing rapidly. Like a seasoned campaigner he unwound his lengthy, limber frame through thirteen tight, machinelike innings today, and reward came to him in the shape of a 3 to 0 White Sox triumph over the Indians. And what's more it was Cecil Pat whose bat helped to bring about the end of the monotonous string of goose eggs decorating the score board.

The Indians' hits tell the true story of how Pat pitched. There were only three of them made off his peculiar, deceptive left handed delivery in the thirteen innings. These were singles and widely scattered. He gave only two passes. There was only one inning in which the Tribe had more than one runner on the base lines. And until the thirteenth when Seeds walked, moved to second on an out, and strolled to third unnoticed, nobody had passed second base on the courageous southpaw.

Sox Get 12 Hits Without Run.

Why the Sox failed to score before the thirteenth may seem somewhat of a mystery. Before the thirteenth, when three hits and an error broke the scoreless tie, the Chicagoans had pounded Clint Brown for twelve hits. Time after time they had a man on base with none out. A couple of times they had a pair on base, waiting for developments. Twice they had the bases filled, once with only one out. Yet with all these opportunities they were turned back. They couldn't get a break in the pinches, at least not until the thirteenth.

The final inning started off with Clancy singling to right. Watwood bunted and was safe when Brown tried to pick up the bunt and fumbled. Kamm fouled out after a vain attempt to sacrifice. The possibilities of some scoring faded further when Fothergill, batting for Crouse, swung blindly at a third strike.

Then Caraway entered the argument as a hitter. Earlier he had almost broken up the fight by doubling. He did it again. This one crashed against the right field wall, and Clancy tore home with the first run of the day, Watwood halting at third. That lone run would have been enough, but Mulleavy, who didn't get in the game until Manager Bush did some juggling of the lineup in the ninth, made the decision a bit more secure. He lined a single to right, sending Watwood and Caraway across the plate.

The first of the three hits off Caraway was Morgan's single starting the second inning. He didn't get off first base. Hodapp opened the fifth with a hit. He went as far as second before Caraway fanned Goldman for the third out. These were the only two

GIANTS REGAIN 2D PLACE FROM ROBINS, 3 TO 2

Allen's Homer and Finn's Error Help N. Y. Win.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New York, Aug. 29.—The Giants won the third game of their grim series with Uncle Wilbert Robinson's Nonsense Boys at the Polo grounds Friday afternoon and reascended to second place, the height of ambition on both sides of the controversy. The score was 3 to 2 and while the ball game lacked the hilarity of some of the shows produced by the Brooklyn athletes, it was an eventful contest and the people, numbering about 25,000, seemed to enjoy the change of pace.

It began as one of those old style games known as a pitchers' duel and after a sufficient spell of that the boys began to take toe holds and hit. There were two home runs, one apiece by Rube Bressler of the Robins and Ethan Allen of the Giants. Mickey Finn, the Robins' second baseman, kicked a grounder in the eighth inning, allowing the Giants their winning run.

Critz Lessens Confusion.

Pitching a drunken kind of curve that lurched as it nighed the plate, Lefty Clark of the Robins had the Giants thoroughly confused until the sixth inning when Hughie Critz, the lead-off hitter, got a single, which was only the second hit of the game for his side. Allen, up next, also singled, and from that point on the confusion was less confusing to John McGraw's employés.

Shanty Hogan and Travis Jackson got two more singles in the seventh and the ball game was decided in the eighth when Allen belted one into the left field stands for one run and some other incidents contributed two more.

Fat Fred Fitzsimmons pitched seven innings for the Giants and was excused to admit Bob O'Farrell as pinch hitter who quietly struck out. Bill Walker, a lefthander, finished the job without incident. The Nonsense Boys began briskly when Johnny Frederick, their first hitter, knocked a double to left, advanced on Gilbert's sacrifice and scored on Babe Herman's long fly to Allen in center. Bressler's home run in the second closed their earnings for the day and, as the game dragged along, even before the Giants scored at all, the patrons seemed to sense that two runs would not be enough to win.

Mr. Hogan Scores.

The Giants' two hits in the sixth went for nothing in the scoring, although Critz pioneered as far as third, but in the seventh the huge Mr. Hogan, attired in positively the dirtiest set of flannels ever seen on these grounds, arrived in a panting and exceedingly moist condition with a run. He had bounced a rather apologetic single off Del Bissonette's glove as the Robins' first baseman leaped a yard in the air and hit the ball a passing slap, breaking its carry. Jackson singled deep into center field and Hogan arrived at third, puffing like a yard engine.

It takes patience and power to move Mr. Hogan around the bases and any time he scores a run you may take it for granted that it was a hard earned run. Roettger brought him in when he forced Jackson at second, and the crowd emitted cheery sounds, not quite free of derision. Mr. Hogan was leaking from every pore and seemed on the point of collapse from his travels.

Although they lost the ball game in their last two defensive innings, the seventh and eighth, the Nonsense Boys performed some amazing feats in these two periods and Bressler in particular stirred the attendance. He went way to the wall in left field, leaped high with his gloved hand against the concrete and, while thus stretched full out, brought down an all but impossible ball dispatched by the pernicious Critz. This miracle retired the side and the patrons yelped

STEVIE TRIPLES, BELL SINGLES TO SCORE VICTORY

Both Teams Get 3 Runs in 11th.

Victory enabled the Cubs to increase their National league lead yesterday. They now are 6½ games ahead of the Giants, who advanced to second place. Brooklyn, in third place, trails the champions by 6 games, and the fourth place Cardinals are 6½ games from the top.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Our Cubs were willing to admit the Chicago-St. Louis 20 inning thriller on Thursday was one of the most exciting games ever played, but they found little to cheer in the unusual features of the conflict, for they lost. So yesterday they put on a highly similar game, with bigger and better thrills, and the home lads won, 9 to 8. The climax came in the 13th inning, when Stephenson tripled and came home on Lester Bell's single.

The points of similarity between the two contests up to the point of the final decision are striking. You couldn't find twin games nearer alike, perhaps, in a search of all time records, yet these two were played between the same clubs on successive days.

Yesterday, as on Thursday, the Cubs overcame a 5 to 0 lead. Thursday they did it with three runs in the seventh and two in the eighth. Yesterday they did it with five runs in the ninth. Both games went into extra innings, with the score 5 to 5.

Both Score in Eleventh.

Thursday the Cards cast down Chicago partisans by scoring two runs in the first half of the fifteenth and the Cubs amazed the spectators by tying the score with two runs in their half. Yesterday, in the interest of bigger and better thrills, Jim Bottomley knocked a homer with two runners on base in the eleventh, after an error with two out had kept the inning alive. And the Cubs, eager to scale even higher peaks than those of the preceding day, came back and tied the score with three runs in their half of the eleventh.

Happily, and thanks to Stevie and Lester Bell, the similarity ceases at this point. The Cubs won in the thirteenth and increased their league lead to 5½ games.

That big thirteenth was a fitting climax to such a clash. The game all through had been characterized by hitting of a sensational character. Stephenson, playing his first full game in three weeks, had sharpened up his batting eye with an important single in the rally which had tied the score in the eleventh. Stevie was the first Cub to go to bat in the thirteenth.

The sturdy Alabaman put all his power into a characteristic swoop. The ball shot to right center. "She's in," the crowd's cry for a homer in the making arose from the stands. But it wasn't a homer. It hit the screen near the top and bounded back into field, Douthit in hot pursuit.

Slides to Third for Triple.

Going into second, Stevie, running faster than he knows how, stumbled and almost went down. But his football training came back to him. Stevie used the stumble to increase his speed. He executed a football spinner play to get around second, then regained his balance and raced on to third, concluding the trip with a plowing slide.

Burleigh Grimes, ancient Cub foe, who, like the Cubs' finishing pitcher, Pat Malone, had started Thursday's game and had come back after one night's rest for desperate relief work, just as Pat had been called, was in a panic. But he knew his only chance. He forthwith walked Danny Taylor and George Kelly to fill the bases, to make a forceout possible at the plate and every base. But the strategy didn't work. Lester Bell stepped up and smacked a single to left center. Stevie and Danny both could have

Cubs Owe Their Success to Good Subs, Fan Says

THE TRIBUNE has invited baseball fans to tell what they think about the Cubs and their prospects of retaining the National league championship. Contributions must be limited to 200 words. Send them to the sports editor of THE TRIBUNE. Following are two picked out of yesterday's mail pouch:

"A team is as good as its substitutes. The Cubs this season have been unfortunate in losing regular players by injuries. What other team has reserves like Dan Taylor, Zach Taylor, Heathcote, Blair, Beck, and Kelly? They have filled in splendidly.

"Another factor in the Cubs' success has been the leadership of Joe McCarthy. He has shown marked ability in choosing the right player for the right position. For examples take Doc Farrell and George Kelly.

"It, of course, is almost impossible to pick one man who alone has been responsible for the team's good showing. Cuyler, Hartnett, English, and Wilson have contributed more than their share. Root, Malone, Teachout, and Osborn have been holding up the pitching staff.

"The Cubs have had some tough breaks. They have a wonderful ball club and a good manager."

JOHN BRICHETTS,
4960 Maypole avenue, Chicago.

ANOTHER POINT OF VIEW.

"I attribute the Cubs so-called success in winning ball games to these facts:

"1. Playing in a cheese box ball park.

"2. Certain players purposely swinging late so that their pop flies fall for home runs in the short right field bleachers."

JOHN GETCH,
4201 S. Halsted street, Chicago.

Cubs, Cards Are Nice Boys, Lady Fans Say

That thirteen inning thriller produced by the Cubs and Cardinals yesterday proved to the ladies' day crowd at Wrigley field what right obliging gentlemen ball players can be. Most of the feminine fans came to the park yesterday feeling they had been cheated of some special brand of entertainment in missing Thursday's twenty inning battle, but they went away last night sure that they had seen a better game and thought it certainly was nice of the boys to put on another extra inning performance for them.

Naturally, the Cubs drew the biggest hand from the women, although there was applause for George Watkins' catch of Kelly's fly in the ninth and for Jim Bottomley's homer with two on in the eleventh.

They Buy Tickets.

Inability to obtain passes in the regular ladies' day allotment has not daunted the fair fans, inquiry among them developed yesterday. If they can't draw a pass, they buy a ticket and many of them attend every home game.

Here are a few of their comments:

Mrs. Herbert Barth, 3128 North Kenneth avenue, Chicago—I like the game because I enjoy the sport and because I am out in the fresh air. I had passes the first two or three times, and since then I have found it so interesting that I have purchased tickets. The days that I am unable to attend I listen over the radio. My only objection is that I think the Cubs could have more attractive colored uniforms.

Mrs. Lyda Anda, 1601 Wilson avenue, Chicago—I come to hear the women cheer and applaud an American sport. Passes have helped me to understand the game, and I can think of nothing I'd rather do than go to baseball games.

Drives 120 Miles.

Mrs. Fred Lumpp of Niles Center was quite thrilled about the game yesterday. "I am 61 years old, and this is my first ball game," she said. "It is the most exciting sport I have watched in all my life. I am going to attend the games from now on as often as possible."

Mrs. Gustav Brunke of Sycamore drove 120 miles yesterday to see the game. "If I didn't have a family, I'd follow the Cubs all over," she said. "Personally, I don't believe I'll ever see enough baseball games."

Miss Alice McMahon, 4036 Carroll avenue, Chicago, plays baseball at Emmett playground. She attends the games as often as possible and enjoys the sport from the view of a spectator as well as a player.

Miss Catherine O'Connor, 1120 Springfield avenue, Chicago, said: "I believe radio interested a great many women in baseball. I always listen in when not at the game, and if I haven't a pass I buy a ticket. The Cubs should get some additional pitchers, but I do hope they win the pennant."

Wilson Is Added to Growing List of Injured Cubs

Hack Wilson, home run king of the National league, yesterday joined Manager Joe McCarthy's growing hospital list. When Hack awoke yesterday morning he found himself incapacitated from muscle injuries to his left side. Hack said he was hurt swinging when he went to bat in the seventh inning of Thursday's game between the Cubs and the Cardinals. He continued in the game for the remaining 13 innings, but the pain became aggravated during the night and he had to place himself in the care of a physician.

Fred Blake, who injured his back in the tenth inning of the Thursday game, was in a hospital undergoing treatments to his muscles in the hope he will be able to go on the big road trip which opens tomorrow night.

Charley Root, the other cripple, still is suffering from the pulled muscle in his pitching arm and may not accompany the team when it leaves for Cincinnati for the Labor day games.

These hospital items were balanced somewhat by the return to the lineup of Riggs Stephenson, who had been out for three weeks, and the demonstration that Rogers Hornsby is again able to run. Hornsby got a pass in yesterday's game and requested that he be permitted to remain on base as a runner.

EARLIER CHICAGO.

CONSIDERING the present use of "artificial crimson," tan, or what have you? Helper J. M. S. offers the appended commentary on earrings appearing in a staid and respected national monthly magazine in December, 1895:

"The disuse of the earring is not quite universal among the rising generation, but the ornament in question has disappeared wholly from the ears of the fashionable and better bred women and girls. It is, we think, not too much to say that in New York, at least, jewelry in the ear of one of this class would cause her to be regarded much with the same feeling that she would arouse if her cheeks showed unmistakable signs of artificial crimson.

"What is true of the girls of more careful training and undoubted social position is more or less true of the girls of the great middle class. Some of these, however—and it is to be regretted—still affect the jeweled ear, a barbaric custom little better except for conventional sanction than that kindred bit of barbarism, the jeweled nose.

"This reformation has been going on but a few years at most, but its progress has been so rapid that we venture the prediction that the incoming century will not find fifty per cent of the American women with their ears mutilated for the purpose of a barbaric ornamentation, and perhaps not twenty-per cent wearing it."

In 1880 Henry Ackerburg, the cigar man now located on Madison near Wells, was chief clerk at the cigar stand in Charley Kern's restaurant at Washington and La Salle. This was a position, not a job, in those days, for the cigar counter man always visited and joked with the good customers, important personages from the city hall, and the bulls and bears from the Board of Trade.

Stanford University.

"Pop" Warner, football coach of Leland Stanford university, here for the Northwestern coaching school, was somewhat gloomy inclined to take a somewhat gloomy long range view of Stanford athletics. It was not the characteristic pessimism popular among coaches, but an appraisal of conditions and future material.

Stanford, as most of you know, is one of the American universities which inclines to the old fashioned view that it is an educational institution and not a country club. Its entrance requirements are high and its incoming students are limited in number to undergraduate facilities. Perhaps, incorrectly, we are informed the freshmen will number only 350.

Warner feels that smaller entering classes and high requirements are likely to reduce available athletic material. Coaches of athletic teams at other "educationable" institutions have told us that while stiff entrance requirements limit the number of candidates and give less good physical material, the men secured are more intelligent and generally "stick" without danger of the ineligibility snag.

Judge Fixes Closing Hours for Baby Golf Courses

By decree of Judge Immenhausen yesterday in Shakespeare avenue court, closing hours for miniature golf courses were fixed at 12:30 a. m. on weekdays and 1 a. m. on Saturdays and Sundays. C. M. Christensen, operator of a course at Drake avenue and Irving Park boulevard, was in court to answer complaints of neighbors that his boisterous customers disturbed their slumbers all night. The judge suggested that the complainant seek an injunction if Christensen fails to close at a reasonable hour.

CUBS VANQUISH CARDINALS, 9-8, IN 13 INNINGS

Stephenson Gets Winning Run on Bell's Hit.

Out of the struggle emerged several Chicago heroes. Lester Bell is No. 1 on our list, because he made three hits in the extra innings, one of which drove in the tying run in the eleventh and one of which drove in the winning run in the thirteenth.

Stephenson, frisky after his long illness, is No. 2. His triple was the big factor in the windup in the thirteenth and his single in the eleventh a big factor in the tying proceedings of that inning.

Taylor Hero No. 3.

Danny Taylor is rated just as much of a hero as No. 1 and No. 2, but he's had enough of the superlatives for stealing home and doing other spectacular things. It would have been just too bad if Danny hadn't singled in the ninth and sadder still if Mier in the same inning Danny hadn't run that three balls and two strikes to a walk which forced in the tying run. And where would the ball game have been if Danny hadn't doubled with two on in the eleventh?

There were defensive heroes, too. Teachout, for instance, until Blair upset him with an unfortunate error in the eleventh. And Malone, the National league's rankin; pitcher, who got credit for his seventeenth victory of the season because he stopped the enemy in the 12th and 13th.

Jess Petty will perform against Jim Lindsey in the third and semi-final game of the series this afternoon.

Details of the Game.

Now we'll give you the details from the start.

The Cubs weren't able to give the Red Birds a goose egg until the fifth inning, the Red Birds giving them nothing else but zeros the while.

Douthit got his bat in the way of a single to start the game and had no trouble in getting home on Sparky Adams' triple to right, the first of five hits this little man propelled. High walked and, after Bottomley had flied to Stephenson and Fisher had fanned, High stole second. Watkins was given an intentional pass, filling the bases and J. Wilson forced High, Bell unassisted.

Little Sparky was again the big shot in the production of a run in the second inning. Gelbert walked, went to second on Haines' sacrifice, paused while Douthit fled to Stephenson and came home on Adams' double to left.

Watkins' homer gave the Cards their quota in the third and singles by J. Wilson and Gelbert later in the inning were sheer waste.

In the fourth the Cards raised their scale and made two runs to wind up their scoring until Mr. Bottomley did his stuff in the eleventh.

Douthit grounded out to English to start the fourth but Adams doubled to left and High followed him with another two bagger, scoring Sparky. Bottomley flied to Bell for the second out. Fisher singled to right, scoring High and then stole second but the scoring ended when Watkins grounded to Bell.

Taylor Starts Rally.

Jess Haines had toyed with our boys all afternoon and there was little excitement when Danny Taylor led off the ninth with a single, the eighth hit of the day off the Cards' veteran right hander. But the 35,000 ladies' day customers perked up a bit when Kelly smacked out his third hit. The rally had started.

The runners held on while Bell flied to Douthit but the bases were full when Adams juggled J. Taylor's grounder. Hartnett batted for Nelson and singled to center, scoring D. Taylor and Kelly, J. Taylor stopping at second. Farrell ran for Hartnett. Blair singled to center and the bases were full when J. Taylor pulled up at third. English singled to center, scoring J. Taylor and Farrell, Blair stopping at second. Herman Bell relieved Haines. The runners moved up while Cuyler was rolling out to Bottomley.

Watkins' Catch Ends Rally.

Stephenson was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. D. Taylor walked after a three and two count, forcing in Blair with the tying run. With the bases still full Kelly ran the count to two balls and two strikes before sending a fly to right. It appeared to be a certain game wrecking hit, but Watkins made a great catch and the score was tied at 5 to 5.

Teachout went in to pitch the tenth. He threw three straight strikes past Watkins. He threw three straight strikes past J. Wilson. He threw his seventh straight strike to Gelbert. Then Gelbert tapped one and Teachout threw him out. In the Cub tenth the Cubs had men on third and second, but couldn't score. The screaming lady guests had lost their voices. The every day customers were sustaining the din.

Then came the eleventh with two out and a man on first. High sent an easy grounder to Blair for a potential third out. Clarence booted the ball. Still two out, two on, and Teachout was distressed no end. He threw one to Jim Bottomley. Jim knocked it over the right field screen, and the score was: Cards, 8; Cubs, 5. By now everybody had lost his voice except for groaning purposes.

Cuyler Starts It.

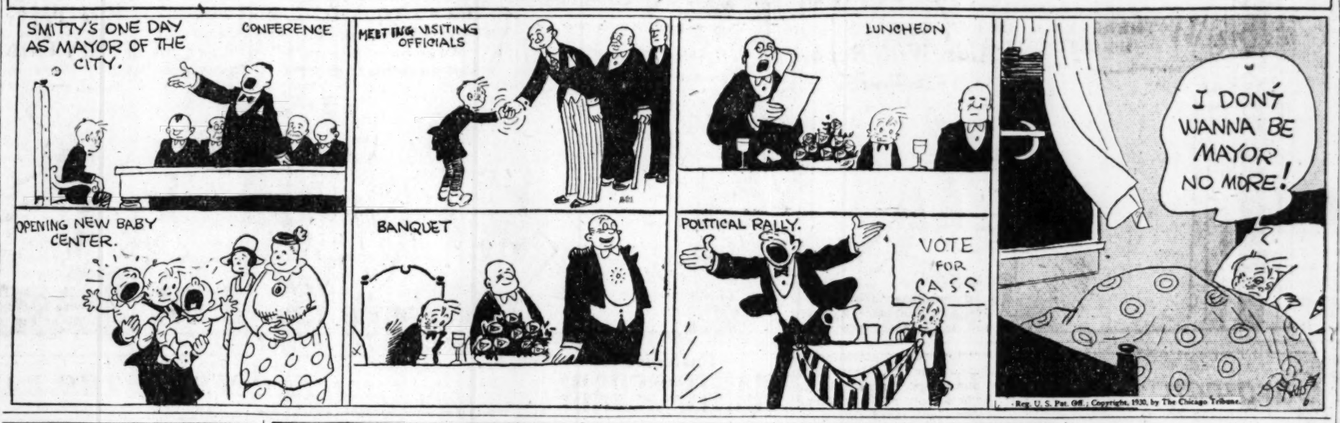
Cuyler opened the Cub eleventh with a single to center. Stephenson singled to left, Ki stopping at second. Old Devil Man Grimes relieved H. Bell. Danny Taylor came up again. Danny doubled to right, Cuyler scoring and Steve stopping at third. Steve scored and Danny stayed at second while Gelbert threw out Kelly. Lester Bell singled to left, the first of his two hero acts, sending Danny home with the tying run.

The ladies and the regular customers all recovered their voices. Malone went in to pitch the twelfth. It was one-two-three for the Cards and one-two-three for the Cubs in their end of the twelfth.

The Cards' thirteenth was marked only by Sparky Adams' fifth hit, which went for naught. Then Steve and Lester performed as heretofore described.

MOON MULLINS—AN OLD FAMILY CUSTOM

SMITTY—HOME, SWEET HOME



It Wasn't Mr. Street's Fault the Cards Lost

The Cubs' victory of yesterday was a heartbreaker to the Cardinals and their followers, but it was a game in which none of the latter could engage in the usual aftermath of such losses —second guessing the manager.

Manager Gabby Street, boss of the Cards, could not be censured fairly for any of his maneuvers in the defeat. A manager has need of few alibis when veteran pitchers can't protect five and three run leads. Street yesterday used Jess Haines, Herman Bell, and Burleigh Grimes, veterans of many a hard fought game in which they have protected much slimmer leads than those each had yesterday.

He'll Be Back Today.

Street will be back at Wrigley field this afternoon, fighting as though nothing had happened. He was that kind of a ball player and he is proving that kind of manager.

Gabby joined the Cards last year as a coach under Bill McKechnie. In some baseball circles it is not considered quite the thing for a coach to succeed his manager. But Gabby was not subjected to criticism when he took McKechnie's job this year, because of the Cardinals' practice of changing managers at least once a year.

The club went into the doldrums during the middle of this summer on a tip that Gabby was scheduled for the customary bounce. But the Cardinal front office crossed precedent a month ago by signing Street to manage the club in 1931. There was an immediate perking up of the Red Birds and they have been playing great ball ever since the boss' reappointment.

Street, whose right name is Charles, gained his greatest fame as Walter Johnson's catcher in the days when Walter's speed was dazzling baseballdom and perturbing scientists. It was thought at the time he was the only catcher who could hold Johnson's rifle shots.

Went to Senators in 1907.

Street went to Washington after tryouts with the Cincinnati and Boston clubs in the National league. He was sold to Washington by the San Francisco Seals at the close of the 1907 season and was a star in the 1908-'09-'10 and '11 seasons. In 1912 he went to the Yankees, then to Providence. He continued in the minors for several years, then became a scout for various clubs. ' He was signed to assist McKechnie at the outset of the 1929 season, devoting most of his time to the handling of the batteries.

Street is 47 years old, having been born in Huntsville, Ala., Feb. 27, 1883.

MOORE DEFEATS CACCIAPAGLIA IN JUNIOR CUE FINAL

Robert Moore of Grand Rapids, Mich., last night won the first annual national junior pocket billiards championship tournament by taking the final block of their 450 point match from Charles Cacciapaglia of Rockford, Ill.

The 13 year old Grand Rapids player defeated Cacciapaglia, 74 to 51, in the night block, which required 16 innings, after taking the afternoon block, 71 to 59, in 19 innings. Moore's total was 450, to 311 for the boy from Rockford.

Dorothy Page, Mrs. Tyson to Meet in Final

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, defending champion in the women's western golf tournament, was eliminated from the 28th annual tournament today by Miss Dorothy Page, Madison, Wis.

In the 36 hole final tomorrow Miss Page, champion in 1927, will meet Mrs. G. W. Tyson, Kansas City, winner in 1923 and national champion in 1927. Miss Page defeated Mrs. Hill one up on the 18th green, while Mrs. Miriam Burns Tyson turned back the 1929 runner-up, Mrs. Gregg Lifur, 3 and 2.

Miss Page Rallies to Win.

Whereas Mrs. Tyson held the advantage at the turn and at no time in the match trailed Mrs. Lifur, Miss Page came from behind to take the lead and then played doggedly to stave off a last hole rally by Mrs. Hill.

At the end of nine holes, Mrs. Hill was two up, having won the eighth and ninth. On the 600 yard 10th, a par six for women, Mrs. Hill found two traps, took an 8 and lost the hole to be only one up. Taking advantage of this break, Miss Page ran down a par on the 11th and then won the 12th with a 5, one over par, when Mrs. Hill again hit a trap. The advantage then rested with the Wisconsin girl and despite brilliant shooting on the closing holes, the champion could not catch her.

Mrs. Tyson encountered trouble on the eighth and ninth and made the turn only one up over Mrs. Lifur, despite a 3 hole advantage she held at the end of five holes. Mrs. Tyson then won the 10th, 11th, and 12th holes to go four up again, but on the 13th she dubbed an approach, and on the 14th she missed a putt, so it was not until the 16th that the match ended when Mrs. Tyson ran down a birdie.

Mrs. Hill Was Medalist.

Both Miss Page and Mrs. Hill played erratic golf, with Miss Page probably better on the last nine than Mrs. Hill was on the first nine, where she held an advantage. In the qualifying round Monday Mrs. Hill won medalist honors with a 75, seven under women's par and only two over men's par, and Miss Page taking a 79.

Mrs. Lifur's long game was poor today, while Mrs. Tyson was consistently good from tee to the green on nearly every hole.

BRAVES CAPTURE 11 INNING GAME FROM PHILS, 9-8

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Braves won a thrilling eleven inning contest from the Phillies here today, 9 to 8, to take a two to one lead in the series. Rabbit Maranville, the veteran shortstop of the visitors, was the kingpin in the triumph. He blasted out four hits and handled ten chances in the field without an error. Score:

MYRA GUY WINS GRAND CIRCUIT TROT IN 4 HEATS

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Myra Guy, owned by W. J. McDonald of Boston, and driven by William Leese, beat a field of seven in the classified trot event of the Grand Circuit card here today after four heats were run. Bither, owned by Harry Stokes, won the first heat, Myra Guy the second, and Earl Pitman came on with Miss Neva to win the third heat, due to a break by Leese's mare. In the deciding heat the three raced it out, Myra Guy getting the decision in a thrilling finish.

CHICAGO LOSES, 15-4, IN PRINTERS' BASEBALL MEET

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 29. — (AP) — Washington, Cincinnati, and Pittsburgh will compete tomorrow for the International Typographical union baseball championship. Because Sunday baseball is prohibited here two games will be played tomorrow. In the games today Washington defeated Chicago, 15 to 4; Cincinnati beat Detroit, 17 to 13, and Pittsburgh triumphed over New York, 3 to 2.

Panama Al Brown Stops Johnny Vacca in 3d Round

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Panama Al Brown, 122, world's bantamweight champion, won on a technical knockout over Johnny Vacca, 123, Boston, in the third round of a ten round nontitle bout here tonight. Brown opened a deep gash over Vacca's left eye in the second round and Referee Young McAuliffe halted the battle at the close of the round.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Mislaid Message

Bob Shows an Englishman How We Fish

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LAKE OF THE WOODS, KENORA, Ont., Aug. 29.—"Spinning" for black bass is one of the greatest sports on the whole angling program, and our American "spinning reels" are the finest made. Moreover, the free open waters of the United States and Canada, where any one can fish without leasing the water and where the sporty small mouth bass is found, represents a system and also more fishing than the average Englishman can understand.

These are the deductions of an English surgeon-sportsman, with whom we fished yesterday. We found the bass on the job, and the fun of catching the high jumping bronze backs was voted by this visiting Englishman to be the best fun he had ever had, not even excepting days on English trout streams, because, as he explained, most of the latter are so hard fished that getting a string is difficult.

Needless to say, a full day with this English sportsman, Dr. G. Luker, F. R. C. S., of Bournemouth, England, was an opportunity for learning a lot of synonyms for our American fishing terms. For example, that "spinning" business. Spinning is the English term for what we call casting. We take it that they spin for salmon in England. A spinning rod is a long, two handed rod used for the sport. Dr. Luker has one here. It's a regular whale, heavy, nine feet long, and made of greenheart. The reel on it is a wooden drum. This outfit makes our slim, light, 5½ foot bamboo rods and single action or automatic reels look like playthings.

Yesterday we had the doctor try one of our high grade American reels, a 15 pound line, and a whippy five foot rod, for what he calls "trailing." This is the English for trolling. The word had us fooled for a few minutes, but we finally caught on, so we trailed for bass, inasmuch as he could not cast.

The small mouth black bass, a new fish to our English friend, were striking beautifully, so it was a regular circus to watch 'em put on their show for this English angler. As soon as he started to fight his first fish we heard the click on his reel. Thinking he had forgotten to push it off, we leaned over and quickly snapped it, so that the reel ran free. But that was quite against the English custom. He was much surprised that we did not leave on the "ratchet," as they call the click on our reels, because in England one fights his fish with the ratchet in full action.

After hooking and landing three or four good sized bass (they ran up to three pounds plus) the doctor voted the small mouth a wonderful game fish, but he turned thumbs down on the pike (Esox lucius), which they also have in England and which they condemn as a destroyer of other fish.

HOOVER EAGER TO SPEED WORK ON POSTOFFICES

His Aids Will Report Progress Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Progress made by the treasury and postoffice departments in expediting the government's half billion dollar public buildings program will be reported to President Hoover at the Rapidan fishing camp tomorrow.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Ferry K. Heath and John W. Philip, fourth assistant postmaster general, the two government officials having direct charge of public building work left Washington with President Hoover, for the camp this afternoon and will present reports tomorrow.

These officials carried statistics disclosing the number of projects under way, the number of contracts let for new postoffices and public buildings since the President asked that public building be expedited last March and the amount of money available for construction work this fiscal year.

Third of Program.

President Hoover was represented today as anxious to accelerate the public buildings program in states most seriously affected by unemployment caused by the drought and general business conditions.

Inquiry today disclosed that the building program embraces more than 600 projects and contemplates the expenditure of at least 568 millions over a period of ten years. Less than one-third of this program, begun two years ago, has been completed although officials said today that 60 per cent of the projects soon will be under way. The program contemplated the expenditure of $50,000,000 annually.

Contracts for 90 Buildings.

Thus far about ninety postoffices and other government buildings have been completed and contracts for the construction of eighty or ninety others have been awarded. Contracts are being awarded at the rate of ten or twelve a month. Funds available for carrying on projects during this fiscal year include $58,290,000 left over from last year and $38,000,000 in new appropriations, a total of just under 100 million dollars.

Although funds are available for beginning the Chicago postoffice, it will be several months before a contract will be awarded for this structure. The postoffice department definitely has decided to build an air rights building and negotiations for a site over the railroads at Van Buren street will be resumed next week.

Funeral Services Today for Customs Service Vet

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. today at the chapel at 5525 North Clark street for Capt. Ernest Eugene Warren, who since 1923 has been assistant controller of customs in the Chicago district. Controller of Customs Leslie M. Glenn, superior of Capt. Warren, will head a delegation of customs attachés which will attend the funeral. Interment will be at Glen Oak cemetery. Capt. Warren died of a heart attack at his home at 1409 Gregory street on Wednesday. He is survived by a widow. He was 63 years old.

Body of Young Railway Clerk Found in Canal

Seeing what appeared to be a drowning man in the drainage canal at Kedzie avenue late yesterday, Joseph Bykowski, a truck driver of 1325 Walton street, jumped from his truck, dove in and brought ashore the body of Howard P. Jones, 22 year old railway clerk of 4632 South Campbell avenue. Jones, who had been dead several days, disappeared from his home last Tuesday while brooding over the condition of his wife, Catherine, now recovering from an operation in St. Bernard's hospital.

W. F. ARMKNECHT, G. O. P. LEADER IN 15TH WARD, DIES

William F. Armknecht, 54 years old, 2004 Webster avenue, real estate dealer and prominent for many years in Republican politics in the Fifteenth ward, died at his home last night following a long illness. He was for twenty-three years secretary of the Fifteenth Ward Building and Loan association and for several years past was president of the St. Hedwig parish committee.

Mr. Armknecht for a number of years was a political lieutenant in the ward of the late Joseph Haas. He is survived by his widow, Mary, and his three children, Bruno and Henry Armknecht and Mrs. Casimir Laseck.

DISABLED LINER IS TOWED 1,300 MILES TO PORT

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Towed 1,300 miles by a coast guard cutter and convoyed by another, the American export liner Express, with 11 passengers aboard, returned to Hoboken today after being disabled in mid-Atlantic on her way to Greece.

The Champlain and the Mendota went to the aid of the Express Aug. 2, when they intercepted messages saying her engines had broken down and she was helpless in an angry sea. The cutters carrying coast guard cadets from the academy at New London, Conn., alternated in bringing the ship to port.

Rites Will Be Held Today for Tom Killian

Funeral services for Tom Killian, 38 years old, Chicago newspaper man who died Thursday night of a throat infection at the Keystone hospital, will be held at 9:30 a. m. today at St. Stephen's Episcopal church, 3533 North Albany avenue. The Rev. Irwin St. John Tucker, himself a newspaper man, will read the service. The pallbearers, all active newspaper men, will be Tom Bashaw, Dan Coleman, Orville Dwyer, Willard Edwards, W. Boyd Gatewood and John P. Lally. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

RICH MAN'S SON CAPTURED IN ACT OF ROBBING BANK

Scottsville, Ky., Aug. 29.—(AP)—A lone bandit, armed with two guns and disguised with a mask and smoked glasses, was captured in an attempt to hold up the People's State bank here today. Officials of the bank said he had about $20,000 in a sack which he dropped when caught.

Sheriff W. N. Cook, identified the robber as Carl Wilson, hardware dealer and son of R. E. Wilson, wealthy resident of Scottville.

Wilson's failure to lock the vault, where he had herded employés and customers, led to his capture.

Flee with $1,500 from Bank.

Norris City, Ill., Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Norris City State bank was robbed of between $1,500 and $2,000 at 1 p. m. today by three young men, who escaped in an automobile.

Two of the men entered the bank and locked T. M. Edmonds, the cashier, and his son, Lloyd, in the vault, then took all cash in sight.

W. M. CUNDIFF, BRYAN DOUBLE, DIES IN CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—The state department was notified today that William M. Cundiff, who was appointed to a position in the department by William Jennings Bryan when the latter was secretary of state, died at the Emergency hospital here following an operation.

Mr. Cundiff bore a striking resemblance to the late "commoner" and was known as "Bryan's double." At the Democratic national convention at Denver in 1908 he seconded the nomination of Mr. Bryan for President, and that year accompanied the latter on a country-wide campaign tour.

It is related that on a number of occasions when Mr. Bryan was greatly fatigued Mr. Cundiff substituted for him in making speeches from the rear end of the Bryan train, and that his resemblance to the presidential candidate gave the audiences the impression that they were listening to Bryan himself.

TWO HELD IN ROBBERY.

Arrested on Aug. 16 in an attempted robbery of a Western Union telegraph office at 1111 Lawrence avenue, Edward Springman, 19 years old, 5406 Winthrop avenue, was held to the grand jury in $10,000 bonds yesterday by Judge Burke in Boys' court, and Earl Snook, 22 years old, 4919 Sheridan road, in bonds of $2,000 as an accessory.

So MANY WOMEN, so many men can barely finish out the day. Even mid-afternoon finds them tired . . . listless.

What a difference if they only realized the importance of correct diet. Diet which contains enough "bulk" to rid the system of poisons that sap strength and lead to serious disease!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies this needed "bulk" to millions of happy, energetic people. It is the largest-selling all-bran cereal on the market. It prevents and relieves both temporary and recurring constipation.

Try it—and notice the difference in the way you feel. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily—three times daily in severe cases. Relief is guaranteed. Look for the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Betty Nuthall, Lott Lose in Mixed Doubles

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 29. — (AP) — Betty Nuthall of England and George Lott of Chicago, defending champions of the national mixed doubles tennis tournament, were eliminated in the semi-final round by Marjorie Morrill of Dedham, Mass., and Frank Shields, of New York, 6-2, 6-4, here today on the Longwood turf.

Their defeat prevented the British star from making a clean sweep of the American Woman's titles, for she had won the national singles and half of the doubles titles last Sunday at Forest Hills, N. Y.

Miss Morrill and Shields repulsed the British girl's service with such fury she was broken during the third game. Lott was unable to control his drives in the fifth. The champions tried to rally in the second set and did hold their own for six games. Miss Nuthall was again broken in the seventh game, double faulting the last point. From that point on Miss Morrill and Shields held their lead.

Miss Morrill and Shields will clash with Edith Cross, San Francisco, and Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., in tomorrow's final.

NOTRE DAME AND PENN SIGN FOR 4 YEAR SERIES

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 29.—[Special.]—Following a conference here today between Knute Rockne, Notre Dame coach, and Lou Young, chairman of the Pennsylvania football committee, it was announced that games would be played between teams of the two universities for the next four years, instead of two as originally scheduled.

Notre Dame comes to Franklin field Nov. 8 this year and Penn returns the visit on the corresponding Saturday in 1931. Notre Dame will again visit Philadelphia Nov. 5, 1932, and Nov. 4 of the following year Penn goes to South Bend.

...S. AND BRITISH ...OLO PONIES ARE ...READY FOR PLAY

...trina, Laura Favored by American Fans.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

...ew York, Aug. 29.—The four ...et stars of the polo world are ...ed at the army polo center on ...d Island. The American string is ...playing host to its 60 British ...ers. A lot of the privately owned ...ies are there, too, for it is from ...e spot of meadowland that the ...ur vans go across the island to the ...ent daily practice matches in an...ipation of the international games ...ening a week from tomorrow.

...ost of the mounts were living the ...e of Reilly today, for there was a ...of polo playing and only the Brit...reserves were riding. Slim and ...ut those long nosed automobiles ...ou see parked on the fields ...the matches, the stars of both ...ms were paraded for visitors. ...atrina and Laura, said to be thor...thbreds, were the most popular of ...e string owned by the United States ...o association. This is the first ...e the association has gathered a ...up of its own. In the past play...in American international teams ...ave either owned their mounts or ...ve been mounted through the gen...sity of wealthy polo players. This ...e the association decided to take ...n of candidates for the squad who ...ld not afford to provide large ...ings.

Use Private Mounts, Too.

...There will, of course, be privately ...ned mounts used in the matches by ...e American players, but not all of ...em have been played in the test ...atches. Many private owners do ...ot care to lend their mounts for prac...ce but are eager to see them in in...ernational games.

...Katrina and Laura, described by ...enry Hitchcock as two of the ...greatest polo mounts he has ever rid...den, were bred on the same Argentine ...anch, but came to America by wide...ly different routes.

...Katrina is a slim, gray mare that ...was direct to the association from ...Ira Land of the Argentine. Laura, ...older and not quite as tall, came to ...America by way of California. She ...was in the Manuel Andrada string and ...was purchased by the association ...after the South American star had ...used her in the matches on the ...east coast last winter. Hitchcock has ...been playing them both recently, and ...says Laura who booted the ball ...right for a goal the other day.

...Flirtation, an English bred mare on the ...Katrina string, has shown great ...speed and has been popular with the ...spectators at the test matches.

One Home Bred Pony.

...There is only one home bred pony ...in the association lot, Blue Cloud, ...bred in California. Blue Cloud has ...been owned by Winston Guest in the ...past matches, as has Firpo, the vet...eran. It was the midnight black Firpo, ...an Argentine gelding, that carried ...Lieut. Milburn on some of his ...sensational charges in the 1927 games. ...Lent, however, has his own mounts ...for use in particular, Lovely Lady, ...undoubtedly will star in the coming ...games. Two other veterans of the ...1927 games with the British, both ...privately owned, may serve Guest dur...ing this season. One is Judy, blue rib...bon winner and champion in Meadow...brook shows, owned by Stephen "Lad...die" Sanford, the other is an English ...mare owned by W. A. ...Hitchcock has been giving his own ...string a good workout and Toughy, ...Lieut. Margot, Shadow, and Chico have ...served him well. Tohiano, a Hitchcock ...mount that got the biggest hand from ...the gallery in the 1928 series with the ...Argentines, may not be played this ...year due to a slight leg injury. ...Tohiano is a speedy piebald gelding ...that makes a striking appearance. ...Eric Pedley has been riding mounts ...for Charles B. Wrightsman's Los ...Angeles stables. The rich westerner ...has twelve ponies east for Pedley to ...ride in the test games. Faith, China, ...Buena, Toodles, and Traveler have ...been up in good form. Faith is an ...8 year old roan mare. She won a ...national horse society medal in 1929 ...and has played four seasons on the ...Pacific coast. Bueno is a chestnut ...mare, fast and a good weight carrier. ...Traveler is a 10 year old brown ...gelding, probably the fastest on the ...list.

Hopping Has Two Favorites.

...J. A. S. Hopping, when playing on ...an international team, has been provided with several mounts from the ...A. C. Schwartz stables. He also has ...taken an English mare, Flower Bed, ...brought to Long Island last summer ...by the elder Hopping and now owned ...by G. G. Moore. Hopping's two favorite ponies from the Schwartz string ...have been Clockwork and Boulto, a ...chestnut gelding that came to America ...with the army-in-India squad.

...Among the private owners with ...strings of polo mounts at the army ...polo center are: Tommy Hitchcock ...Jr., A. C. Schwartz, G. G. Moore, W. ...C. Guest, C. B. Wrightsman, E. J. ...Baldwin Jr., J. H. Whitney, G. H. ...Bostwick, S. Sanford, H. E. Talbott ...Jr., H. H. Knox, and R. Lehman. It ...is Mr. Lehman, who owns Citroen, the ...Argentine gelding that brought $10,000 ...at J. H. Cowdin's sale a week ago. ...Hitchcock may ride Citroen in the international games. Jupiter, the property of Laddie Sanford, is the highest priced pony in the lot, having cost $12,000.

...Duke Williams, the Texan, has three ponies at the center and Cecil Smith, also from Texas and candidate with Williams for a place on the big four, has four mounts, of which Flying Cloud is the favorite.

...The four footed English visitors on the best string ever brought here for international play stack up well against their American rivals. They will be dealt with in another story.

U. S. Army Team Wins.

...The Hurlingham four, composed of ...reserve players of the British ...Hurlingham team, lost to the United ...States army riders in a match at ...Meadow Field, L. I., this afternoon. ...The score was 9 to 7. A rally by ...Hurlingham in the eighth period ...brought hope of victory to the British, ...but the army mustered its best defense after three goals had been ...scored and ended the Hurlingham riders' chances.

PLAN 17 STORY CO-OP FLATS ON BLACKSTONE AVE.

Work Scheduled to Start Within 30 Days.

BY AL CHASE.

Work is scheduled to start within thirty days on the seventeen story co-operative apartment project told about in this department on Dec. 19, 1929, at 5810 Blackstone avenue, from plans by Henry K. Holsman. The original plans called for twelve stories but it is understood the new structure will be seventeen.

It will contain thirty suites, of five rooms each and will cost a reported $400,000. It will be erected by the Ninth Building corporation. The Henry T. Holsman company will be the selling agents of the new building.

Pair of Flats Sold.

Two south side apartment buildings were sold yesterday by Albert O'Rourke and wife to Edna K. Johnson. The larger of the pair is a sixty-two suite structure at 5424 Cornell avenue. This four story building was sold for a reported $225,000, subject to an incumbrance of $159,000. The other is a twenty-four flat building at the southeast corner of Lowe avenue and East 73d street, lot 118x125, sold for a reported $100,000, subject to $49,000. Edward Marshall was attorney.

Goodson & Wilson report the sale of the northeast corner of Keating and Devon avenues, 110x62, to an undisclosed buyer for $37,000.

G. Peter Allmendinger has let contracts for the erection of a one story building, to contain three stores, at 946-48 Rush street, to be completed Oct. 1. S. M. Polkey of McMenemy & Martin reports two of the stores leased. Walter Cohen has taken one for a chain market and Kurtzman's stationery store will occupy the other.

The six apartment building and five car garage at 2425-29 Foster avenue were sold by Rudolph and Olive B. Sickel to Albert A. and Enfma Johnson and Mrs. Selma Koeseberg for a reported $55,000, subject to $40,000, through the Lake View Real Estate exchange.

Realty Firms Picnic.

Two realty firms, Percy Wilson & Co. and H. O. Stone & Co., report picnics. The Wilson organization is to have a three day celebration, extending over today, Sunday, and Monday, for customers of the firm at the East Center development, at 159th and Halsted streets, Harvey. The Stone concern gave a picnic for 150 executives and salespeople on Thursday afternoon at its Northlake subdivision.

The Palmer Apparel shop has leased the building at 1300 Milwaukee avenue from Samuel H. Wolk for twenty years. This will be the concern's twenty-eighth shop. Cerf & Ehrenhalt were brokers.

WOOLEN CONCERN SHOWS ANOTHER 6 MONTH DEFICIT

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The American Woolen company today reported for the first half a deficit of $2,543,104, compared with a deficit of $2,499,159 in the first half last year.

The company's balance sheet as of June 30 showed current assets of $58,296,366, current liabilities of $2,138,501, and working capital of $56,157,865. As of June 30 last year current assets were $69,406,116, current liabilities $8,398,608, and working capital $61,007,509. Inventories June 30 this year were $26,774,288, compared with $40,411,147 June 30 last year.

Loft, Inc., Controls Mirror, Happiness Candy Stores

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Officials of Loft, Inc., candy store operators, announced today the purchase of a controlling interest in the Happiness and Mirror candy stores from the United Cigar Stores of America.

The sale carried with it the resignation of all Mirror and Happiness officers and directors and the election of Loft executives to their posts. The combined companies operate 155 stores, employ more than 6,000 workers, and transact sales in excess of $18,000,000 annually, officials said.

DIVIDEND OMITTED BY THE OLIVER FARM EQUIPMENT COMPANY

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Directors of the Oliver Farm Equipment company have omitted the quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the convertible participating preferred due at this time. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 on the prior preferred was declared, payable Oct. 1, to stock of record Sept. 10.

Directors explained that in view of the present unsettled condition of agriculture in the United States it was deemed advisable to omit the dividend to conserve the company's cash resources.

M. W. Ellis, president, said that although the sales volume for the first half this year was about equal to that of the preceding year, profits were somewhat lower, because of the fact that sales of tractors were on a reduced basis pending the design and introduction of a complete new line. Production of the new line now is under way, he said, in preparation for next season's domestic and export business.

Directors of the Celotex company have omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred due Oct. 1. The Scoville Manufacturing company declared a dividend of 75 cents a share. Previously quarterly payments of $1 were made. An extra dividend of 10 cents a share was declared by Parke, Davis & Co., in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 25 cents a share.

Hugh J. Perry, treasurer of the Packard Motor Car company, said today it is his opinion "that our directors have no thought" of omitting the dividend due in December. He added the company's cash position is currently around $18,000,000 "and there is no reason for apprehension." In June the directors declared a dividend of 2½ cents, payable Sept. 12 to stock of record Aug. 15, covering the third quarter.

THREE PERSONS, TEN COMPANIES INDICTED IN NEW YORK FAILURE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 29.—Three individuals and ten corporations are named defendants in two indictments which the federal grand jury handed up today as the result of its investigation of the affairs of the Consolidated Factors corporation which went into bankruptcy April 26, last, with liabilities of about $4,500,000, and assets of from $1,000,000 to $1,600,000.

One indictment, in which five defendants only are named, charges use of the mails to defraud and conspiracy. The other, naming three individuals and nine corporations, charges unlawful destruction and falsification of books, records and documents in contemplation of bankruptcy and conspiracy.

Those named in the first indictment are Leon S. Pelz, secretary and treasurer of the corporation; Oscar Greenstein, president; Pelz-Greenstein company, Inc.; Consolidated Factors corporation, the same concern renamed, and A. J. Roberts & Co., Inc., a stock selling concern, organized by Consolidated Factors, allegedly to boost the market price of the stock.

Those named in the second indictment are Pelz, Greenstein, Maurice Saqui of E. Heller and Brother, Inc., which is also named a defendant; Consolidated Factors corporation, Pelz-Greenstein company, Inc.; Blondel Textile Mills, Inc.; Madison Distributing company, Inc.; Lincoln-Potter company, Inc.; G. W. Sterling & Co., Inc.; Madison Textile corporation, and Bernice Silk corporation.

At the present time it appears, according to the government, that well known New York banks will divide a $2,000,000 loss between them, while investors in Consolidated Factors stock will lose about $500,000.

WARNER BROS. EARNS $11,765,265 FOR 39 WEEKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 29.—Warner Brothers' Pictures announced today for the thirty-nine weeks ended May 31 consolidated net profit of $11,765,265 after all charges and taxes, equal after preferred dividend requirements to $4.27 a share on 2,673,927 average common shares outstanding during the period and $4.03 a share on 2,871,182 common shares outstanding at the close of the year.

This compares with net profit of $10,759,705, or $3.56 a share after all charges on 1,185,826 shares outstanding in the corresponding period of last year.

Net profit reported for the 1930 period does not include any equity in earnings of newly acquired affiliated companies during the period prior to date of acquisition.

Commercial Credit to Buy Aviation Credit Stock

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Negotiations have been completed whereby Commercial Credit company will offer to purchase all of the outstanding stock of Aviation Credit corporation, continent upon acceptance by holders of at least 90 per cent of Aviation Credit stock. The price, which it was said will approximate $23 a share, will be announced after an audit of Aviation Credit corporation is compiled Aug. 30.

REVEAL PLANS FOR ANOTHER BIG OIL MERGER

Embraces Assets of $316,000,000.

The New York and Chicago stock exchanges, the Chicago Board of Trade, and other principal security and commodity markets of the country will suspend trading for three days, beginning today and lasting over Labor day. Banks will be open today, but will be closed Monday.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Plans for another big oil merger embracing two companies with total assets of $316,000,000 were announced last night. The executive committees of the Independent Oil and Gas company and the Phillips Petroleum company have agreed on terms and conditions for consolidation, according to a joint statement issued by R. C. Sharp and Frank Phillips, presidents of the companies.

The basis for the merger is an exchange of Independent Oil and Gas stock for Phillips Petroleum stock based on approximate book values of the two companies as of July 31, 1930. The agreement is subject to approval of the Phillips Petroleum directors and Independent Oil and Gas directors and stockholders as may be necessary. No change in the management, headquarters or employés of either company is contemplated.

"The consolidation will have total assets of $316,000,000, of which over $80,000,000 has been charged to reserves of all kinds," the announcement says. "Net cash and current assets will amount to more than $40,000,000. The physical properties of the two companies are of such character as to effect an immediate reduction in capital expenditures and are so located as to supplement each other without duplication, thus contributing to the natural economies of this consolidation amounting to several million dollars annually."

The annual report of Phillips Petroleum for 1929 showed total assets of $145,384,954. There now are 2,670,813 shares of no-par capital stock outstanding with a book value, based on last year's report, of about $37.48 a share. The company has a funded debt of $35,472,000. Net income for 1929 was $13,212,591, or $4.94 a share on the present capital stock. The company had 2,954 wells in operation, chiefly in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, and produced 12,437,089 barrels of crude oil at 44 plants.

Independent Oil and Gas at the end of 1929 had 1,362,295 shares of no-par stock outstanding and total assets of $46,205,824. There was $3,189,500 of funded debt. The book value of the shares was about $28.92 a share. Net income was $5,882,180, or $4.32 a share. It had 833 wells in Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas, Arkansas, Michigan, Colorado, New Mexico and California and produced 10,120,000 barrels of crude oil.

A brighter picture of the oil industry was painted yesterday by C. M. Fuller, president of the Richfield Oil company, who was in Chicago attending the national air races.

"The oil situation is better than at any time in years," he said. "It is nearer a balance between production and consumption. Pro-ration agreements or laws in the chief producing states are in effect and, while the laws in some states are being contested, there is a better spirit of voluntary coöperation among both producers and refiners.

"There is no such vast potential supply of crude oil as has been commonly reputed. This belief has been due to misunderstanding over estimates of potential production. For example, potential daily production of California is estimated in excess of 1,000,000 barrels a day. But this production is fixed partly by taking the average output of new wells for five days after they come in. This is flush production, which usually declines soon thereafter. The same is true of other districts.

"California has reduced its production below 600,000 barrels a day. On this basis production is only about 55 per cent of 'potential output.' But it is likely, even under pro-ration, that the wells are producing not much under their real capacity. So the proration, on the whole, is no hardship for most producers."

Mr. Fuller said the recent announced German process of producing refined products by hydrogenation is still in an experimental stage and that the cost of the process prevents it at present from being used in commercial production of gasoline.

Mather Only 'An Onlooker' in Steel War

Youngstown, O., Aug. 29.—(AP)—William G. Mather, millionaire steel and ore executive of Cleveland, revealed himself today as a passive onlooker in the battle over the Youngstown Sheet and Tube-Bethlehem Steel merger. But he told Judge David Jenkins that he thought the merger group, in deference to the wishes of Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, should have been less hasty in putting the deal through.

Mr. Mather appeared voluntarily, at the court's request, as a witness in the suit brought by the Eaton interests to enjoin the merger. He is a member of the wealthy Mather family of Cleveland, a large part of whose holdings were voted in favor of the merger. He also is an associate with Eaton in the Cliffs corporation, a holding company, on a 50-50 stock ownership basis.

Kept Eaton in Dark.

Although Mr. Mather knew about the merger negotiations between Youngstown and Bethlehem executives last Feb. 23, he testified today he made no effort to tell Mr. Eaton before March 7.

That was the date when Eaton, who has large holdings in Sheet and Tube stock, was "astonished," according to his own testimony, to learn from Henry G. Dalton for the first time that merger negotiations had been carried on and terms arranged without his knowledge.

Mather said he did not tell his business associate because he had a "tacit understanding" with Dalton when the latter met him in New York on Feb. 23 that they would postpone telling Eaton for a while.

Had Little to Say.

Dalton, in addition to holding places on the boards of Youngstown and Bethlehem, is also a partner in Pickands, Mather & Co., which was aligned with the merger group.

About March 2 or 3 both Mather and Dalton were back in Cleveland and a day or so later Eaton returned from a southern trip. The meeting at which the news was conveyed to Eaton was held in Mather's office on March 7.

Mather testified that he had "very little to say" at this meeting, but sided with Eaton in the financier's argument that he, as a large stockholder, should have been given time to consider the proposal. About this same time Mather said he was informed that a meeting of Sheet and Tube directors had been called for March 10, when terms recommending an exchange of one and a third shares of Bethlehem stock for one of Youngstown were to be recommended for approval.

Q. R. S.-DE VRY SHOWS FISCAL LOSS OF $667,482

The annual report of the Q. R. S.-De Vry corporation, issued by President T. M. Pletcher, shows a net loss for the fiscal year ended June 30 of $667,482. In the previous year the company had a net operating loss of $382,777, which was offset by profit made on the sale of securities of $661,982, resulting in net income for the year of $205,062.

President Pletcher, in a letter to stockholders, said that the close of the year marked the end of a three year period of reorganization which began when the radio and other forms of entertainment cut into the company's music roll business. Production is now concentrated in moving picture cameras, neon tubing, and musical toys.

The balance sheet shows current assets of $1,462,087 and current liabilities of $615,188, as compared with $1,857,556 and $269,086, respectively, at the close of the preceding fiscal year. Inventories increased from $759,179 on June 30, 1929, to $905,448 on June 30, 1930. Total assets are carried at $3,989,110, against $4,205,220 last year.

Goodyear Tire Sells Its Rubber Chain Division

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Goodyear Tire and Rubber company has sold its rubber chain division to the United States Chain and Forging company of Pittsburgh. The purchase price was not announced.

GOLD SHIPMENTS TO FRANCE ARE RESUMED AFTER 2 WEEK PERIOD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 29.—Gold shipments to Paris were resumed today after an interval of about two weeks with the announcement that Lazard Freres were sending $3,500,000 on the Europa, sailing tonight for Cherbourg. No previous shipment had been made since Aug. 13, when $8,809,000 went forward in two consignments.

The present shipment will bring the total shipments from this port to Paris since the second week in July to $64,810,000.

LEADING AUTO MAKERS HAVE HAD A SHARP DECREASE IN SALES VOLUME THIS YEAR

BIG BOARD REPORTS AUGUST BUSINESS AS LOWEST IN 2 YEARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 29.—The volume of transactions on the New York stock exchange for August was the smallest of any previous month in two years. The total fell below 40,000,000 shares, less than half the amount transacted in August last year and approximately 90,000,000 shares below the record for all time in October of last year.

Business languished this month. Only on five occasions did the daily total exceed 2,000,000 shares. The initial session of the month recorded the smallest volume since June 25, 1928. Bonds were comparatively dull, falling about $25,000,000 below the total for July. Curb stock trades were also considerably reduced from recent months, while bonds on that exchange approximated last month's total.

The average renewal rate for call money this month was 2.177 per cent, the lowest average monthly rate since September, 1924, which had an average of 2.08 per cent. The high for the money was 2½ per cent and the low 2 per cent. The average for July was 2.226 per cent and for August last year 8.19 per cent.

MORE RAILROAD JULY INCOMES ARE REPORTED

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—July net operating income of the first 73 railroad to report the result of July operations totaled $62,190,000, an increase of 18.9 per cent over figures for the same roads for June. On the basis of earnings reported to date, the net operating income for all class 1 roads for July approximated $82,500,000, against $122,782,809 in July last year and $95,230,587 in July, 1928.

Roads reporting today, with comparative figures for July last year, included:

	1930.	1929.
Seaboard Air Line	$190,460	$775,766
Kansas City Southern	476,133	466,257
Pittsburgh and W. Va.	153,083	202,527
Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis	267,312	441,408
Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville	65,520	210,046
Central of Georgia	278,084	363,778
Gulf, Mobile & Northern	2,606	96,325

Canadian Pacific net for July was $3,213,056, compared with $3,892,657 in July, 1929. For the first seven months of this year net amounted to $12,819,109, against $20,249,488 for the corresponding period last year.

Formation of Portland General Electric Company

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Formation of the Portland General Electric company to take over the electric properties of Pacific Northwest Public Service company, was announced today by Franklin T. Griffith, president of Pacific Northwest. The step is part of a plan by Pacific Northwest to segregate its electric, gas, and railway properties into separate operating companies. Seattle Gas company will own and operate the gas properties. The subsidiaries will be owned by the Pacific Northwest Public Service company, which in turn is one of the subholding companies of the Central Public Service system.

Reviews See Evidence of Business Gain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 29.—With the approach of autumn, wholesalers and jobbers notice a quickened demand, while a better undertone is observed in business generally, according to the weekly reviews of the commercial agencies.

"The first stirrings of seasonal fall buying, noted in mid August coincident with the numerous 'market weeks' and other similar gatherings held in many cities, are noticeably more visible this week at New York and Chicago," says Bradstreet's. This agency's special census of New York City trade this week shows a 'gain over last week in the moving up from quiet to the fair grade of additional lines not reported in last week's issue.'"

Bradstreet's also reports that there "has also been, in addition to the ordinary buying at reduced price of summer goods, an awakening of the usual seasonal buying of children's clothing and school supplies, preliminary to the opening of educational institutions in September, which may need normally cooler weather to swell to larger totals."

Expansion Is Seasonal.

"The net trade expansion, while visible when compared with the quiet of July and every August, is as yet regarded as mainly seasonal, as is also the reported moderate expansion in sales of merchant iron and production of ingot steel," Bradstreet's continues.

"The latter development, by the way, is accompanied by two rather diverse movements—viz., slight declines in prices of bars, black and galvanized sheets and wire goods, as against further advances in scrap steel and an increase in tin plate specifications. Coke prices are also firmer. More has been doing in some grades of finished cotton goods, some of this at better prices, based on the higher range of raw cotton this week.

"The total volume of trade and production is necessarily still well below a year ago, but there are increased evidences in the reports of small stocks held in first and second hands of what may be the mainspring of further and larger buying as autumn approaches.

Dun Sees Gains.

"As August closes and with the last holiday of the summer pending, it is possible to discern a better undertone in business," says Dun's. "There is no disposition to magnify the importance of the change, yet the more cheerful sentiment is encouraging, and it has the support of increased activity in certain quarters.

"Any start in the right direction at this time, however slight and although not generally manifest, is considered significant as an indication of further gains to come. If precedent is to be followed, at least some measure of trade expansion is foreshadowed now, and the unusually low point to which operations already have fallen enhances the likelihood of a more favorable trend."

Commercial failures for the week totaled 471, compared with 436 last week and 365 a year ago, R. G. Dun & Co. reports. The only reduction this week from last week was in the south, while increases were shown in every section over the figures for last year.

BORDEN MILK ACQUIRES IOWA ICE CREAM CO.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Hutchinson Ice Cream company of Cedar Rapids together with its 27 plants in other Iowa cities has been taken over by a transfer of stock by the Borden Milk company.

While the amount involved was not made public, it was reported to be around $3,000,000. The Hutchinson company will continue under its present name and with the same officers and personnel in the various plants.

Stockholders in the Hutchinson company are to receive a substantial interest in the Borden company and will retain their interest in the Iowa business.

Zonite Products Offers 140,785 Added Shares

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Zonite Products company has offered to stockholders 140,785 additional shares at $10 each in the ratio of one new share for each five held. The additional stock will bring the total outstanding to 845,556 shares.

NEWS BULLISH, SO CORN SHORTS DASH FOR COVER

September Close Is Near to Dollar.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Corn traders are looking for the private crop estimates on Tuesday to be sensationally bullish. A rumor that a leading local statistician's preliminary figures suggested a yield of only 1,950,000,000 bu, or 252,000,000 bu less than the government Aug. 1, returns started a buying movement that swept the December up 3¼c over Thursday's finish to a high of 96½c, with commission houses headed by Clement, Curtis & Co. and leading professionals aggressive buyers.

Shorts in corn were stampeded into covering, and sellers of offers were forced to protect themselves on the way up. The bulge was checked by profit taking and selling against bids. The late weakness in wheat also had some effect, but the finish was at net gains of 2½c. September closed at 99¾@99½c; December, 94¾@95c, and May, 98¾@98¾c.

Fear Heavy Damage.

Despite the rains over the corn belt during the past few weeks and more moderate temperatures, the condition of the crop is said to have declined steadily over a wide area, and to have more than offset improvement in other sections. Should the estimates be in accord with the trades views the yield would be only 400,000,000 bu in excess of the small crop of 1901 and the smallest per capita in a great many years. It is understood that one of the local statisticians is inclined to feel that conditional figures on the crop this season are almost valueless owing to the unusually large number of barren stalks and unfilled ears.

The country took advantage of the bulge to sell 175,000 bu old corn to arrive, mainly at 99¾@$1.01½, the latter price being ¼c better than was paid for No. 2 yellow in the sample market. The sales had some effect on the September for a while, but the nearby delivery closed strong. There was only 25,000 bu regular for delivery on future contracts in public elevators at the close of business on Aug 23, the balance of the 188,000 bu in store being in special bins.

December corn went to a premium of 4c over December wheat yesterday and the March and May went to a fractional premium over wheat for the first time this season. It was said that some traders who had wheat sold as a hedge against purchases of corn bought in their wheat during the day and held the corn.

September Wheat Weakens.

There was some talk during the day of a heat wave developing over the corn belt within a few days, which led to some buying. The official forecast indicated slightly warmer, but with showers in many sections.

Liquidation developed in September wheat toward the last, and while the market was firm early, with wheat around 1c over Thursday's finish, the close was around the inside figures of the day, with a net loss of 1¼c on the nearby future. The deferred months were unchanged to ⅜c lower.

Selling of September was by scattered longs who were afraid of fairly liberal deliveries on contracts Tuesday. This caused a widening of the discount under the December to 5⅞c at the last. September closed at 85¼@85⅜c, the inside figure being within ⅜c of the lowest of the season. December was 91@91½c, and May, 98⅜@98½c at the last.

Cash Houses Buy September.

Cash houses bought September and sold December wheat during the day and it is expected that around 3,000,000 bu will be delivered on September contracts on Tuesday. Reports of a better export demand, with sales of 400,000 bu at the seaboard, and 35,000 bu sold by Chicago handlers to exporters, failed to have much effect on the market. Winnipeg was unchanged to ⅛c higher for the day, while Liverpool was ⅜@½d higher, despite reports of cheap Russian offerings.

Heavy rains would be beneficial in parts of the pampas and the northern

Wheat Pool Chief Irked by Criticism

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Using the slogan, "No tombstone for the wheat pool," J. F. Bryant, minister of public works for Saskatchewan, today told directors of the Canadian national exhibition that western farmers resent attacks on the co-operative venture.

"Saskatchewan expects every man to do his duty," he said. "We are going to take our hats off to the past and our coats off for the future."

Those who expect the pool to be ruined by "bootlegging" of wheat to nonpool elevators for higher prices do not understand the wheat farmer, Mr. Bryant added.

He announced that a world's grain show and congress would be held in Regina in 1932 with a prize list of $200,000. He urged Ontario farmers to enter their products in competition with Saskatchewan growers, who have won ten world's wheat championships in Chicago from 1910 to 1929.

New Law on Grain.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Canada's new grain act, revised at the last session of parliament, will go into effect Monday, Sept. 1, bringing to farmers and elevator operators a new set of regulations for the marketing of wheat.

Mixing of the four top grades of wheat, revealed as a common practice in investigations by the Saskatchewan grain commission last year, is prohibited under the new act. The revised law more clearly defines grades of wheat, oats, barley, flax and rye.

Ships Jam in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Aug. 29.—(AP)—With 65 lake boats tied up in the port of Montreal awaiting their turns to unload grain into elevators, a period of unemployment faced their crews today.

The jam of lake boats in the harbor has been gradually increasing since the beginning of the harvest season until there are waiting vessels with approximately 6,000,000 bushels of grain in their holds. Elevators have 12,250,000 bushels in storage.

DURANT MOTOR SELLS FACTORY IN ELIZABETH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 29.—The Durant Motor company has sold to the Bayway Terminal company of New York City the large plant in Elizabeth, N. J., where it was reported that the motor company would manufacture French baby cars. Negotiations have been in progress for a year and a half and the purchase price is reported to be $12,000,000.

It also was learned that the terminal company, taking over the property on Tuesday next, will designate this as the Bayway terminal on the Pennsylvania railroad. The plant covers twenty-seven acres and there are 2,102,730 square feet of floor space. The Durant company bought the plant from the Willys-Knight Motor company in 1922. It has been idle since Sept. 21, 1929.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 29.—There wasn't a better behaved stock market anywhere today than the one domiciled down at the well known corner of Wall and Broad streets. With a three day holiday just around the corner every little issue—and most of the big ones, too—fairly tried itself.

Not that any joints were slipped in the effort. Trading was orderly at all times, so much so that the turnover again failed to make the 2,000,000 share mark, the total being 1,858,820 shares, only a little above Thursday's total. Price changes were kept pointed steadily upward for the most part, however, with the result that many of the more active issues had piled up net gains of 2 to 5 points or more at the end of the day. Smaller gains were general throughout the list.

Against Expectations.

The show of strength was all the more remarkable in view of the general expectations that the day would bring forth some rather heavy profit taking as a sequel to the creeping advance which has been in progress for something like a week now. Many observers, in fact, had anticipated a general move to unload against the eventualities of the three day interruption of business.

On the contrary, traders who were long on stocks showed no hesitation about carrying them over the extended holiday and such nervousness as prevailed in speculative ranks was to be found chiefly in the camp of the bears who have been hammering away for days at so-called vulnerable stocks in an effort to turn the market downward.

Buying of a fairly good character appeared in all sections and the small volume of offerings was indicative of the confidence with which traders in general view the situation. Amusement stocks, which had been harboring a substantial short account, were notably strong and many of the leading industrial favorites, such as U. S. Steel common, which recovered the SINGLE BEDROOMS with real beds are now an added feature on the Capitol Limited, all-Pullman train to Washington.

Compact, yet roomy, these private bedrooms make a real advance in travel comfort and convenience. By paying only one-quarter more than the regular fare, plus the cost of two lower berths you can enjoy all the privacy and luxury of a single bedroom.

Each room has an individual full length bed with deep box spring and soft mattress, also a thoroughly comfortable upper berth . . . two people occupy the room for the cost of only two tickets and two lower berths.

Individual facilities include hot and cold running water, dental faucet, mirrors, thermos bottle with glass, and many other little features. A drop leaf table can be quickly made available for any one of many uses. Shaded wall lights, ventilating regulator and electric fan are controlled right from the bed. By day the bed is converted into a luxuriously comfortable lounge.

...ICAGO STOCK ...CHANGE MOVES ...T LIVELY GAIT

...ctric Household and Gypsum Features.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

...ntrary to the rules which ordi...ly govern trading in pre-holiday ...ur stocks on the Chicago ex...ge were in good demand yester...day and prices moved up throughout ...ur.

...was apparent the shorts were ...ady to cover their commitments be...fore trading was suspended over ...oliday. All sections of the list ...owed strength although there was ...scarcity of general news which ...uld be construed as bullish.

...ost all the close yesterday here ...d in New York was a fitting one ...r a week which furnished a sparkle ...ong them who have been searching ...e business sky for signs of better ...ys. Not that there has been any ...ch convincing evidence of improve...ment outside of the stock market, but ...e fact liquidation yesterday was ...comparatively light and that the ...ort was covering was regarded as ...ite significant.

Gains Three Points.

...The trading here was featured by a ...ge of nearly 3 points in Electric ...usehold and an advance of 2 points ...U. S. Gypsum. Several smaller ...ins were scored by issues in all sec...ons of the list. Middle West Utili...s, under aggressive sponsorship, ...so showed briskly assuming its old ...ding role as volume leader. Reflecting ...e results shown in the half year ...ancial statement issued yesterday, ...ncoln Theaters was in good demand ...d closed above 35.

...Investment trust shares moved ...to a narrower range but showed ...me improvement, while the utilities ...group of motor issues displayed a good ...ne. Insull Utility, selling ex-rights, ...ed at 59 while the rights were ...ded at the close at 13-16.

...Promotions in Majestic Household ...ed up to about 6,000 shares, while ...ares was steady around 53. Griggs...as quiet and slightly higher.

General Theater Earnings.

...The General Theaters Equipment ...Inc. disclosed net earnings available ...for the common stock of $4,006,233, ...equivalent to $1.41 per share on the ...1,655 shares outstanding for the ...12 months ended June 30.

...Total earnings of the company for ...the period and its subsidiary and con...trolled concerns amounted to $30,067,- ...on which included film rental of the ...film corporation. After amorti...zation of films gross revenue totaled ...$37,818. The showing was made, ...the report says, despite considerable ...reduction in the income of certain ...prominent subsidiaries which was ...more than offset by the earnings of ...the film's principal subsidiary, Fox

TRIBUNE OPENS DRY LAW POL OF CANDIDATES

Provides Way t Inform Voters.

BY PARKE BROWN.

In an effort to obtain exact info nation for Illinois voters concerni the attitude toward prohibition tak by candidates for law making offic having to do directly with this subje THE TRIBUNE has undertaken a poll all the nominees for congress and the state legislature.

To each of these candidates throug out the state there has been mail a brief letter inclosing a terse qu tionnaire, which the aspirant has be requested to fill out. When the re plies have been received and tabulat they will be published in THE TRIBU

Follows Convention Action.

This effort has been made this in advance of the election of Nov because of the action taken by bo the Republicans and the Democrats state convention at Springfield sligh more than a week ago. At those me ings the nominees for United Sta senator went on record as to th ove positions, but only a few of other nominees for legislative of have been heard from specifically.

The letter addressed to each of candidates read as follows:

"In view of the recent action reference to prohibition taken by yo party in its state convention, and view of the submission of three qu tions on this subject to the voters Illinois at the election of Nov. 4, which you are a candidate, THE TR UNE believes you would be willing place before your constituents yo attitude on this subject.

Answers to Be Published.

"If you will express your views answering the inclosed questionna and will return it in the prepaid addressed envelope also inclosed, T TRIBUNE will publish your reply soon as possible after it is receiv and again immediately before elect day.

"If you desire to add any furt statement of your position on t subject, please inclose it with questionnaire."

The questions submitted to the candidates for congress—the aspir for the twenty-five district seats the two places as congressman large—concerned federal prohibit while those placed before the seek of places in the general assembly directed exclusively to the state hibition law, which is the only sub within their legislative scope. In state office group there are 177 n inees for the 153 seats in the lo house and 52 nominees for the twe six (odd numbered districts) seats the senate that are to be filled year.

Questions in Ballot Form.

Each questionnaire appears in bo form, each question being followed two squares in which the candi may mark his vote "yes" or "

The questions submitted to the fessional candidates were the fol ing:

"Do you favor repeal of the ei teenth amendment?

"Will you favor repeal of eighteenth amendment if the vot your district in the state referen of Nov. 4 favors repeal?

"Do you favor modification of Volstead act?

"Will you favor modification of Volstead act if the vote of your trict in the state referendum of favors modification?"

Cover State Law Issue.

In form these questions follow of the three that appear on the ballot on Nov. 4 throughout the

The third referendum questi covered in the questionnaire se nominees for the general asse This reads:

"Do you favor repeal of the state prohibition law?

"Will you favor repeal of the state prohibition law if the vote of district in the state referendu Nov. 4 favors repeal?"

In the 1929 general assembl Weber-O'Grady bill for the rep the state prohibition law was p by the house of representatives in the senate failed by five vot obtain the twenty-six required passage. A similar bill will b troduced. It is believed when th assembly convenes next January A poll similar to the prese was made of legislative candid the party primaries of last Apr final tabulation of this test of ment showed that 2,220 candidat the house and 85 candidates f senate were willing to vote for of the state dry law, some of qualifying with a proviso that t peal bill contain a referendum The total opposed to repeal, w without a referendum, was only
